PREFACE.

SEVERAL of my friends, from various parts of India, to whose help and sympathy I am greatly indebted for the completion of my English translations of the Rāmāyaṇa, Mahābhārata, and of other Sanskrit works, requested me to undertake an English translation of the Twenty Hindu Smṛitis which pass under the general name of Dharma-S'āstras. But I always expressed my reluctance to undertake the task, for I did not consider myself competent enough to do the same. It is only to satisfy the pressing request of a host of kind friends, to whom it is a sin to be disobliging, that I venture to undertake this most arduous work of publishing, in a collected form, the Text and a literal prose English Translation, with profuse Explanatory Notes, of all the Samhitās.

Some of these Samhitās have already been translated by some eminent scholars of the West. But no attempt has yet been made to translate all of these valuable works and publish them in a few handy volumes so that every student of Hindu Law and Literature may easily possess them for his own use. This is indeed a sad desideratum, especially in a century when so much activity is going on both in the East and West to place the intellectual and moral greatness of the ancient Hindus before the English-knowing world. The value of Samhitās as a sacred record of the life and customs of the ancient Hindus stands supreme over every other Hindu religious work, and it is but necessary that they should be made as much popular as possible. To encompass this great and sacred end that I have undertaken the present work. I have very carefully collated the Text, with the help of a number of Pundits, and after carefully going through a number of Texts both in Manuscript and print. The Translation I have attempted to make as much literal as possible, keeping an eye more on accuracy than on literary excellence. To elucidate the Text and Translation I have not hesitated in appending Notes, very carefully made out, as elaborately as possible. In my opinion translations of such technical works as Samhitās must be always very literal. And I have followed this dictum very carefully throughout the work. My object, in publishing a very carefully edited Text along with the Translation, is that the reader may go through the Translation and the Text simultaneously and learn for himself the true nature and character of the civil and ecclesiastical laws of the ancient Hindus. It is needless for me to mention here that there is not a single collected edition of the Text of the Samhitās available in this country and elsewhere. And this surely, if not any thing else, enhances the value and utility of my publication.

A careful study of the Samhitās is fraught with immense value and profit not only to the students and practitioners of law but to the general readers as well. They will, by such a study, be not only able to form an estimate of the life and conduct, so glorious and eminent in themselves, of the ancient Hindus but will also be able to regulate their own conduct in the same light and on the same line, with such healthy innovations as the environments under which they now live so urgently require. True regeneration of the Hindus depends mainly upon the regulation of their life and conduct upon national lines. And nowhere can they find greater light and help in forming their national life anew than in the Saṁhitās. Students and practitioners of law in particular will find in these works the earliest and the most genuine Texts of Hindu Laws on which they may safely base their higher studies in this most important department of Literature.

How far I have succeeded in making the Translation literal and accurate, it is not for me to pronounce any opinion. I leave it entirely to the judgment of my readers. If, however, this edition of the early Law-Texts proves successful, I shall, in a near future, undertake the Translation of all the Commentaries for the convenience and use of my legal friends and readers.

Any suggestion that my friends and readers may make for the improvement of the work will be thankfully received by me. I beg only to remind them of the fact that the present undertaking is a national work in which they all, like myself, are equally interested.

ANĠIRAS SAMHITA'.

CHAPTER I.

HAVING seen [the import of the Védás], the ascetic Āṅgiras described, from the beginning to the end, the regulations of penance for the various Varṇas amongst the duties of the order of householders. (1)

Having partaken of boiled rice from lowcaste people, twice-born persons [should perform penances]; [The learned] have laid down the Chāndráyaṇa, Kṛichha and one half-[distressing like the latter] for the Bráhmaṇas, Kshatriyas and the Vais'yas [respectively]. (2)

A washerman, cobbler, actor, Varuḍa, Kaivarta, Méda, and Bhilla,—these seven are described in the Smṛiti as lowcastes. (3)

When one drinks water lying stale in a vessel in the house of a lowcaste person, he should perform a penance. (4)

What penance is laid down for the Varṇas, if they, out of ignorance, drink water from a vessel or from a well belonging to a Chāṇḍála? (5)

A Bráhmaṇa should perform the Sāntapanam; a Kshatriya, the Prájápatya; a Vais'ya, half the Prájápatya; and a S'údra, the Pádakṛichha. (6)

By drinking, unknowingly, water from degraded castes, a Bráhmaṇa, fasting for a day and night, becomes purified with the Pañchagavya. (7)

If, on any occasion, a Brahmaṇa is touched by another Bráhmaṇa who has still the leavings of food in his mouth (i.e., who has not washed his mouth after taking meals), he becomes purified by rinsing his mouth. The ascetic Āṅgiras has said so. (8)

If he is, on any occasion, touched by a S'ūdra who has not washed his mouth after taking meals, he should bathe and recite [the Gāyatrī] and shall become purified by [fasting for] half-a-day. (9)

If a Vipra is [similarly] touched by a Vais'ya, a dog or a S'ūdra, he shall, after fasting for one night, become purified with the Pañchagavya. (10)

If [a Brāhmaṇa] is touched by a person who has still the leavings of food in his mouth, by being touched by whom in a pure state he is required to take [a purificatory] bath, he should have to perform the Prajapatya. (11)

Hereafter I shall describe the regulations relating to the use of clothes dyed with indigo. There is no sin [in using them] while lying down on bed for co-habiting with one's wife. (12)

By rearing up indigo plants, by selling them, and acquiring his livelihood therefrom, a Vipra becomes degraded; and he is freed from the sin by three distressing penances. (13)

[Sacrificial] bath, charity, recitation [of Mantrams], the offering of oblations to the Sacred Fire, Vedic study and the offering of oblations to the departed Manes as well as the [Five] great Yajñas (Sacrifices) become profitless to a person, from the use of a cloth dyed with indigo. (14).

If one, out of ignorance, puts on a cloth dyed with indigo, one, after fasting for a day and night, becomes purified with the Pañchagavya. (15)

If by his carelessness an indigo wood pierces the body of a Brāhmaṇa, and if blood is seen there, the twice-born person should perform the Cāṇārdyaṇa. (16)

If a twice born person eats rice boiled with the sticks of an indigo plant, he should, by vomiting out the food, be purified with the Pañchagavya. (17)

The three Varnas should perform the Chāndrāyana, if twice-born persons, carelessly and out of error, eat indigo : for this is the rule. (18)

The food, that is brought by a person putting on a cloth dyed with indigo, stands the giver in good stead, [but] the partaker thereof merely eats sin. (19)

Fasting for a day [is laid down] for Vipras fed with the rice which is boiled by [a person putting on] a raiment dyed with indigo. (20)

The husband of the woman, who on the demise of her consort, puts on a raiment dyed with indigo, goes to hell. The woman, too, [goes to hell] thereafter. (21)

The corns, which one grows on a field sullied with the sowing of indigo, are unworthy of being eaten by the twice-born. By eating [them, one] should perform the Chāndrāyana. (22)

Such a place (i.e., where indigo has been sown] should never be used for a procession with idols for the dedication of a bull, for celebrating a sacrifice or for making gifts ; for the earth [there] has become contaminated. (23)

The ground, where indigo has been sown, remains impure for twelve years and becomes pure thereafter. (24)

One should perform a penance, consisting of one portion, for those kine which are killed by being given [too much] food or drink, or by the administration of medicine. (25)

One should perform half the part of a penance where kine are killed or distressed by the defect of bells or other ornaments ; for that has been made for decorating them (26)

While controlling, binding with a rope, obstructing, or by an accident or otherwise, if kine are killed, one should perform the penance of Pādana. (27)

[The branch of a tree] of the bulk of a thumb-joint, measuring an arm in length, covered with leaves and having a top is called a Danda (rod). (28)

If a person strikes a cow with any [implement] other than the rod mentioned above, twofold is the penance for him for his purification. (29)

In breaking her horns or bones or by lynching her, one should perform a penance for ten nights if she recovers by that time. (30)

[In that case,] one should live on barley mixed with the urine of a cow. This is the most wholesome penance as viewed by Aṅgiras. (31)

Sin does not continue in him for whom, the father or preceptor of an incapable person or child performs a penance. (32)

One who is aged eighty years, a child of less than sixteen years of age, women and diseased persons are allowed to perform half the penance. (33)

If a cow, when beaten with a stick, swoons away or drops down, [the recitation of] the Gāyatrī for eight thousand times is the purifying penance. (34)

A woman in [her] menses, becomes pure on the fourth day after bathing. She should perform [a penance] after her menstrual period and never within. (35)

When the cataminal flow of women becomes excessive for any disease, they do not become impure by that : for this is not natural with them but the reverse of it. (36)

One does not become of pure conduct so long as the menstrual flow continues. When the menses is stopped, a woman may be employed in domestic works and known for sexual purpose. (37)

On the first day [of the menses], she is a Chandāla-woman; on the second, she is the mulderess of a

Brāhmaṇa; on the third, she is called a washer-woman; and-on the fourth day, she becomes purified. (38)

When [a Brāhmaṇa] is touched by a woman in [her] menses, by a dog or by a S'ūdra, he becomes purified by the Pañchagavya after fasting for a night. (39)

A married couple is impure as long as they lie together on bed. Getting up from the bed, a woman becomes pure but the man continues still impure. (40)

One should never rinse his mouth or wash his feet [with water placed] in a belmetal vessel. Belmetal is purified by ashes; and copper, by acid. (41)

A woman is purified by her menses; and a river, by its current. [A stone vessel, etc.,] greatly crusted with impurities, becomes pure by being left on the ground for six months. (42)

Belmetal vessels, smelt by kine and those containing leavings of food partaken of by a S'ūdra, are purified by being kept in ashes for ten days. Similarly those, sullied by crows, [are purified]. (43)

The purification of gold and silver [is encompassed] by air and the rays of the sun and moon. (44)

A woolen cloth is not sullied when marked with semen or touched by a dead body. It becomes pure when the part [affected] is washed by water and earth. (45)

By taking dried food, (cakes, etc.,) of his (a S'ūdra's), a Vipra must observe a penance for a week. Food, accompanied with curry, is digested in a fortnight. (46)

Milk and curd [are digested] within a month; and clarified butter, within six months. It is doubtful if oil is digested in the stomach within a year. (47)

He who continually partakes of a S'ūdra's food for one month, becomes a S'ūdra in this birth and is born as a dog after death. (48)

[Partaking of] a S'ūdra's food, associating with a S'ūdra, sitting with a S'ūdra acquiring knowledge from a S'ūdra, degrade even one burning with Brahma-energy. (49)

The twice-born person, who utters benediction before a S'ūdra and salutes him,—that Brāhmaṇa as well as the S'ūdra go to hell. (50)

A Vipra is purified on the tenth day; and a Kṣatriya, on the twelfth day. A fortnight, it is said, [is for] a Vais'ya and a S'ūdra is purified in a month.* (51)

The soul the Veda (Vedic study) and the Three Fires,—these five are destroyed, if an Agnihotrin-Vipra partakes of a S'ūdra's food. (52)

If a twice-born person, being fed by a S'ūdra's food, procreates sons, those sons belong to him (i.e., the S'ūdra who gives the food): for semen originates from food. (53)

Any article touched by a S'ūdra, or any residue of his food, should not be given to a twice-born out of carelessness or with the one palm. So the ascetic A'pastamva has said. (54)

One may always take a Brāhmaṇa's food; a Kṣatriya's, on Parva-days; a Vais'ya's, in times of calamity; but never a S'ūdra's. (55)

[By taking] a Brāhmaṇa's food, [one attains to] poverty; [by taking] a Kṣatriya's food, [one becomes] a beast; [by taking] a Vais'ya's food, one becomes a S'ūdra; [and by taking] a S'ūdra's food, one, forsooth, goes to hell.† (56)

This refers to impurity consequent on the birth or death of a Sepinda relation.

† It means that a Brāhmaṇa should not beg his food from another Brāhmaṇa and live thereon. This Śloka entails restriction about taking food from the various castes.

The food, [offered] by a Brāhmaṇa, is ambrosia ; that by a Kṣatriya is known as milk ; that by a Vaiśya is simple food ; and the food [offered] by a Sūdra, is certainly blood. (57)

The iniquity of human beings stands resting on their food. One eats the sin of a person whose food he partakes of. (58)

When a Vipra, who leads the life of a religious student and has mastered his senses, drinks any drink and unknowingly takes any food from persons suffering from the impurity of birth, he should vomit it out, rinse his mouth and bathe after going into the water. Then reciting the Varuṇa-Mantram, he should be qualified to perform his own work. (59—60)

One should leave off his shoes [before entering] the house in which the Sacred Fire is deposited, a cow-pen and the presence of a Deity, or a Brāhmaṇa, [and before] taking his meals, or reciting [the Gāyatrī]. (61)

[If a person] putting on [his] sandals, goes, from his house, to the Five Rooms,* a pious king should cut off his two legs. (62)

An Agnihotri (i.e., who maintains the Sacred Fires) an ascetic, a Srotriya, one who has completely studied the Védas these may go there with [their] sandals on ; others must be chastised with punishment. (63)

[On the S'rāddha] of a son who had gone through all the Saṁskṛtas from the birth to the Chāddā, especially after the cremation rite (i.e., on the first S'rāddha), food should be partaken of only by the Sapīndas. (64)

* The Five Rooms are,—the room for the Fire, the cow-pen, that of an idol, that of a Brāhmaṇa, the one in which one takes meals and the one in which the recitation of the Gāyatrī is performed.

By taking the food of a professional beggar, that at a new S'rāddha, that at the birth of a child and that at the Garbhādhāna ceremony of a woman, one should perform the Chāndrāyana. (65)

One should not eat the food of a maiden, who, after having been promised to be given away in marriage to one, is actually given to another. She is designated Punarbhū. (66)

If abortion takes place before the celebration of the Saṁskāras, Puṁsavana, or the Simantonnayan, then, it is laid down, [the child in the womb] is purified with [the performance of] the purificatory rites in the second conception. (67)

As long as a pregnant woman remains within ten months (i.e., does not give birth to a child), she should be protected by the king and others. Thereafter some other arrangement should be made. (68)

The food of a woman, who, disregarding the command of her husband, acts against him, should never be taken. She is known as one acting at her will. (69)

One should not take food in the house of a woman who has no issue. He, who does so out of stupefaction, goes to the Pāyasa-hell. (70)

The relations, who out of stupefaction live upon a woman's wealth or use her clothes and conveyances—sinful wights [as they are], go to hell. (71)

A king's food steals energy and a S'ūdra's food destroys Brahma-energy. But one, who takes food from persons suffering from impurity, eats the dirt of the [entire] earth. (72)

YAMA SAMHITA'.

THE Dharma-S'āstra (Religious Code), the object of which is to discourse on penances, is founded on the duties of the four Varṇas. (1)

Those, who have not been killed by water, fire, hanging, adopting the life of a mendicant, fasting, poison, falling down, Praya (fasting till death), and self-inflicted strokes of a weapon—all these ; [as well as] the drunk, and those interdicted by all persons are purified by the Chāndrayāna and two Taptakṛichhas. (2—3)

The sinful wights, who return from the order of Vanaprastha (hermits), lose both the worlds. By giving away a cow and a bull, they are purified by two Chāndrayānas. (4)

By cremating the destroyer of a cow, of a Brahmaṇa, or a person killed by hanging or by cutting off his (viz., the latter's) rope, one should perform a Taptakṛichha: (5)

One, bitten by a worm born in a wound, by a fly or a dog, should perform half the Prájápatya and make a sacrificial present proportionate to his might. 6)

If pus and blood come out from an ulcer made by worms at a Bráhmaṇa's anus, he becomes purified by the Mouñji-Homa.* (7)

* The offering of clarified butter to the Fire by a Bráhmaṇa after being invested with a girdle made of triple Muñja-grass,

If a Kshatriya, a Vais'ya, a S'ūdra, or one belonging to any of the mixed castes, take food knowingly [that pus is coming out of the anus],—they should particularly perform the penance of Chândrāyana. (8)

One should make a morsel of the size of the egg of a hen ; otherwise for faulty eating, he would never be purified by it. (9)

In the light fortnight, one should increase [the number of morsels] one by one, and decrease it [similarly] in the dark fortnight. One should not take one's meal in the Amāvasya. This is the regulation of the Chândrāyana (10)

By drinking Surā (wine) and other spirituous liquors and taking beef, a Vipra should perform the Taptakṛichha. By that sin is dissipated. (11)

If the performer, when the penance is undertaken, dies, he becomes purified, on that very day, both in this world and the next. (12)

As long as a person, living separate, is not purified by a penance, his other [kinsmen] should not be touched [also] ; for they are all polluted. (13)

Their food should not be partaken of ; nor any present should be accepted from them ; they should not be given lessons in a study ; no matrimonial alliance should be made with them ; but all those persons, co-parceners of the same property, might become purified after they had repented and performed the penance. (14)

A father, brother, or any other relation should perform the penance for a child whose age is below the eleventh year and above the fifth. (15)

There is no offence or sin for a child younger than this. There is no punishment from the king for him, nor any penance. (16)

One, who is eighty years old, one who is less than sixteen years old, women and diseased persons are allowed to perform half the penance. (17)

What penance should those persons perform, who are touched by Chandāla-women and washer-women after the sunset ? (18)

By bathing in and drinking the water brought in the day-time and mixed with silver and gold, all those persons attain to purification. So it is laid down in the Smṛit (19)

Of S'ūdras, food may be taken from a servant, barber, cow-herd, one with whom hereditary friendship is maintained, those who cultivate the same plot of land, and from him who dedicates his own self (20)

Those ignorant persons, who take food partaken of by a S'ūdra, being required to undertake a penance, should perform a Chāndrāyana. (21)

The father, who does give away [in marriage] his maiden-daughter after she has attained the twelfth year, drinks her menstrual blood, month after month. (22)

By beholding a maiden in [her] menses, her mother, father, and her eldest brother—these three go to hell. (23)

If any Brāhmaṇa, under the influence of lust, marries such a maiden, that Vipra, the husband of Vṛishali, should not be spoken to ; nor [should he be] admitted into a row [for the purpose of taking meals.] (24)

A barren woman should be known as a Vṛishali ; a woman who gives birth to a dead child, is [also called] a Vṛishali. A S'ūdra-woman is to be known as a Vṛishali, and similarly a maiden in [her] menses. (25)

The [sin], that a twice-born person commits by associating with a Vṛishali for a night, is dissipated in three years by living upon food acquired by begging and reciting [the Gāyatrī] daily. (26)

She, who, renouncing her own husband, desires for the company of another man, is to be known as a Vṛishali; a S'udra-woman does not [necessarily] become a Vṛishali.* (27)

There is no redemption for the person who has drunk the saliva of a Vṛishali, has been sullied by her breathing, and has procreated a son on her. (28)

One suffering from white leprosy, one suffering from leprosy, one who has bad nails, one who has black teeth, one who perpetually suffers from a disease, one who has not all the limbs, one who has got an extra limb, a wicked person, one who always envies others, an ugly person, a eunuch, a heretic, one who vilifies the Védās, one who makes false discussion, one who officiates as a priest for the S'údras, one who officiates as a priest for those to whom no such service should be given, one who is avaricious for gifts, a beggar, one who is addicted to worldliness, one who has got a very small tooth in the rows of teeth, a physician, one who makes a false talk—all these should be carefully shunned at a S'rāddha and [while making gifts]. (29—32)

A [Bráhmaṇa who subsists upon offerings made to an idol, one who works as a servant, one who sells the Védās—these should be carefully shunned. Yama has said so (33)

The departed Manes of the person and the Deities along with the great Rishis, go back disappointed, who engages all these in Havya (sacrifices) and

* This signifies that an unchaste Bráhmaṇa-woman is infinitely worse than a S'údra-woman.

Kavya (the rite of offering oblations to the departed Manes). (34)

[On] seeing a *Mahiskika first, the husband of a Vṛishali in the middle, and Vardhusika (a usurer) in the end, the departed Manes go back disappointed. (35)

An unchaste wife is called Mahishi. He who forgives her for her sins, is known as Mahishika. (36)

He, who purchasing an article at a fair price, sells it at a higher one, is named Vardhusika. He is the censured of the Brahmavadins (i.e., those conversant with the Vēdas). (37)

So long the boiled rice remains warm [the Brāhmaṇas] should, abstaining from speech, eat it. So long the virtues of an offering are not mentioned, the departed Manes partake of it. (38)

The virtues of Havi should not be mentioned, where the departed Manes are gratified with oblations. On the departed Manes being gratified (i.e., after the S'rāddha is over), the offering should, afterwards, be described as excellent. (39)

The father, residing in the body of a Brāhmaṇa, takes as many morsels of food, as a person, conversant with Mantrams, takes in sacrifices and rites of offering oblations to the departed Manes. (40)

A twice-born person, who has the leavings of food in his mouth, on being touched by such a person, a dog, or a S'ūdra become purified with the Pañchagavya, after fasting for a night. (41)

Mere bathing is laid down in a case while [one is] touched by [one] having no leavings of food in the mouth. By being touched by [a S'ūdra] having leavings of food in his mouth, [a Brhāmaṇa] should perform a Prājāpatya. (42)

* One who lives by the prostitution of his wife..

As long as the Vipras are not adored with complete feeding and gold, so long that sin is not dissipated, even if one has performed a hard penance. (43)

If one's body is encircled by crows, cranes or vultures, or is touched by an unholy object, or if [such an article] touches the mouth or the body, the purification of such a person, sullied with a paste, [is effected] by bathing. (44)

If leaving aside the hands, the limbs [situate] above the navel are sullied [by the excreta of a crow, etc.], the upper part [is purified by] bathing; and the part beneath [the navel], by being rubbed with earth and water. By this only [the upper and lower limbs] are purified. (45)

In taking what should not be eaten, or what should not be drunk, or 'what should not be eaten by licking', or semen, urine or excreta,—what should be the penance? (46)

The leaves of lotus, Udumvara, Villwa, Kus'ā, fig and Palās'a [should be boiled with water]—by drinking this decoction for six nights, one becomes purified. (47)

A Vipra,—who, being safe in a fire and a life of mendicancy, returns, lives disregarding the adoration of the Sacred Fire, and wishes again to enter upon the domestic mode of life,—should perform three Prājāpatyas, and three Chāndrāyaṇas. He becomes again purified with the Jātakarma and [other Saṁskāras] mentioned before. (48—49)

A mattress filled with cotton (or a painter's brush), pillows, flower, and crimson-coloured raiments, become purified by being dried in the sun and sprinkled [with water] (50)

By knowing the place, time, one's ownself, articles, the necessity of articles, the cause and circumstances, one should perform a religious rite. (51)

A road, mud, water, articles made of iron, grass and brick-built houses, are purified by the air and the solar rays. (52)

When an occasion for bathing arrives in the case of a person suffering from a disease, one, who is healthy, should bathe ten times and touch him By it, the diseased person becomes purified. (53)

A washerman, a cobbler, an actor, a Varuda, a Kaivarta, a Méda, and a Bhilla—these seven are known in the Smṛitis as the degraded castes. (54)

By knowing the women of these castes, [a Brāhmaṇa] should perform a Taptakrichha. (55)

What is the penance laid down for various castes, when women in [their] menses touch each other? (56)

By touching a woman in [her] menses, belonging to the same family or having the same husband, either knowingly or unknowingly,—[one, i.e., a woman in her menses] becomes purified by bathing in proper time. (57)

A Brāhmaṇa-woman and a S'ūdra-woman, both in [their] menses, touching each other, the first becomes purified by a Prājāpatya; and the S'ūdra-woman, by a Pada (portion) [of a Prājāpatya]. (58)

A Kshatriya-woman and a S'ūdra-woman, touching each other while in [their] menses, the former should perform a penance complete in all parts; and the latter, half [its] portion. (59)

A Vais'ya-woman and a S'ūdra-woman, touching each other while in [their] menses, the former should perform a Padakrichha; and the latter, half of it. (60)

If touched by a dog, a goat, a jackal, or an ass, a woman in [her] menses should remain fasting for that period (i.e., the period of menstruation) and purify [herself] by bathing in time (i.e., on the fourth day.) (61)

Being touched by Chandālas, a woman in [her] menses [shall be purified] by the penance of Prājāpatya; and one who is not in menses, by a century of Prāṇayamas. (62)

Being touched [by a woman in her menses] or by a degraded caste in the night, a Vipra should bathe, before the Fire, with the water brought during the day-time. (63)

Water is always holy when touched by the solar rays during the day, and by the rays of the stars in the night; at the two periods of junction and in the evening. (64)

If a twice-born person drinks water touched with the nails and fingers at the time of rinsing his mouth, he clearly drinks spirituous liquor. Such is the deliverance of Yama. (65)

In a ditch, tank, well, by [the strokes of] stones, by the stroke of weapons, by that of a stick or clod of earth, in a cow-pen, in an obstructed place, while being tied with a rope, in a cow-shed set up in a limited form, [being tied] to a wood, under a tree, in a place where it is difficult to come from, when tied with a rope or cloth,—I have told thee, that these are dangerous places for kine—whenever and under whatever circumstance, a cow may happen to die, one should perform a penance. (66—68)

[By killing a cow] with the stroke of a wood, [one should perform] the Prājāpatya. Twofold is [the punishment, when killed] with a stone; when killed in a ditch, [one should perform] half the penance; and a

Paśāṅrichha, when killed under a tree. When [killed] with the stroke of a weapon, one should perform three penances; and two, [when killed] with the stroke of a stick. (69—70)

When [a cow] is strangled to death by a cloth, the slayer of the cow is purified by one Prājāputya. He should live amongst the kine near a river or a dreary forest, [and] shave, in the first part, the hairs of the body; in the second, the beards; in the third, the hairs, excepting the tuft on the crown; and in the fourth, the tuft too. (71—72)

The heads of women should not be shaven: they should neither follow a cow, nor pass the night in a cow-pen. Nor should they recite the Vaidic Mantram. (73)

Having taken up all the hairs, one should cut them off to the measurement of two fingers. This is the shaving of the head for women according to the Smṛiti. (74)

Impurity originates, both on the birth and death of a person. But there is no impurity [on the death of] a sinful person. (75)

One should, in the evening, abstain from four works,—viz., from taking meals, sexual intercourse, [and] sleeping [these three], and Vedic study [forming] the fourth. (76)

From taking meals, [at that time], originates a disease; from sexual intercourse, a very wicked offspring is conceived; from sleep, prosperity disappears; [and there is] certain death in Vedic studies. (77)

O foremost of the twice-born, desirous of well-being unto ignorant castes, these institutes have been described by me; determine them with care. (78)

ATRI SAMHITA'.

CHAPTER I.

HAVING saluted Atri, the foremost of those conversant with the Védās, informed of the regulations of all the Scriptures, adored of all the Rishis, seated at ease after offering oblations at an Agnihotra, all [the Rishis] gave vent to these words :—‘ For the behoof of all the worlds, describe, O lord unto us [the religious institutes]. (1—2)

ATRI said :—

“ O ye conversant with the essence of the Védās and other Scriptures, I shall describe all that has-been seen and heard by me [for the determination of] the doubt [about] which you have asked me. (3)

Having rinsed his mouth with the waters of all the sacred places, bowed unto all the Deities, and recited all the Sūktas, Atri, following all the Scriptures, determined, for the four Vārnas, a Religious Code, destructive of all sins, eternal and dissipating all doubts. (4—5)

Listening to this most excellent Code of religious injunctions, those, who commit iniquities in this world, and others, who vilify religion, are freed from all sins. (6)

Therefore this should be carefully studied by those who are conversant with the Védās and be communicated fairly unto disciples endued with good conduct (7)

[The knowledge of] this S'āstra should not be given by the foremost of the twice-born unto those born in bad families, those leading a bad life, those who are foolishly ignorant, and deceitful twice-born persons. (8)

Even, if the preceptor communicates one letter to a disciple, there is no article on earth, by presenting which he may be freed from his debt. (9)

He, who does not regard a preceptor, the giver of even one letter, is born amongst the Chandālas after having gone through a hundred births in the canine species. (10)

He, who having taken [lessons in] a Vēda, disregards the other Scriptures, is immediately born in the species of beasts for twenty-one times. (11)

Those men, who perform their respective duties, become, by following their own works, beloved of the people, even if they live at a distance. (12)

To celebrate sacrifices, to make gifts and to study the Vēdās—[these three are] the religious works of a Vipra; to accept presents, to deliver instructions [in the Vōdās], and to officiate at sacrifices [are the means of his] livelihood. (13)

To celebrate sacrifices, to make gifts, and to study [the Vēdās], [are] the religious works of a Kshatriya; to live by arms, to protect mankind [are his means of] livelihood. (14).

To make gifts, to study [the Vēdās], and to celebrate sacrifices [are the religious works of] a Vais'ya; and agriculture [is his secular work]. To serve the twice-born [is the religious work of] the S'ūdras; and the work of art [is his secular work]. (15)

By following these Institutes [which] have been described by me, the Varṇas come by most excellent condition after attaining to great honours in this world. (16)

The king, who punishes them who, renouncing their own religion, follow another's, becomes glorified in the celestial region. (17)

By following his own religion even a Sūdra enjoys the celestial region. Another's religion should be renounced like the most beautiful wife of another person. (18)

The Sūdra, who engages in the recitation [of the Gāyatrī] and the offering of oblations to the Sacred Fire, should be killed by the king; for by that he becomes the destroyer of the kingdom as the water is of fire. (19)

Acceptance of gifts, giving instructions [in the Vēdas], selling an article which should not be sold, and officiating as a priest at a sacrifice—the doing of these four, [is described] in the Smṛitis as outcasting the Kshatriya and the Vuis'ya. (20)

[By selling] meat, shell-lac and salt, [a Brāhmaṇa] becomes immediately outcasted. By selling milk, a Brāhmaṇa becomes a Sūdra within three days. (21)

The king should punish, with life, the village harbouring thieves by giving alms to the twice-born, who do not perform religious rites and study the Vēdas. (22)

The kingdom, where the ignorant partake of the food which should be taken by the learned, courts draught (want of rain); or a great calamity appears there. (23)

There the god of rain pours down showers where the king adores these—the Brāhmaṇās learned in the Vēdās and well-versed in all the scriptures. (24)

Formerly the Brāhmaṇās were created for protecting all these, the three regions (heaven, earth, and firmament), the three Vēdās (Rik, Yajush, and the Sāman), the A's'ramas (orders, and the three Fires (25)

The twice-born, who perform both the Sandhyá adoiations by abstaining from speech, remain gloriously in the celestial region for a thousand celestial years. (26)

The king, who examines the virtue and sin [of all the four Varṇas], attains to fame, celestial region and solidarity of [his] kingdom; and his treasury becomes replenished again. (27)

The punishment of the wicked, the adoration of the pious, the enrichment of the treasury by fair means, impartiality towards those who approach him with prayers, and the protection of the kingdom,—these five have been spoken of as the sacrifices for the kings. (28)

The Brāhmaṇás, by a thousand sacrifices, do not attain to that piety which the kings do by protecting their subjects. (29)

In the absence of watery expanses attached to temples, [one should bathe] in lakes and ponds. By taking up four Piṇḍas [made of clay], one should bathe [in a tank] belonging to another. (30)

Fat, semen, blood, marrow, urine, excreta, dirt of the ears, nails, phlegm, bones, dirt of the eye, and drops of perspiration,—these twelve are the dirt of men. (31)

The purification of each six, in order, has been described by the learned sages;—the first six [are purified] by earth and water; and the second six, by mere water. (32)

Purity, desire for doing good unto others, absence of exertion, absence of jealousy, absence of avarice, self-restraint, charity and mercy are the characteristics of a Brāhmaṇa. (33)

A really accomplished person does not try to suppress another's merit: he praises another's accomplishments;

he does not laugh at another's shortcomings; [such a spirit] is called Anasūya (want of jealousy). (34)

Renunciation of forbidden food, association with those who are not badly spoken of, and abiding by good conduct—is spoken of as S'oucha (purity). (35)

To follow good conduct always and to renounce a bad one, has been described as Mangala by the Rishis well-read in Religious Codes. (36)

One should not do, to an excess, what afflicts the body, whether good or bad. This is called Anāyāsa (want of exertion). (37)

One should be contented with all articles, whenever what arrives; one should not long for another's wives; this is called Asprihā (want of desire). (38)

If external or spiritual pain is created by others, and one is not offended and does not wreak revenge, it (i.e., the spirit) is called Dama. (39)

Even from a limited income, something should be given away daily with care and liberal spirit. This is called Dāna (charity). (40)

One should behave, like his own self, towards others, his own relations and friends, him who envies him, and an enemy. This is called Dayā (mercy). (41)

A twice-born person, even if he be a householder, who is possessed of all these marks, attains to the highest station [after death], and is not born again in this world. (42)

Maintenance of the Sacred Fires, and the adoration of the Vis'wadevās are called Ishta (holy ceremony or sacrifice). (43)

[The excavation of] tanks, wells, and other watery expanses, [the construction of] temples, [the distribution of] food, and [the laying out of] pleasure-gardens are called Purta (acts of pious liberality). (44)

Both Ishta-, and Pūrta-, [acts] should, with care, be performed by a Brāhmaṇa. By the Ishta one attains to the celestial region; and by the Purta, emancipation. (45)

Twice-born persons have equal rights in the religious acts of Ishta and Pūrta. A S'ūdra is qualified to perform the Ishta, but not the Vedic rites. (46)

A learned person should always observe the Yamas (moral or religious duties or observances), but not the Niyamas (religious austerities) daily. By performing the Niyamas always and disregarding the Yamas, one becomes degraded. (47)

Absence of cruelty, forgiveness, truthfulness, abstention from injury, charity, simplicity, love, cheerfulness, sweetness [of temper], and mildness,—these are the ten Yamas. (48)

Purity, [celebration of] sacrifice, austerity, [making] gift, Vedic study, abstention from undue sexual intercourse, [observance of] vow, abstention from speech, fasting and bathing,—these ten are the Niyamas. (49)

One should immerse an image made of Kus'a-grass in sacred waters. He, for whom it is immersed, gains eight parts of the purity. (50)

[The person],—mother, father, brother, friend, or the preceptor, for whom one bathes,—attains to twelve portions of the fruit [thereof]. (51)

The representative of a son should be appointed by a sonless person* with care, for the rite of offering Piṇḍa and water. (52)

* i.e., should adopt a son.

If a father sees the face of a living son born, he is freed from the debt [he owes to his ancestors] and attains to immortality. (53)

With the very birth of a son, a father is freed from his ancestral debt and attains to purification on that very day, for he (i.e., the son) liberates him from the hell. (54)

Many sons should be desired : for if any [of them] would go to Gayā, or celebrate a Horse-Sacrifice, or dedicate a Neela Vṛisha.* (55)

All the departed Manes, dreading hell, desire for "the son, who would go to Gayā and become our saviour." (56)

By bathing in the holy [river] Phālgū, seeing the Deity Gadādhara (the holder of mace, Vishṇu) and touching the head of Gayā (Asura) with his feet, one is freed [even] from [the sin of] Brahmanicide. (57)

He who touching the water of a great river [like the Ganges] gratifies the Pitris with oblations of water, attains to eternal regions and delivers his own family. (58)

Listen to me discoursing, I shall describe the [means of] purification of the food [when it is taken] in a dangerous place, where there is no desirable and pure food. (59)

A Brāhmaṇa should take food for three days without salt or drink the extract of powerful Brāhmi-tree or Saṅkhaṇṇapushpī with milk. (60)

If a twice-born person, out of ignorance, drinks water from a vessel used for spirituous liquors, what is

* A bull that has white tail, hoofs and horns and other limbs red.

his penance, and by what rite is he freed [from the sin] ? (61)

By making a decoction [of] Palās'a, Villwa, Kus'a, lotus and Udumvara, leaves, one should drink it ; [by doing so] for three nights, one attains to purification. (62)

He, who out of carelessness fails to perform the Sandhyā once, either in the morning or in the evening, should, with a concentrated mind, recite, after bathing, the Gāyatrī for a thousand times. (63)

If laden with grief or being fatigued, one goes out (i.e., fails to do) the bathing and recitation, one should, with reverence, perform the Brahma-Kurchha, and purify [oneself] by making gifts. (64)

One, bitten by a serpent, shall be purified by bathing in the water on the horns of kine, or at the confluence of great rivers, or by seeing the ocean. (65)

If a Brāhmaṇa is bitten by a wolf, dog, or a jackal, he shall be purified by drinking clarified butter mixed with water [sanctified with] gold. (66).

But a Brāhmaṇa-lady, if bitten by a dog, jackal, or a wolf, shall be immediately purified on seeing the rise of a star or a planet. (67)

Bitten by a dog, a person, while in the observance of a vow, should fast for three nights. By eating barley boiled with clarified butter, he should bring about the termination of his vow. (68)

He, who breaks a religious observance out of stupefaction, ignorance or avarice, shall be purified by [fasting for] three nights. He should again undertake that religious observance. (69)

If a Brāhmaṇa unknowingly takes the residue of another Brāhmaṇa's food, he becomes purified by reciting the Gāyatrī for a couple of days. (70)

If a Brāhmaṇa unknowingly takes the residue of a Kshatriya's food, he becomes purified by [fasting for] three nights. As in [the case of a Kshatriya, so it is [in that] of a Vais'ya. (71)

By taking forbidden food, the residue of a food partaken of by a S'ūdra or a woman, or by eating forbidden meat, one should drink the extract of barley for seven nights. (72)

Bathing is laid down [for a person] touched by a dog. By partaking of the food taken by a dog, he should perform a distressing penance for six months. (73)

By being touched by castes that should not be touched, one should bathe. He, who takes the residue of their food, should perform a distressing penance for six months. (74)

By unknowingly taking excreta, urine or articles contaminated by spirituous liquor, the three twice-born Varnas should have again to perform all the purificatory rites. (75)

In performing again the purificatory rites, twice-born persons would not be required to shave their heads, hold girdles, carry staffs, or perform the practice of begging alms. (76)

I shall now describe the purification of a house contaminated by a dead body being placed inside. Earthen vessels and boiled rice of the place should be left off. (77)

By taking out all those articles from the house, one should have it pasted with cowdung; and, then, smelt by a goat. (78)

Being sanctified with the Brāhma-Mantram and sprinkled with the water of Kus'a and gold that house becomes purified. There is not the least doubt in it. (79)

A twice-born person, having been forcibly misguided by a king, or a degraded caste, should first undergo through all the purificatory rites and then perform three distressing penances. (80)

Bathing is laid down for him who is touched by a dog. By taking the residue of its food, he should, with care, perform the distressing penance [of Prājāpatya]. (81)

I shall, hereafter, describe the regulations about impurity. And later on I shall, again, discourse on penances. (82)

A Brāhmaṇa, who maintains the Sacred Fires and is well-read in the Vēdas, becomes purified in one day; one, who has only mastered the Vēdas, in three days; and one, who is shorn of all accomplishments, in ten days. (83)

There is no impurity for a person who, being purified by (i.e., according to the injunctions of) the S'āstras, is engaged in the performance of a religious rite, as well as for him who maintains the Sacred Fires, for the king, and for him for whom a Brāhmaṇa so desires. (84)

A Brāhmaṇa becomes purified in ten nights; a Kshatriya, in twelve days; a Vais'ya, in fifteen days; and a S'ūdra, in a month. (85)

Funeral cakes and water should be offered to all the Sapīṇdas, born in the same family, up to the seventh generation. Impurity, consequent on a death, should follow the same [precedent]. (86)

The impurity [consequent on a birth] extends for ten nights in the fourth generation; for six days, in the fifth; for three nights, in the sixth; for two days, in the seventh : for one day, in the eighth ; and two praharas, in the ninth. In an impurity, consequent on a birth, in the tenth [generation], one becomes purified by mere bathing. (87—88)

The impurity, of female servants and of wives taken from inferior castes, consequent on a death or a birth, should be like that of the husband ; and the husband being dead, [the impurity should be [like that of] the family of birth. (89)

The third [person], touching a dead body, (i.e., one, who touches a person touching one who has touched a dead body,) should bathe with his raiment on ; the fourth, should eat by begging from seven houses. Such is the regulation, of the Smṛiti, relating to the touching of a dead body. (90)

[On the birth or death of a co-wife's son], the impurity, of wives married at the same time and living conjointly, should be like that of their husband. [But] when living separately, [their impurity would be] separate (i.e., according to each one's caste). (91)

By drinking the milk of a she-camel or that of a she-goat, or by taking food [rendered impure] on account of a birth or death, or that of a cook, or that at a new S'rāddha, one should perform a Chāndrāyana. (92)

The man, who partakes of an impure food having an irreligious act in view (i.e., with a desire of not performing the Sandhyā-adoration, etc.,) should fast for three nights and reside in the water for one night. (93)

On the occasion of a birth or death, one should not make arrangements for any great sacrifice, but with dry food or fruits, one should perform [the usual] Homa. (94)

Immediate is the purification, if a child dies within ten days of its birth; [no impurity, consequent on its] birth or death, should continue. (95)

After the ceremony of tonsure, [a boy] is qualified to perform the rite of offering water and funeral balls and recite the Swadhâ and the name. (96)

A religious student and a Yatin [become immediately purified]. In the recitation of the Mantrams determined upon before, in a sacrifice, and in a marriage [wherein the rite of the Vridhhi-S'râddha has been performed], immediate purification is laid down. (97)

There is no sin, if any intervening impurity, consequent on a birth or death, takes place, in the celebration of a marriage, festivity, or a sacrifice, determined upon before. So Atri has said. (98)

The purification, it is laid down, [for the impurity] of touching, on account of the birth of a stillborn child, [is effected] by rinsing the mouth, if one has not touched the mother who has given birth to such a child. (99)

The touching of a Kshatriya on the fifth day, and of a Vais'ya on the seventh day, is known (i.e., sanctioned) by the learned. (100)

The touching of the Sûdra on the tenth day has been sanctioned by the learned. On the occasion of a birth or death, the purification of self is effected in a month. (101)

Perpetual impurity attaches to one who is always sickly, one who does not perform religious rites, one who is ignorant, one who is notoriously henpecked, one who is grossly inclined to vile practices, one who is always dependent upon others, and one who abstains from Vêdic study and the vow of celibacy. (102—103)

Two Prâjâpatyas are laid down in the S'miti for a Parivitti (an elder brother whose younger brother is married before him); one, for the maiden [so married] ; the most distressing of all penances, for the person who gives away [a maiden in such a marriage]; and Santapanam, for the Parivéttā (a younger brother married before his elder brother) (104)

There is no sin in a younger brother's marrying before his elder, [if the latter is] hunchbacked, dwarf, lame, of ensurable conduct, ignorant of the Védas, or by birth blind, deaf or dumb. (105)

[The elder brother] being a eunuch, residing in another country, being outcasted, adopting the life of renunciation, being devoted to the study of the Yoga-Sāstra, there is no sin in the younger brother's marrying before his elder. (106).

There is no sin in the younger brother's marrying before his elder, if his father, grandfather or elder brother had not been qualified to maintain the Sacred Fires. (107)

In the case of the death [of the elder brother's wife, or in the case of his going to another country, or on his being sullied with a sin, [a younger brother] becomes qualified [to maintain the Sacred Fire]. (108)

If the eldest brother lives near, but does not maintain, the Sacred Fire, [a younger brother], permitted by him, may do so ; such is the deliverance of S'aṅkha. (109)

[The maintenance of] the Sacred Fire, [the study of] the Védas, [the practice of] the austerities shall not contaminate [a younger brother] with the sin of taking before. But a younger brother can never perform a S'rāddha without the permission [of the eldest brother] (110)

The daily and occasional rites described in the S'ruti and the religious rites performed with the sole intention of attaining to the celestial region, one should always perform and acquire piety therefrom. (111)

In the light-fortnight, one should increase [the number of morsels] one by one, [and similarly] decrease it in the dark-fortnight. One should not take meals on the Amāvasyā. Such is the regulation about Chândrayana. This had been described by the ancient sages as destructive of mighty iniquities. (112)

Sins, begotten of heinous crimes [like Brahmanicide, etc.], do not touch one who is given to the study of the Vêdas, forgiving, and devoted to the performance of great sacrifices. (113)

By seeing the sun during the day, living on air only, and reciting the Gâyatri a thousand times, and living in the water during the night, one becomes purified except in Brahmanicide. (114)

[One attains to purification] by drinking the decoction of lotus, Udumvara, Vilwa, Kuśa, As'watha, and Palāśa, leaves. This is called Paruakrichha. (115)

By drinking the Pañchagavyā, (milk, curd, urine of a cow, cowdung, and clarified butter made of the milk of a cow), one should fast the next day. This is the regulation about Sântapana. (116)

By taking each article of the Sântapana (such as the milk, curd, etc.,) for six days, one should fast on the seventh. This penance, extending over seven days, is called, in the Smṛiti, Mahā-Sântapana. (117)

[One should take these articles] in the evening for three days, and in the morning for three days; [then one should] take unsolicited food for three days; then one should take no food for three days; this is the regulation of the Prājāpatya described in the Smṛiti. (118)

[In this penance,] twelve morsels in the evening; fifteen, in the morning; and twenty-four, [in the period] when unsolicited [food is to be taken] ;—are sanctioned by the Smṛiti. One should, as laid down in the Smṛiti, fast [for the last three] days. (119)

[One should] take only one morsel [only] every three days as before, and fast for the last three days. This is called Ātikṛichhah. (120)

Know that for purification, a body-purifying morsel should be made of the size of a hen-egg or of the size of that which could conveniently be taken in one's mouth. (121)

[In[a Taptakṛichhah,] one should drink hot water for three days; and hot milk for [another] three days. And drinking hot clarified butter for three days, one should live on air for [the next] three days. (122)

One should drink water to the measure of six palas [for three days], and milk to the measure of three palas [for another three days] ; and one pala of clarified butter [for the next three days]. Such is the regulation of the Taptakṛichhah. (123)

One should take curd for three days; clarified butter for three days, [and] milk for [another] three days; and live on air for [the next] three days. (124)

One should take curd and milk to the measure of three palas and one pala of clarified butter. This is called the sacred Vedic penance of Kṛichhrah. (125)

One should take one meal for a day, live on unsolicited food for one night and fast for a day. This is called Pādakṛichhrah. (126)

If one lives on milk for twenty-one days, [the penance is called Kṛichhratikṛichhrah. And it is called Parāka when one fasts for twelve days. (127)

If one takes every day a morsel of oil-cake, curd and powdered grain [for four days] and fasts for another day, [the penance] is called Soumyakṛichhrah. (128)

If each one of all these is performed, in order, for three days, (the penance) is known as Tulāpurusha [extending over] fifteen days. (129)

One should drink the tepid milk flowing from [the udders of] a Kapilā-(cow) when milched. This is the penance Vyasakṛitaḥ (performed by Vyasa). It purifies even a Chandāla. (130).

To take meals in the night is known as Nakta (Vrata or night penance). Chāndrāyana is spoken of [as the penance] for sins for which no expiation is laid down. (131)

Persons, having asceticism for wealth, obtain the same fruits by these penances, as they get by performing Agnistoma and other Sacrifices with twofold sacrificial presents. (132)

One, given to the study of the Vēdas and of forgiving, [disposition], if he makes enquiries into the Dharma-Sāstras; and a householder too, if he is endued with purity and good conduct;—become freed [from sins]. (133)

[The religious rites] of the twice-born have been described. O great Rishi, hear, I shall hereafter describe what brings about the fall of S'ūdras and women. (134)

Recitation [of the Gāyatrī], austerity, and journeys to sacred places, adoption of a Sannyāsa-life, practice of Mantrams and adoration of Deities,—these six bring about the fall of women and S'ūdras. (135).

The woman, who, during the lifetime of her husband, fasts while performing a religious rite, robs the longevity of her husband. Such a woman goes to hell. (136)

A woman, desirous of bathing in a sacred water, should drink the water washing the feet of her husband, of S'iva or of Vishṇu. She should, thereby, attain to the most excellent station. (137)

A woman is [always] the left limb, the husband being alive or dead; and he, the right one. But in a S'rāddha, sacrifice, and marriage, a wife should always [be placed] in the right. (138)

Soma (the Moon), the Gandharvas, and the Angirah have conferred purity on them; and Fire, all holiness. Women are, therefore, always holy. (139)

By birth, one is known as a Brāhmaṇa; and by the purificatory rites, he is called a Dwija (twice-born). He attains to the dignity of a Vipra by learning; and by these three, to that of a S'rotrīya. (140)

He, who studies the Vēda-S'āst and follows the import of Scriptural injunctions, is called a Vēdauid (one knowing the Vēdas); his utterance is sanctifying. (141)

That religion is to be known as the highest which a leading Brāhmaṇa, knowing the Vēdas, follows—but not that which is followed by ten thousand illiterate persons. (142)

By reciting [the Gāyatrī] and making Homa (offering oblations to the Fire), foremost persons of the twice-born race shine like fire; and [they] meet with ruin, by accepting presents like fire by water. (143)

Like the wind driving away the clouds in the sky, the learned and foremost twice-born persons dissipate the sins begotten of accepting presents, by Prāṇāyāma. (144)

When a Vipra, after taking his meals or rinsing his mouth, remains with a wet hand, he gets his wealth, strength, fame, energy and life lessened (145)

One should not partake of his food, who, seated on his seat, rinses his mouth in the dining room; and by taking it, one should perform a Chāndrāyaṇa. (146)

One should not partake of his food, who, placing a vessel on his seat, rinses his mouth; and by taking it, one should perform a Chāndrāyaṇa. (147)

[II] the foremost of the twice-born, after taking his meals and washing his hands, drinks the water thereof, the Asuras partake of his food; and the departed Manes go back disappointed. (148)

There is no S'āstra superior to the Vēda; there is no elderly person superior to the mother; and there is no friend superior to charity both in this world and in the next. But what is given to an unworthy person, consumes the family up to the seventh generation. (149)

When food is offered in an iron vessel, the Celestials do not accept the Havya; and the departed Manes do not accept the Kavya. That food is like excreta unto him who partakes of it; and the giver, too, goes to hell. (150)

A learned person should not serve food, placed elsewhere, with his left hand; nor should he do it in an iron vessel. (151)

He, who in a S'rāddha, feeds the departed Manes in an earthen vessel—both he and the partaker—go to hell. (152)

When other vessels are not available, one may offer [food] in an earthen vessel with the permission of the twice-born persons. Their words, true or false, constitute an authority. (153)

There is no virtue for the person who gives alms in golden, iron, copper, belmetal, or in silver, vessels. The acceptor thereof also partakes of sins. (154)

[A Bhikshu] should never, even in a calamity, take his food from belmetal vessels; for the Yatins should take their meals [only] on *Palās'*a-leaves, and a householder, from a belmetal vessel. (155)

A Yatin, taking his food from a belmetal vessel, reaps the sin of both the belmetal vessel and the householder. (156)

A Bhikshu is not visited by sin by taking food from golden, iron, copper, belmetal and silver [vessels]; but he commits a sin by taking those vessels. (157)

If [one] pours water into [a Bhikshu's] hands, then offers alms and again pours water—that alms becomes like [the mount] Meru; and that water, like an ocean. (158)

[A Bhikshu] should collect alms by begging from door to door, as a bee collects honey from flower to flower, even from amongst the Mlechchha-families. But food, collected from one house, should not be partaken of even in Vṛihaspati's house. (159)

One, who, leaving the domestic mode of life, begs boiled rice except in a calamity, should drink Vajra (sour gruel) for ten nights; and water, for three nights. (160)

— Barley mixed with the urine of a cow and boiled with clarified butter is called "Vajra." So the divine Atri has said. (161)

A Brahmacharin, a Yatin, a student, one who maintains his preceptor, a wanderer and a man of poor means,—these six are described, in the Smṛiti, as the Bhikshus. (162)

A mortal should know his enciente wife for [the first] six months ; and again, after the child has teethed. Such is the religious prescription. (163)

The first is Brahmanicide ; the second is co-habitation with a step-mother ; and the third is the drinking of spirituous liquors ; the fourth is called theft [of gold from a Brāhmaṇa-master] ; the fifth is association with these sinful wights ;—these are heinous crimes. (164)

For the purification of these sins, one should perform three penances for three years successively ; by it, one becomes freed from the sin of Brahmanicide when committed unknowingly. (165)

It is laid down that one-half [of the sin] of Brahmanicide [visits a man for killing] Kshatriyas ; similarly, six and twelve portions, for [killing] Vais'yas and S'ūdras. (166)

The destroyer of a woman is purified by taxing his meals in the night and sleeping on earth for three months ; and by performing thirty Prājāpatyas. (167)

A twice-born person, who takes food from a washerman, or from an actor, or from one who lives on bamboo-work, should perform a Chāndrāyana. (168)

By knowing women of lowcastes, taking their meals and lying with them on the same bed, one should get [himself] purified with a Parāka. (169)

By drinking the water [that lies] in a Chandāla's vessel, the foremost of the twice-born should live, for thirty-seven days, on barley and the urine of a cow. (170)

A Brāhmaṇa, who unknowingly partakes of cooked food touched by outcastes or by women in [their] menses, should perform half-a-Prājāpatya. (171)

The [following are the means of] expiation for the four castes when they [happen to] partake of a Chan- dāla's food. A Brāhmaṇa should perform a Ckāndrá-yana; and a Kshatriya, a Sāntapanam. (172)

A Vai'sya should perform a penance and live on the Pañchagavya for six nights. A S'ūdra should perform [the same] for three nights and purify [himself] by making gifts. (173)

If a Brāhmaṇa, getting upon a tree, eats its fruits and a Chandāla standing down touches its root, what would be the penance [for that Brāhmaṇa] ? (174)

With the permission of other Brāhmaṇas, he should bathe with the cloth on; that Vipra should take his meals in the night [for one day] and purify [himself] by taking clarified butter (175)

If getting upon the same tree, a Brāhmaṇa and a Chandāla eat the fruits thereof, what then would be the penance [for the former] ? (176)

Having obtained permission from [other] Brāhmaṇas, he should bathe with the cloth on. Then after fasting for a day and night, he should purify [himself] by taking the Pañchagavya. (177)

What would be the penance then, when a Brāhmaṇa and a Chandāla getting upon the same branch of a tree eat its fruits ? (178)

He becomes purified by taking the Pañshagavya, after fasting for three nights. (179)

The purification for knowing a Mlēcchha-woman [consists] in a Sāntapanam, or, it is said, [one may attain to] purification by performing a Taptakrichhraṭ. (180)

If a person lives with a wife known by a Mlēcchha, [he becomes purified] by bathing with the cloth on and drinking clarified butter. (181)

Again, [for knowing a woman] brought by another for [the purpose of] procreating a son, [one becomes] purified by bathing in the water of a river and drinking clarified butter. (182)

By co-habiting, unknowingly, with the women of the Chandālas, Mlechchhas, Swapachas, as well as those who observe the Kapāla-Vrata,* one is purified by a Parāka. (83)

But if one knows them, willingly, and procreates children, he is degraded to the same caste ; there is no doubt in it, for that man is born as her son. (184)

If a twice-born person, being anointed with oil or clarified butter, passes urine or excreta ; or if a twice-born person being anointed with oil or clarified butter, touches a Chandāla ;—he should, after fasting for a day and night, purify [himself] with the Pañchagavya. (185)

By touching hairs, insects, nails, nerves, bones, and thorns, one becomes purified by bathing in river-water and drinking clarified butter. (186)

By touching the bones of a fish, or of a jackal, nails, an oyster-shell, or a small univalve shell, one becomes purified by bathing and drinking hot clarified butter purified by gold. (187)

The purity [or—otherwise] of a cow-shed, a boiler-house, oil-mill, sugarcane-press, women and diseased persons should not be discussed (i.e., they are always pure). (188)

A woman is not sullied by being known by another ; nor a Brāhmaṇa, by [harmful] Vedic rites ; nor a [river] water, by urine and excreta ; nor fire, by burning impure articles. (189)

Women were first enjoyed by the Celestials ; then, by the moon, the Gandharvas and the Fires. Afterwards

* Lowcastes : offspring of a Brahmana-mother and a fisherman father.

came men to enjoy them. They are never affected by any sin. (190)

When a woman conceives by being known by a asavarṇa (i.e., one belonging to a higher caste than she), she remains impure till she does not give birth to a child. (191)

When, after delivery, the menstrual blood is seen, the woman becomes purified like pure gold. (192)

If despite her complete unwillingness, a woman is known deceitfully, forcibly or stealthily, that woman, unaffected by any sin, should not be renounced ; for she has not done so willingly. [Her husband] may hold congress with her at the time of the menses, [for a woman] becomes pure at the flowering time. (193—194)

A washerman, a cobbler, an actor, a Varuda, a Kaivarta, a Mēda, and a Bhilla—these seven are known, in the Smṛiti, as degraded castes. (195)

By knowing their women, taking their food and accepting gifts from them, if willingly, one should perform Prājāpatya for a year ; and, if unknowingly, two Chāndrāyaṇas. (196)

The woman, who has once been known by the Mléchchhas, or by the perpetrators of crimes, becomes purified with the Prājāpatya and the menstrual flow. (197)

The woman, who has once, being taken away forcibly, or herself, by being imposed upon, been thus known, becomes purified with a Prājāpatya. (198)

If the menses appears in women who have been practising hard austerities for a long time, their religious observances are not destroyed thereby. (199)

If a twice-born person drinks water from vessels contaminated by spirituous liquors, he becomes purified

by a Kṛichhrapāda and by undergoing the purificatory rites once again. (200)

The trees, belonging to degraded castes and having many flowers and fruits, could be enjoyed by all with their fruits and flowers. (201)

If a twice-born person drinks water touched by a Chāṇḍāla, he becomes purified by a Kṛichhrapāda. So the ascetic A pastamva has said. (202)

What would be the penance for drinking water from a well contaminated by phlegms, shoes, excreta, urine, menstrual blood of a woman and spirituous liquor? (203)

[To fast] for one day, two, and three, days, is the purifying penance for the [three] twice-born castes [severally] To take meals in the night is the punishment for a S'ūdra. (204)

By touching [an article] immediately vomitted out, a Vipra should bathe with his raiment on; [by touching] what was ejected on the previous day, [one should fast for] a day and a night; [and by touching what was ejected] days before, [one should fast for] three days. (205)

The head, neck, thighs and feet being contaminated with spirituous liquor, one should fast, in order, for ten, six, three and one day. (206)

By once unknowingly drinking spirituous liquors, except Surā-(wine), the foremost of the twice-born becomes purified by living on the urine of a cow and barley for ten nights. (207)

The Celestials do not partake of the food nor drink the water offered by the foremost of the twice-born, who eats the food of a drunkard or of a Chāṇḍāla. (208)

The woman, who falls down from the funeral pyre, [of her husband], or who gets no menses on account of a disease, becomes purified by a Prājāpatya and feeding ten Brāhmaṇas. (209)

The twice-born persons,—who, returning from a life of mendicancy or coming back alive from water, fire, or from a vow of fasting to death, desire again to lead the domestic mode of life,—should perform three Prājāpatyas or one Chāndrāyana. And it is said that they are required to perform all the purificatory rites beginning with the Jātakarman. (210—211)

No impurity [should be observed], no water [should be offered], no tears [should be shed], no singing of merits, no expression of sorrow, and no living on a bare bedstead, should be done for those killed by a Brāhmaṇa's imprecation. (212)

He, who does so out of affection or fear, should perform one purifying penance by living upon the urine of a cow and barley. (213)

Three nights [form the period of purification] for him, who, being aged, losing all knowledge of the purificatory injunctions of the Smṛiti and neglecting the instructions of a physician, kills himself, by falling down from a high place, or by entering into water, or fire, or by fasting. His bones should be deposited on the second day. And performing the watery rite on the third day, [his son] should perform the S'rāddha on the fourth. (214—215)

Whence would his welfare come and how could his ignorance be destroyed, in whose house there is not a single cow followed by a calf? (216)

A cow being killed by excessive milking, carrying an excessive load, by its nose being bored through, in a river or in a mountain, or by being shut up, one should perform a Pādana. (217)

The virtuous driving of a ploughshare, is by eight bulls ; [to do so by] six bulls, is what is in general practice ; to do so by four [is the work] of the cruel-hearted ; one who does so by two bulls, is the killer of a bull. (218)

It is laid down in the Smṛiti that two bulls shall carry a plough for one prahara ; four, up to mid-day ; six, up to the third part of the day ; and eight, for the whole day. (219)*

One killing a cow by a piece of wood, a clod of earth, or a stone, should perform the distressing penance of Sāntāpanam ; if she is killed by a earthen clod, one should perform the Prājāpatya ; and if by an iron, a highly distressing penance. (220)

When the penance is completed, one should feed the Brāhmaṇas and make a gift of a cow with a bull unto a Vipra. (221)

The penance for killing a S'ūdra is also laid down for slaying a S'arabha-deer, camel, horse, elephant, lion, tiger or an ass. (222)

By killing a cat, an alligator, a mongoose, a frog or a bird, one should either drink [only] milk for three days or perform a Pūdakṛichhrah. (223)

[Fasting for] three nights [effects] the purification of one touched by a Chandāla or of one sullied by urine or excreta. And by taking the residue of one's own food, he should act similarly (i.e., fast for three nights). (224)

The purification of contaminated tanks, wells and pools [of water, is effected] by taking out one hundred

* The import of the S'loka is, that one commits no sin if he makes these bulls work for a limited time, so that they may not suffer from excessive toil or exhaustion.

jarfuls of water and then by [throwing into them] Pañchagavya. (225)

[If the water of a vessel] is sullied by bones or skin or by asses or dogs, all its water should be thrown off, and its purity, [effected by] rubbing. (226)

The water, of a vessel in which a cow is milked, that in a leather bag, that in an instrument for fetching water, that in the hands of an artizan or of a mechanic, that used by women, aged persons or by children, and that used by them whose impurity has not been marked, are [always] pure. (227)

The [question of] impurity should not be thought of when a city is besieged, in an inaccessible place, in an encampment, when the house is set on fire, when a sacrifice is begun, or in great festivities. (228)

By drinking water from a place whence travellers get water for drinking, in a forest (i.e., in an unknown tank), in a vessel, in a well, in a Droni (vessel containing water for bathing), or that trickling down from the sheath [of a sword], or that touched by a S'wapāka or by a Chandāla, one becomes purified with the Pañchagavya. (229)

If one drinks the water of a well polluted with semen, excreta or urine, one becomes purified in three nights. [By drinking such water] in a jar, [one should perform] the Sāntāpanam. (230)

If a leading twice-born person unknowingly drinks water contaminated by an entirely or partially rotten dead body, he should, by so drinking, perform the penance of Taptakṛichhraḥ. (231)

By drinking the milk of a she-camel, that of a she-ass, or that of a woman, the foremost of the twice-born should perform the penance of Taptakṛichhraḥ. (232)

The foremost of the twice-born, when, having still the leavings of food in his mouth, touched by a caste outside [the pale of the recognised castes], should, after fasting for five nights, get purified with the Pañchgavya. (233)

The water that gives satisfaction to the kine, that which is in natural state, that which lies on earth, that which is in a leather bag, that which is in currents, or that which is taken up by an instrument, is [always] pure. (234)

Bathing is laid down [for him, who is] touched by a Chandāla; when so touched while, he has still the leavings of food in his mouth, [one] should get purified [by fasting] for three nights. (235)

Articles brought from a machine are never impure; all the instruments are pure, except that which manufactures wine. (236)

Barley, gram, date, or camphor, whether broken or unbroken, are held to be pure by the Smṛiti. Other articles, when separated from husks, are pure. (237)

The actions of women are not to be discussed; [they are always] pure. Rain-drops are always unsullied, and so is the dust driven by the wind. (238)

If one, amongst many articles lying together, becomes sullied, only that one is to be considered impure, and not the others under any circumstances. (239)

Of all sitting in the same row but taking meals separately, if one puts on a cloth dyed with indigo, all of them [become] impure, according to the Smṛiti. (240)

He, in whose cotton cloth or silk raiment indigo dye is seen, should have to fast for three nights; and others, for one night only. (241)

“O lord, O thou having asceticism for wealth, do thou tell how could one be purified, if he touches what should not be touched in the night after sunset."

[Said the Rishis.] (242)

[ATRI said :—]

Touching, in the night, after sunset, the water brought during the daytime, 'brings about the purification of all, except the touching of a dead body. (243)

Thereupon a learned person] after examining the place, time, age, power and [the nature of] the sin, should determine the penance for the sin, the expiation of which has not been spoken of. (244)

There is no sin in being touched while going to see idols, in 'marriages, in sacrifices, and in all sorts of festivities. (245)

A'ranālam (gruel made from the fermentation of boiled rice), milk, fried paddy, curd, sour gruel, any article fried with oil, buttermilk, [even when made] by a S'ūdra does not bring on any sin. (246)

Raw meat, clarified butter, oil, and oily substances entrained from fruits, even when kept in vessels of degraded castes, attain to purification when brought out. (247)

By knowingly drinking water from the S'ūdras, a Brahmana should fast for a day and night and, [then] after bathing, should get [himself] purified with the Pañchagavya. (248)

The Vīpra, who maintains the Sacred Fire, if he commits a great sin, should throw the vessels into the water, and then replace the Fire. (249)

His food should not be taken, who, without taking the Vivāha-Fire (i.e., without marrying), wishes to lead the domestic mode of life, for he is known in the Smṛiti as one whose cooking is useless. (250)

By taking food from one whose cooking is of no value, a twice-born person should perform a penance—By thrice performing the Prāṇāyama in the waters, rinsing his mouth and taking clarified butter, he attains to purification. (251)

For the expiation of the sin of Pañchasūna,* one should perform a Vais'wadēva-[Sacrifice] in the Vaidik-, Loukik-(ordinary), and the Hutochchhista-,† Fire, either in water or on earth. (252)

If the eldest brother becomes disqualified, the youngest, endued with accomplishments and knowledge, [and therefore] the best, should marry and set up the Sacred Fire before [his elder brother]. (253)

If the eldest brother is unsullied by any sin and [the younger brother] sets up the Sacred Fire before, he commits the sin of Brahmanicide daily; there is no doubt in it. (254)

Bathing is laid down for him who is touched by a Mohā-Pātakīn. Bathing is [also] laid down for him who partakes of his food. (255)

By associating with the degraded for a month or a fortnight, one attains to purification by living on barley and the urine of a cow for half-a-month. (256)

By [knowingly] taking once the food of a degraded person, the foremost of the twice-born should perform half-a-K-ichhrah. By unknowingly eating it, he should perform a Sāntapanam. (257)

* Hearth, (iron) mortar, pestle, flat stone and a wooden mortar,—these five are called Sūnā. The expiation is for the sin that accrues from killing animals in all these.

† The fire that is kept up by clarified butter after the performance of the daily Homa.

When a person partakes of the food of a degraded one or takes his meals in a Chandāla's house, he should live upon water [only] for a fortnight. S'átátapa has said so. (258)

No cremation should be performed for those that are killed by a Bráhmaṇa or by a cow, nor for the degraded ; this is the deliverance of S'aṅkha. (259)

The twice-born person, who under the influence of lust, knows a Chandāla-woman, should get [himself] purified by three penances [performed] according to the regulation of the Prájāpatya. (260)

If a Bráhmaṇa takes food or accepts [a present] from a degraded person, he should, after vomiting the food and returning the present, perform an Atikṛichhraṇ (a highly distressing penance). (261)

One should not touch the wood, clod of earth, or the twig fallen on a dead body from the hands of a degraded caste, nor the residue of his food ; [by doing so], one should fast for a day and night. (262)

By touching a Chandāla, an outcaste, a Mléchchha, a wine-bowl, or a woman in [her] menses, a twice-born person should not take his meals. If [he is touched by any of these,] while taking [his] meals, [he must at once stop.] (263)

Thereafter he should not take his meals ; and giving up his food, he should bathe. And being commanded by the Bráhmaṇas, he should fast for three nights. And taking Yávaka (food prepared from barley) together with clarified butter, he should complete the sacrifice. (264)

Purification is [effected by fasting] for three nights, if a person, while taking meals, touches a crow or a fowl ; [if he does so] with the leavings of food in his mouth

[he should get himself purified by fasting] for a day. (265)

By undertaking the duties of a perpetual religious student, vowing lifelong abstinence and chastity, he, who deviates from them, should perform a Chāndrāyana extending over a month. Ś'ātātapa has said so. (266)

Prājāpatya is laid down for holding sexual intercourse with a beast, or with a harlot. By holding intercourse with a cow, one should perform a Chāndrāyana spoken of by Manu. (267)

By discharging semen into inhuman females except a cow, into a woman in [her] menses, into others that have no female organs (i.e., a man or a eunuch), or into water one should perform the penance of Sāntapanam. (268)

If one touches a woman in [her] menses, a woman who has given birth to a child, or a lowcaste woman, he should get himself purified by [fasting for] three nights. This is the eternal regulation. (269)

If one cohabits with a woman in [her] menses or with lowcaste women, he is known as being obliged to perform a penance; he should [take his] bath before that. (270)

[By touching them while passing urine,] one should observe [fasting] for one night; and for three nights, while passing excreta; for three nights, while drinking water; and for five or seven nights, while holding intercourse. (271)

A Prājāpatya is laid down for those touching [them], while taking meals; and [fasting] for a day and night, while cleansing the teeth with a piece of wood. This is the purifying regulation according to the Smṛiti. (272)

By being touched by dogs, Chīṇḍilas or crows, a woman in her menses should remain fasting till [the menstrual period] and should get herself purified by bathing in time. (273)

If a woman, in her menses, is touched by camels, jackals or hogs, she should remain fasting for five nights and get herself purified with the Pañchagavya. (274)

[In case of] women, in their menses, touching each other, a Brāhmaṇa-woman, touching another Brāhmaṇa-woman, should remain fasting for one night and get herself purified with the Pañchagavya. (275)

[In case of] women, in their menses, touching each other, a Brāhmaṇa-woman, touching a Kṣatriya-woman, should get herself purified by [fasting for] three nights. This is the deliverance of Vyāsa. (276)

[In case of] women, touching each other while in menses, a Brāhmaṇa-woman, touching one born of a Vaisya, should fast for four nights and get herself purified with the Pañchagavya. (277)

[In case of] women, touching each other while in menses, a Brāhmaṇa-woman, touching one born of a Sūdra, becomes purified by [fasting for] six nights. [This is rule when] a Brāhmaṇa-woman does so willingly. (278)

If a Brāhmaṇa-woman unknowingly touches them all, she should perform half the penance. This has been described as the purification for the four Varnas. (279)

S'aṅkha's deliverance is :—If a Brāhmaṇa is touched by another Brāhmaṇa having the leavings of food in his mouth, while taking meals or passing urine, he should bathe; the recitation of the Gāyatrī and performance of Homa are for the Brāhmaṇa who is [similarly] touched by a Kṣatriya; when by a Vaisya, he should perform a Nakta-Vrata (abstention from food during the night); and fasting [is for him, if similarly touched by] a S'ūdra. (280—281)

A cobbler, a washerman, one making articles of bamboo, a fisherman and an actor,—having touched all these out of stupefaction, a twice-born person should, being self-restrained, rinse his mouth. (282)

By being touched by these, a twice-born person should drink water for one night; by being touched by them, having the leavings of food in their mouth, he should [fast] for three nights and get himself purified by drinking clarified butter. (283)

The Brāhmaṇa, who goes under the shadow of a S'wapāka, should bathe and get himself purified by drinking clarified butter. (284)

A twice-born person, against whom a charge is laid, should perform the penance for Brahmanicide in the forest, or fast for a month or perform a Chāndrāyana. (285)

When a false accusation is made, [one should] perform the penance for the destruction of an embryo. Fasting for twelve days, he should get himself purified by a Parāka. (286)

By killing a deceitful Brāhmaṇa, one should perform the penance for killing a S'ūdra. A qualified person, having killed one who is shorn of accomplishments, should perform a Paraka. (287)

If a man, sullied with a minor sin, breathes his last, the person, who performs the funeral rite for him, should perform two Prājāpatyas. (288)

If a twice-born person, while taking meals, touches [another] out of excessive love, he should perform the Nakta (night-fasting) for three nights; and if not out of love, he should fast [for three nights]. (289)

By eating the residue of the food taken by a cat, crow, dog, or a mungoose, or a food contaminated by hairs or by insects, one should drink the highly powerful decoction of Brahmī-leaves. (290)

By willingly getting upon a conveyance drawn by camels or asses, or by bathing in a nude state, a Vipra, should become purified with the Prānāyāma. (291).

[When one], having suppressed the vital airs, recites the Gāyatrī thrice with the Vyahṛiti-Pranava, and the Mantram—“A'pojyotiḥ,” it is called Prānāyāma. (292)

In Pañchagavya, one must put one portion of dung; twice, urine; fourfold, clarified butter and milk; and eight times curd, of a cow. (293)

A S'ūdra who takes the Pañchagavya and a Brāhmaṇa who drinks spirituous liquors are equally guilty. They live in hell for good. (294)

The milk of a she-goat, of a cow, or of a she-buffaloe which eat unholy things (excreta, etc.), [should never be used] in Havya and Kavya; and cowdung [of such a cow] should never be used for paste. (295)

The milk of those that have more or less udders, as well as that of those which drink milk from the udders [of other kine] must never be offered to the Celestials; even though offered, it remains A'huta [unaccepted, i.e., like that which has not been offered at all]. (296)

By taking food at the rite of depositing the Sacred Fire, in a Soma-Yajña (Moon-Plant Sacrifice), at the rite of Simantonayana, at a S'rāddha consequent on a birth, and at the first S'rāddha, one should perform a Chāndrāyana. (297)

A Kshatriya's food destroys energy, and a S'ūdra's food destroys Brahma-vigour. He, who partakes of his daughter's food, eats the dirt of the earth. (298)

If one's own daughter does not give birth to a child, the father should not take his meals at her house. He who takes food out of love, goes to the Puya-Hell. (299)

One informed of the esoteric meaning of all the Scriptures, who having studied the four Vēdas, takes his meals in a Kshatriya's house, is born as a virmin in excreta. (300)

The departed Manes, of a twice-born person, who, except in a calamity, takes food at the first S'rāddha, at that taking place in the third fortnight, at a six-monthly, monthly, or at an annual S'rāddha, become degraded. (301)

[By taking food] at the first S'rāddha, [one should perform] a Chāndrāyana, at a monthly, a Paraka; at a third fortnightly, an Atikrichhraḥ; at a six-monthly, a Krichhraḥ; at an annual, a Padakrichhraḥ; and at the next annual, [he should fast] for a day. (302)

The departed Manes, of the twice-born person, who, without observing Brahmacharyya, takes his food in monthly S'rāddhas, Parva-S'rāddhas, at a twelfth-day-S'rāddha, in a third-fortnightly, or at an annual S'rāddha, fall down, even if when stationed in the region of Brahmā. (303)

By fasting for a day, when taking food in a S'rāddha which should be performed on the eleventh day; and for three days when taking food prepared by many persons collectively;—a Vipra, duly reciting the Mantram- "Kushmaṇḍa," should offer clarified butter to the Fire. (304)

By taking the food of that wicked-souled wight in whose house twice-born persons do not take meals either in a fortnight or in a month, a twice-born person should perform a Chāndrāyana. (305)

The house, which does not resound with Vedic recitation, which is not adorned with kine, and which is not filled with children, is like a cremation-ground. (306)

The place, where many people, even when laughing, do not speak of any thing else but religion, is, even when without any Religious Code, religious and therefore holy, according to the Smṛiti. (307)

He, who unknowingly salutes a lowcaste person, should immediately bathe and get [himself] purified by taking clarified butter. (308)

If, when ready for bathing, a twice-born person takes his meal or drinks water, he should, after bathing and being self-restrained, recite the Gāyatrī for eight thousand times. (309)

To cleanse the teeth with a finger, to eat unmixed salt, and to eat earth is equally sinful like eating beef. (310)

[To live under] the shade of a Kapithva-tree during the day, [to take] curd in the night, [to live] under the shade of a S'amī-tree, to use a cotton-reed for cleaning the teeth, robs even Vishnu's prosperity. (311)

The Sun [when seen at the rising], the wind [of the cremation ground], the water on the finger-nails, the water in a pitcher touched by a cloth at the time of bathing, the dust of a broomstick, and water sprinkling from the hairs, destroy the virtue acquired in the day. (312)

He, who is covered with the broomstick dust and the water sprinkling from hairs, [both] originating from a temple, is [said to be] sprinkled with the Ganges-water. (313)

The earth, in an anthill, in the hole of a mouse, in the water, in the cremation-ground, at the root of a tree, in a temple, and that dug by bulls, should always be discarded by learned persons seeking their well-being. (314)

Earth freed from pebbles and stones, should be collected from a holy place. (315)

[While passing] excreta, [holding] sexual intercourse, [making] Homa, cleansing the teeth, bathing, taking meals, and making adorations, one should always abstain from speaking at all. (316)

He,—who, always abstaining from speech, takes his meals for full one year,—lives gloriously in the celestial region for a thousand Koti Yugas. (317)

Placing the feet on the seat and binding the waist and knee-joints with a piece of cloth (Praud'apāda), one should not bathe, make gifts, recite the Gāyatrī, perform Homa, take meals, adore the Deities, study the Védās and offer oblations to the departed Manes. (318)

He,—who, having killed a leading Brāhmaṇa, gives away his all,—reaps the fruit of destroying a foetus after having killed all creatures. (319)

To make gifts is known as necessary on the occasion of an eclipse, a marriage, the last day of a month and at the delivery of a woman. It is therefore better [to make gifts] even in the night. (320)

He, who gives away a sacred thread of silk, cotton, or patta (woven silk), wins the fruit of making a gift of a cloth. (321)

One should, with reverence and due rite, give away a belmetal vessel, beautified and filled with clarified butter. [By it,] he wins the fruit of an Agnistoma. (322)

He, who gives away a pair of excellent sandals at the time of a S'rddha, even when wending another (i.e., improper) way, wins the fruit of giving away boiled rice. (323)

The person, who attentively makes a gift of an oil-vessel completely filled, forsooth, goes to the celestial region; there is no doubt in it. (324)

He, who gives food during famine; he, who gives gold in a prosperous time; and he, who gives water in a forest [where there is no water], fares gloriously in the celestial region. (325)

A cow is known, in the Smṛiti, as the earth, so long she gives birth, half-way, to a young one. By him, who gives away such a cow, the earth is made a gift of. (326)

The fires are gratified with clarified butter; and the departed Manes, with oblations; and all the Celestials are adored by him, who gives food daily to the kine. (327)

All the sins, inherited by one, from birth, from father and mother, are all, forsooth, speedily dissipated by the gifts of food and cloth. (328)

He, who gives away a black antelope-skin with all the necessary ingredients, rescues, from hell, a hundred generations. (329)

The Sun, Varuṇa, Viṣṇu Brahmá, Soma, Fire, and the Divine Wielder of the Trident (S'iva), welcome the giver of lands. (330)

With the expiration of a hundred years [enjoyment in the celestial region], only an atom of sands, collected in heaps reaching the region of the Saptarshi, is destroyed.* (331)

No deterioration [of piety] is seen in him who gives away a maiden-daughter [in marriage], and in him who gives life in a disease. These three gifts bear equal fruits. (332)

The gift of learning is superior to all these gifts.

* The meaning is that there is no end of his enjoying the piety so acquired.

One, who gives it with an end in view to a non-deceitful Brāhmaṇa and to one's own kinsmen headed by the son, attains to the celestial region ; and if disinterestedly, to emancipation. (333)

If a person seeks his own well-being, he should make gifts unto a Brāhmaṇa, well-read in the Vēdas, versed in all the Scriptures, devoted to parents, knowing his wife in the time of Ritu, (i.e., immediately after the menstrual period), endued with good character and conduct, and given to bathing in the morning. (334—335)

Leaving aside learned Brāhmaṇās, one should not make any gifts to any other person. I have neither seen nor heard of such a course. (336)

I shall now describe the twice-born persons, who are worthy to take part in a S'rāddha ;—by making gifts to whom the departed Manes live [in the celestial region] eternally ; and [also] those, a gift unto whom becomes profitless. (337)

One should never feed these at a S'rāddha :—one who is short of limbs ; one who is diseased ; one who does not study the S'ruti and the Smṛiti ; and one who always speaks the untruth. (338)

[One should not feed] a hurtful person, a deceitful person ; one who hiding his ownself learns the Vēda ; one who is a servant ; one who is tawny-coloured ; a deaf ; one suffering from white leprosy ; one who is diseased ; one who has a bad skin ; one who has withered hairs ; one who suffers from jaundice ; one who wears matted locks ; one who carries a load ; one who is angry ; one who has taken two wives ; and one who has married a Vṛishali. (339—340)

He, who creates dissensions ; he who injures man

one who is short of limbs; or one who has an extra limb;—these should also be excluded. (341)

One who eats too much; one who has a poorly grave face; he who is egoistic; and one who is gifted with wicked intellect;—neither should any be ever given to, nor should any be ever accepted from any of these (342)

He who contaminates a row by physical deformities but is well-read in the Vēdas, is not blameable, as Yama has said, and is the sanctifier of the row. (343)

The S'ruti and the Smṛiti are described as the two eyes of the Vipras. One who is deficient in either of the two, is described as the one-eyed; and one who is deficient in the both, as stone-blind. (344)

ATRI has said :

“That wretch of a blind man, who has no [knowledge of] the S'ruti or of the Smṛiti, who has no character, no family, should not be given any present at a S'rāddha. (345)

Therefore the Brahmanahood (i.e., the status and dignity) of a Brāhmaṇa [is encompassed] by both the Vēdas and the Dharma-S'āstras; and not by the Vēdas only. The divine Atri has said so. (346)

He,—who, endued with eyes stationed in yoga, places the forepart of his foot (i.e., wends good ways), and observes the regulations and restrictions established by human usage, the Dharma-S'āstras, the Vēdas and the Rishis,—is, indeed, one endued with most excellent vision and a master of all the S'āstras. (347)

One should feed at a S'rāddha, one who observes religious vows, is born in a good family and is always devoted to the S'ruti and the Smṛiti. [By it, the residence] of the departed Manes [becomes] eternal [in the eternal region]. (348)

As long as [such Vipras] take morsels of food [offered] to the effulgent departed Manes, the father, grandfather and the great-grandfather, even when stationed in hell, become liberated and repair to the celestial region. Therefore, one should examine carefully the Brāhmaṇās at the time of a S'rāddha. (349—350)

A twice-born person, hearing his father dead, who does not perform the S'rāddha at the every wane of the Moon (i.e., Amāvasyā) is required to perform a penance. (351)

Wealth, sons, and the family of the householder, who does not perform the S'rāddha when the Moon is in conjunction with the Kanyā (the sixth sign of the zodiac, i.e., in the dark-fortnight of the month of A's'vin) become destroyed by the sighs of the Manes. (352)

When the Sun is in the Kanyā, the departed Manes get good sons. The region of the dead remains always empty till the seeing of the Vṛis'chika (the sign Scorpio, i.e., till the Amāvasyā of the month of A's'vin). (353)

Thereupon, if, at the advent of the Vṛis'chika (i.e., on the Amāvasyā), the departed Manes become disappointed [for the non-performance of the S'rāddha], they, imprecating a highly dreadful curse on the son, brother, daughter's son, or son's son, return to their own habitations. (354)

Those, who are devoted to the rites for the departed Manes, attain to the most excellent condition. (355)

As fire exists in all [pieces of] wood [in an invisible form but is manifested] by friction, so virtue is, forsooth, visible by gifts made at a S'rāddha. (356)

To make gifts at a S'rāddha is undoubtedly equal to the understanding of the meaning of all the scriptures, bathing at the sacred places and the fruit of all the scriptures. (357)

Like the Sun freed from all clouds, like the Moon released from Rāhu, one,—laden with all sins and minor sins,—does undoubtedly, freed from all sins, get over all miseries and attains, himself, to all sorts of felicity. (358—359)

Of all gifts, that made at a S'rāddha is superior. The gift [made] at a S'rāddha is [the instrument of] purification, when sin equal to [the Mount] Meru [in height] is committed. By performing a S'rāddha, one reigns supreme in the celestial region. (360)

A Brāhmaṇa's boiled rice is ambrosia; that of a Kshatriya is known, in the Smṛiti, as milk; that of a Vais'ya is simple food; and that of a Sūdra is blood. (361)

All this has been described by me at the time of a S'rāddha [at a rite for] the Vais'wadēvās, at the Homa; at the adoration of a Deity and at the recitation. (362)

Because the boiled rice of a Vipra is sanctified by the Rig-, Yajush-, and the Sāma-, (Mantram), it is ambrosia; because a Kshatriya's boiled rice is subject to the dominations of laws and acquired by fair ways and religious rites, it is called milk; and a Vais'ya's boiled rice is called so, because [it is acquired] by tending cattle. (363)

In the Smṛiti, there are ten classifications of Vipras, viz., a Dēva, an ascetic, a twice-born one, a king, a Vais'ya, a Sūdra, a Nishāda, a beast, Mlechchha and a Chandāla. (364)

One who performs [both the morning and evening] adorations, the sacred bath, the recitation of the Gāyatrī, the Homa, the daily adoration of the Deities, and who receives guests and worships the Vais'wandevas, is called a Dēva-Brāhmaṇa. (365)

A Vipra, who lives on vegetables, leaves, roots and fruits, always lives in the forest, and always performs a S'rāddha, is called a Muni. (366)

He, who daily studies the Védānta, gives up companionship, and discusses the Sāṅkhya-Yoga, is called a Dwija. (367)

That Vipra, who, in the very beginning of a battle and before all, strikes all holders of bow with weapons and defeats [them],—is called a Kshtra. (368)

That Vipra, who is given to agriculture, who tends kine, and who drives a trade, is called a Vais'ya. (369)

That Vipra, who sells shell-lac, salt, saffron, milk, clarified butter, honey, or meat, is called a S'ūdra. (370)

A Vipra, who is a thief or a robber, or who is ever prone to give bad advice or give vent to harsh words, and who is always fond of fish and flesh, is called a Nishāda. (371)

A Vipra who does not know the true nature and being of Brahman but is always proud of his sacrificial thread, is for that sin called a Pasu (beast). (372)

A Vipra, who unhesitatingly obstructs [the use of] tanks, wells, watery expanses, pleasure-grounds and lakes, is called a Mlechchha. (373)

A Vipra, who is devoid of all religious rites, is ignorant, innocent of all forms of religions and is cruel to all creatures, is called a Chandāla. (374)

Those, failing to understand the Vēdas, study the Dharma-Sāstras; those, failing to master the Dharma-Sāstras, study the Purāṇas; those, failing to acquire proficiency in the Purāṇas, betake to agriculture; and those, failing in it, become Bhāgavatas (deceitful followers of Viṣṇu.) (375)

The astrologers (i.e., who live by astrological calculations): the followers of the Atharvaṇ; and those, who recite the Purāṇas, without understanding their meaning;—should never be invited at a S'rāddha, sacrifice and at the distribution of great gifts. (376)

[In doing so,] a S'rāddha for the Manes, becomes dreadful, a gift becomes fruitless, and a sacrifice becomes profitless; therefore, one should always shun them. (377)

The four [classes of] Vipras, who sell sheep, who are painters, who are physicians, and who read the positions of stars, should never be adored, even if they are equal to Vṛihaspati in learning. (378)

The panegyrist, the flatterer, cheats, those who act harshly, and those who are avaricious,—these five Brāhmaṇas should never be adored, even if they are equal to Vṛihaspati in learning. (379)

A maiden, who is bought, should never be taken as a wife; the sons, begotten on her, are not qualified to offer funeral cakes to their departed Manes. (380)

Even when pierced with arrows in all his eight limbs, if a twice-born person drinks water with his palm, it is tantamount to the drinking of spirituous liquor or to the taking of beef. (381)

By washing the feet of Brāhmaṇas [lying] with thighs upraised, one lives like a Chandāla (i.e., in an impure state) till he immerses himself in the Ganges. (382)

The touching of the shades of lamps, beds, and seats, of the cotton-wood intended for cleansing the teeth, and of the dust raised by a goat,—robs even the prosperity of S'akra. (383)

[To bathe] in a well, is ten times more [meritorious] than [bathing] in the house; [to bathe] on the bank is ten times more [meritorious] than [bathing] in a well; [to bathe] in a river is ten times more [meritorious] than [bathing] on a bank. There is no enumeration [of virtues in bathing in] the Ganges. (384)

The current water is for a Brāhmaṇa; that of a tank, is for a Kṣatriya; that of a well or a pond, is for a Vais'ya; that of a pitcher, is for a S'ūdra. (385)

On the demise of a great Guru (i.e., father or mother), one should not, for a year, bathe at a sacred place, make great gifts and oblations of sesame to others. (386)

[In that year,] one should perform the S'rāddha at the Ganges, at Gayā, on the day of death and on the Amāvasyā-day; and offer the Maghā-piṇḍas, avoiding [the performance of] other [S'rāddhas.] (387)

Clarified butter, oil, milk and curd,—these four are the main ingredients of A'jya (offering of clarified butter); these should not be discarded even when offered. (388)

Having listened to these religious injunctions described by Atri himself, those Rishis, devoted to religious observances, again spoke to that high-souled one as follows :— (389)

Those, who would steadfastly follow these religious injunctions, shall attain to the celestial region after acquiring fame in this world. (390)

One, seeking learning, would obtain learning; one, desiring wealth, would get wealth; one, longing for a long life, would acquire longevity; and one, wishing for prosperity, would win great prosperity. (391)

SAMVARTA SAMHITA'.

HAVING approached Samvarta, seated alone, well-versed in Spiritual Science, the Rishis, desirous of [listening to] religion (i.e., religious institutes) asked, saying,—“O lord, we wish to listen to rites capable of securing spiritual well-being. O foremost of the twice-born, duly describe, unto us, religion, discriminating what is good and what is bad. (1—2)

All [the Rishis] headed by Vámadéva put this question to that highly effulgent [Rishi]. He, of a delighted mind, replied to all those Munins, saying,—“Hear.” (3)

The country, where a black antelope always ranges of its own accord, is to be known as a religious place fit for the performance of religious rites for the twice-born. (4)

Being invested with the sacred thread, a Vipra should always do good unto his preceptor. A Brahmachárin should renounce garlands, scents, honey and meat. (5)

He should duly perform the Sandhyá-adoration in the morning when the stars [are still visible], and the evening-adoration when the sun is half-set and the A'ditya (Sun) is still in the western sky. (6)

Standing up a Brahmachárin, being self-restrained, should perform the first part of the recitation [of the Gáyatrí]. And being seated, he should steadfastly perform the after-portion of the recitation. (7)

Therefore an intelligent [Brahmachárin] should perform the Homa at both the times; thereupon, he should study [the Védás], looking at the face of his preceptor. (8)

He should first recite the Pranava, then the Vyāhṛiti, and then the Gāyatrī from the beginning to the end, and then commence the study of the Védās. (9)

Placing the two hands firmly on the two thighs, with the permission of the preceptor he should begin his course. He should not have his mind strayed away [to any other subject]. (10)

A Brahmachārin, observant of the vow, should always beg alms [both] in the morning and evening. Having dedicated it to the preceptor, he should, in a purified state and restraining his speech, take his meals with his face directed towards the east. (11)

To take meals in the morning and evening is sanctioned in the S'ruti for the twice-born ones. No food should be taken in the interval. The regulation, [in this] is equal to that of the Agnihotra. (12)

After rinsing his mouth, a twice-born person should take his meals, and wash his mouth after taking food. He, who takes food without performing the A'chamanam, is required to perform an expiation. (13)

A twice-born person, who drinks or eats without performing the A'chamanam, should be purified by reciting the Gāyatrī for a hundred-and-eight times. (14)

A twice-born, who stands without washing his feet, or who performs the A'chamanam without binding the tuft of his hair on the crown or without putting on his sacred thread, is impure. (15)

With the sacred thread on and the face directed towards the north, one may perform the A'chamanam with the Brāhma-Tirtha; or, a twice-born person may, with the sacred thread on, restraining his speech and facing the east, perform it daily in a purified state. (16)

In the water, one should perform the A'chamanam by standing. Eternal purification [is also effected] by performing the A'chamanam on the ground. By performing the A'chamanam both in water and on the earth, one attains to purification. (17)

One should purify one's hands up to the wrist ; and the feet, with water ; without making any sound, one should perform the A'chamanam thrice, or four times with water, not hot, having its own colour, taste and smell, without any froth and reaching up to the heart. Rubbing his mouth twice, he should touch the twelve limbs. (18—19)

After bathing, drinking, eating or touching [an impure object], O ye leading twice-born ones, a Vipra, by performing the A'chamanam, according to this regulation, attains to purification. (20)

A S'údra becomes purified [by touching the twelve limbs] with his hand ; a Vais'ya, with water [touching merely] the teeth. And a Kshatriya, by performing the A'chamanam with water reaching the throat, attains to purification. (21)

[By performing it,] being seated on a seat, or when sitting on his hams with a cloth girt round the legs and knees, or with one foot placed above another, one never attains to purification. (22)

If one fails to perform religious meditation, or evening-adoration, or to offer oblations to the Fire, he should, after bathing and being restrained, recite the Gáyatri for a thousand-and-eight times. (23)

A Brahmachárin, who eats boiled rice of a person suffering from the impurity of birth, or that at the first S'rúddha, or that at the monthly [S'rúddha], should get himself purified [by fasting] for three nights. (24)

A Brahmachárin,—who, being stricken with lust knows a woman,—should, being observant of regulations, perform one most distressing penance of Prājāpatya. (25)

If a Brahmachárin happens to take somehow honey or meat, he should, after performing the Prājāpatya, be purified by a Mouñji-Homa. (26)

On a Parva-day, a Brahmachárin should dedicate cakes and offer oblations of clarified butter to the Fire with the Mantrams of S'ákala-Homa. (27)

A Brahmachárin, who knowingly discharges his seminal fluid, should perform the expiation consequent on the breach of the vow; and if unwillingly, he should be purified by bathing. (28)

He should, then, after roving about for alms, be at his ease [again]; for the semen is like unto one's own self. He, who takes food without taking his bath, should recite the Gáyatrí for one hundred and eight times. (29)

He, who takes his food or drink from a S'údra's hands, should get himself purified with the Pañchagavya after fasting for a day and night. (30)

Having taken boiled rice, that is dry, or rotten, or that partaken of by another or contaminated with hairs, one should get himself purified with the Pañchagavya after fasting for a day and night. (31)

By taking food in a vessel belonging to a S'údra, or in a broken plate, one should get himself purified with the Pañchagavya after fasting for a day and night. (32)

If a Brahmachárin, on any occasion, sleeps during the day in a healthy state, he should, after bathing and adoring the Sun, recite the Gáyatrí for one hundred and eight times. (33)

Thus is described the duty of those living in the first A's'rama or order. By following it, one: attains to the most excellent condition. (34)

Thereupon commanded by the preceptor, a twice-born person should espouse, according to the Brahma form of marriage, a maiden, belonging to the same caste, born in a great family, endued with all good marks and possessed of character and beauty. A twice-born person should, daily and duly, perform the five sacrifices. A Vipra, seeking his well-being, should, under no circumstances, abandon them. One should, [however,] always abandon them [in an impurity consequent] on birth and death. (35—37)

A Vipra, [on the occasion of a birth or death] should refrain, for ten days, from making gift or studying the Védās. A Kshatriya is purified in twelve days; a Vais'ya in fifteen days; and a S'údra in a month. Such is the deliverance of Samvarta. (38)

[After cremation,] water should be offered, after bath, to the deceased by those born in the same family on the first, third, seventh and the ninth day. (39)

On the fourth day, one (i.e., the chief mourner) should deposit [the bones of the departed] along with all persons born in the same family. Thereupon after the depositing of the bones, the touching of the limbs of [the chief mourner] is laid down. (40)

On the fourth day, a Bráhmaṇa's [limbs should be touched]; on the sixth, a Kshatriya's; and on the eighth, and the tenth, a Vaisya's and S'údra's [limbs should be respectively touched.] (41)

Similarly regulations about [the impurity of] birth have been laid down by the learned. Refraining from adoring the Vais'wadévas [the Bráhmaṇás] become purified in ten nights. (42)

To bathe with the raiment on, is laid down for the father on the birth of a son. A mother becomes purified in ten days. The touching of the father [is sanctioned after] bath. (43)

There (i.e., during the period of impurity) Homa may be performed with dry food and fruits; but one should never perform any rite of the five sacrifices [in a period of impurity consequent] on birth and death. (44)

After the tenth day a Vipra, conversant with Religious Institutes, should make a full study [of the Védás]; [and] auspicious gifts, destructive of inauspiciousness, should be duly made. (45)

What is most pleasant unto the dwellers of the [three] regions, what is most sought for by a householder, should be given unto an accomplished [Bráhmana by one,] desiring for un-ending [fruits]. (46)

By giving unto a great Vipra, various sorts of articles, profuse riches and gems born in an ocean, a person, shorn of sins, attains to great prosperity. (47)

The person, who, being conversant with Religious Institutes, gives away scents, ornaments and garlands enjoys always scents and remains happy wherever he is born. (48)

A gift, that is made with reverence to a person who is well-read in the Védás and born in a good family, yields a great fruit. (49)

Having invited a Vipra, possessed of character, knowledge of the S'ruti and good birth, a pure and highly learned person should adore him with Havya and Kavya. (50)

Various articles, yielding juice and kindling desire [for possession], should be made a gift of by one seeking his own well-being and desiring for eternal residence in the celestial region. (51)

One, who makes gift of a cloth, puts on a good cloth [in the next birth]; the giver of silver [attains to] beauty; a man, who gives away gold, gets a long life and energy. (52)

By giving [promise of] fearlessness unto creatures one comes by all desired for objects, attains to longevity and becomes happy. (53)

The giver of corns and water and that of clarified butter, enjoy happiness. Having made gifts of ornaments decorating [the person of a Bráhmaṇa] one attains to the fruits thereof (i.e., comes by ornaments in the next birth). (54)

By giving, unto a Vipra, fruits, roots, various vegetables and sweet-scented flowers, one is born as a learned person. (55)

A discriminating person, who gives betel-leaves unto the Bráhmaṇás, is born [in another birth] as an intelligent, lucky, wise, and handsome person. (56)

By making presents of sandals, shoes, umbrellas, bedsteads, seats and various vehicles, one attains to a divine position. (57)

He, who with great care makes gifts of fire and profuse fuels in winter, attains to fiery effulgence of the body, wisdom, beauty and good luck. (58)

By giving medicine, oil and food for curing the ailments of the diseased, one becomes freed from diseases, happy and long-lived (in another birth). (59)

He, who gives fuels unto the Vipras at the advent of the winter, daily winning victories in battle and being possessed of prosperity, shines with effulgence [in his next birth]. (60)

He, who, decorating a maiden with ornaments, gives her, unto a becoming bridegroom, according to the Brāhma mode of marriage, enjoys extraordinary prosperity by the virtue of the giving away of the maiden, acquires the applause of the pious; and attains to un-ending fame. (61—62)

Having given away [a maiden], sanctified with Homa-Mantrams, a person attains the fruits of hundreds of Jotisthoma-Sacrifice. (63)

Having given away a maiden-daughter, decorated with ornaments, clothes and seats a father attains to the celestial region and is adored of the Suras (celestials). (64)

The Moon enjoys a maiden when hairs grow on her person; seeing the menstrual blood the Gandharvas [enjoy her]; and seeing her rising breasts, the Fire. (65)

[A maiden] eight years [old] becomes a Gouri, one of nine years a Rohiṇī; and of ten years, a Kanyā (maiden); and after that, a Rajasvalā (a woman in menses). (66)

By seeing a maiden in menses, her mother, father and eldest brother—these three go to hell. (67)

Therefore one should espouse a maiden before she has menstreated; the marriage of an eight years old maiden is most preferable. (68)

A learned person, who makes a gift of oil, seats and water for washing feet, becomes always of a delighted mind and happy in this world. (69)

He,—who gives away, according to his power, after decorating them, two bulls, endued with good marks, capable of carrying carts and accompanied with a plough, —lives, having his soul purged off of all sins and secured all desired-for objects, in the celestial region for years equalling their downs in number. (70—71)

He,—who gives away, unto a twice-person, a milch-cow, after decorating her with belmetal bells and a cloth,—becomes glorified in the celestial region. (72)

By giving, unto a Bráhmaṇa, who has mastered the Védás, fertile lands and a young cow, one becomes glorified in the celestial region. (73)

The first offspring of the Fire is gold ; Vishṇu's offspring is the earth ; and kine are the daughters of the Sun. By him, who makes gifts of gold, earth and kine, three regions are given away. (74)

A man lives gloriously in the celestial region for years equalling the number of fruits and vegetables dedicated [by him]. (75)

The fruit, of all sorts of gifts, follows one birth ; but the fruit, of the gift of gold, earth and of an eight years old maiden, follows seven births. (76)

That man,—who makes gift of a good-natured milch-cow with a calf, having its horns bedecked with silver or gold, covered with a cloth, and freed from any disease,—repairing to the celestial region, lives near Brahmá for so many thousand years as are the downs of the cow and the calf. (77—78)

He,—who, according to the regulation mentioned before, makes gift of a sound bull,—reaps fruits ten times more than what is got by the gift of a cow [only]. (79)

The giver of water, being freed from thirst for all objects, attains to incomparable gratification ; the giver of boiled rice, being gratified with all objects, enjoys happiness. (80)

Of all gifts that of boiled rice, is considered as the highest in the Smṛiti; his life (i.e., the giver's) becomes more fruitful than those of all creatures. (81)

Since the Lord [Brahmā] creates, in every cycle, all creatures from boiled rice, therefore there has never been nor shall there ever be any gift higher than that of boiled rice. (82)

There is no gift superior to that of boiled rice, for from boiled rice all creatures, forsooth, originate and live. (83)

By giving, in order, unto a Vipra superior in accomplishments, earth, cowdung, Kus'ā-reed and the sacrificial thread, one is born in a great family. (84)

He, who makes gifts of scents for the mouth and wood for cleaning the teeth, becomes endued with pure fragrance and expert in speech. (85)

He,—who gives, unto a Vipra, water for washing the feet, generative organ and the anus,—becomes always of purified understanding. (86)

He,—who gives, unto the diseased, medicine, food suited to ailments, oily substances, those for rubbing the body, and protection,—becomes freed from all sorts of diseases. (87)

By giving away molasses, sugar-cane juice, salt, curries, and sweet-scented drinks, one becomes greatly happy. (88)

The virtue, [acquired] by various gifts, has thus been completely described; by the virtue of the gift of learning, one lives gloriously in the region of Brahmā. (89)

The Vipras,—who give boiled rice unto one another, who adore one another and who accept presents from one another,—save [themselves mutually] and are saved. (90)

By an intelligent person, seeking his own well-being, these gifts and others should be made specially unto the poor, the blind and other distressed persons. (91)

The person, who gets the hairs shaved and the nails pared of the Brahmachārins and Yatis, is born possessed of excellent eyes. (92)

The man,—who places lamps in temples, in the houses of the twice-born, at the crossing of four roads,—is born endued with intellect, discriminating knowledge and excellent eyes. (93)

A person,—by making gifts of sesame, according to his might in the daily and occasional rites, as well as in those undertaken with a particular motive,—is born possessed of children, animals and wealth. (94)

A Vipra, who, being solicited, gives away grass, wood, etc., as asked for, reaps fruits equal to that of the gift of a cow. (95)

A man, who being engaged in maintaining his own wife, commits culpable deeds, but knows her in the time of Ṛitu, comes by a most excellent condition. (96)

Living in the house, a Vipra, after [performing the duties of] the second order, should, on his flesh being loosened and hairs growing grey, resort to the third order. (97)

Taking his own wife, desirous of following him, and the sacred Fire, a wise man should repair to the forest and must not abandon the Homa-[Fire] (there.) (98)

He should duly, with forest-grown fruits, offer cakes [to the Celestials and the departed Manes]; and he should give alms, consisting of vegetables, fruits and roots, unto the mendicants. (99)

Offering oblations to the Fire, he should daily study,

[the Védās]; [and] on every Parva-day, he should perform the Ishti and the Páruṇa rites. (100)

Thus living in the forest and being informed of regulations about all objects, he should, after finishing the Homa rites and restraining his senses absolutely, resort to the fourth order. (101)

By placing the sacred Fire within himself, a twice-born person should adopt the life of mendicancy (i.e., of a Bhikṣhu). He should be given to the study of the Vēda and be devoted to spiritual science. (102)

By begging eight, seven, or five, morsels of food and washing them all with water, that Muni, being self-controlled, should partake of them. (103)

After taking his meals, a Vipra should live alone in a solitary forest; and, controlling his mind, body and speech, should meditate on [the Para-Brahma.] (104)

He should not seek death or life; so long as the lease of life exists, he should await the appointed hour. (105)

Thus serving the [four] orders, a twice-born person, who has conquered anger and the senses and who has learnt the Vēda-S'āstrā, attains to the region of Brahmā. (106)

The regulations, of all the A'sramas, have thus been described as a side-issue; I shall now duly describe the atonement for all the sins. (107)

The killer of a Bráhmaṇa, a drunkard, a stealer of gold, and one who knows his step-mother—all these are mahāpātakins (great sinners); the fifth is one who associates with them. (108)

Clad in bark, wearing matted locks, and carrying a speical mark, the destroyer of a Bráhmaṇa should repair into a forest; and, being shorn of all desires, he should live on forest fruits. (109)

If he cannot maintain himself with the forest-produces, like a mendicant he should roam in a village; [and] being self-controlled and carrying the mark of a bedstead that man should beg alms from the four Varnas. (110)

Having taken alms, he should again return to the forest; that sinful wight, shorn of idleness, should always live in the forest. (111)

That sinful wight, who has killed a Bráhmaṇa, should announce his crime and perform the penance for twelve years according to this regulation. (112)

Having controlled all the senses [and] being devoted to the well-being of all creatures, one, after performing the atonement for Brahmanicide, would be freed from the sin. (113)

Hereafter, O ye Vipras, I shall describe, unto ye, who are desirous of hearing, the means of expiation, laid down by the Veda-S'ástra, for the drinker of spirituous liquors. (114)

Goudi,* Paishthi,† as well as Múdhvī‡ are known as the three sorts of spirituous liquor; the one is as sinful as are the others; they should never be drunk of by the twice-born. (115)

The drinker of spirituous liquors, who wishes to be freed from the sin, should drink Surá (wine) after having heated it, or the urine of a cow of the colour of fire; or, he should eat cowdung of a similar colour. (116)

[Or, he should drink] heated clarified butter or similar milk; or, freed from all desires, he should live on particles of rice. (117)

* Spirit distilled from molasses.

† Spirit distilled from rotten rice.

‡ Spirit distilled from Mouá-flowers.

Or, the drinker of spirituous liquor should perform three Chândráyaṇa-penances. With the performance of the penance, he would be freed from the sin. (118)

Undoubtedly this is the purification for a drinker of spirituous liquor. By drinking water kept in a wine-bowl, one is required to perform the purificatory rites again. (119)

By stealing gold, a man should communicate it unto the king. Then the king, taking up a mace, should kill the thief. (120)

If that thief survives [the stroke,] he would be freed from [the sin of] theft; or, by living in a forest, being clad in bark, he should perform the penance for Brahmanicide. (121)

Or, having made a female figure with iron and heated it, he should embrace it; such is the purification for theft according to the deliverance of Samvarta. (122)

By lying on the bed of a step-mother, one should lie down on an iron bed; or, a twice-born person should perform three or four Chândráyaṇas. A penance being thus performed, he would, thereafter, be freed from the sin. (123)

If any person, stupefied by sin, associates for six or more months with these, he should perform the penance mentioned before. (124)

By associating with the mahāpātakins (great sinners), such as the destroyer of a Bráhmaṇa, one should, for the purification of that sin, perform the penance laid down for each [sinner respectively]. (125)

By killing a Kshatriya, one becomes purified with three Kṛichchhras; being self-restrained, he should similarly perform three Kṛichchhras. (126)

If any how one, under the influence of ignorance, kills a Vais'ya, that man—the destroyer of the Vais'ya, should perform a Kṛichchhātikṛichchhra. (127)

By killing a S'údra, one should duly perform a Tapta-Kṛichchhra. (128)

I shall, in sooth, describe the redemption for a cow-slaughter. A person, killing a cow, should, after controlling his senses, sleep on the bare earth in a cowpen filled with kine for half-a-month. A twice-born, seeking freedom from sin, should live, in order, upon all these—Suktu (sour gruel), Yávaka (boiled barley), Piṇyāka (sesame-paste), milk, curd and cowdung. Shorn of nails and hairs, he would be purified in half-a-month. (129—131)

Bathing thrice and following kine, a person, being self-restrained and shorn of pride, should do all these. (132)

He should, according to his might, recite daily the Gāyatrī and the sacred verses. Then completing his vow, he should give a most excellent feast to the Vipras. (133)

The Vipras being fed, he should give away a cow as a present. (134).

Many kine being slain [by one] either by binding or by shutting up, the penance for his purification would be double of that for [killing] a cow. (135)

If, by an accident on any occasion, one [cow] is killed by many, they should severally perform each part of the penance [laid down] for [a cow-] slaughter. (136)

If, for branding [a cow], for treating a cow, or for bringing out a dead foetus, any calamity (i.e., death) happens, there would be no sin. (137)

There is no penance for [a cow] being killed by being bound in the night, by a serpent, tiger, fire, or by any other calamity. (138)

[When a cow is killed] by being shut up, one should perform one part of the penance ; when by being bound, two parts ; and [when killed] for cutting off a limb, [one should perform the full penance] less by one part. (139)

By killing it with stones, sticks, rods or weapons, one should perform a complete penance for purification. (140)

By killing an elephant, a horse, a buffalo, a camel or a monkey, one should fast for seven nights in all these [sins.] (141)

By killing a tiger, a dog, a lion, a bear or a boar, a twice-born person should perform a penance and feed the Brāhmaṇas. (142)

By killing all sorts of forest-ranging deer, one should remain fasting for three nights and recite the Agni-Mantrams. (143)

By killing a swan, a crow, a crane, a pigeon, a Sārasa or a Bhāsa, one should spend three days [in fasting.] (144)

Chakravāka (ruddy goose), Krouncha (heron), Sārikā, parrot, Tittiri, falcon, vulture, Vuluka, pigeon, Tittibha, Jālapāda (water-fowl having a net), cuckoo, fowl,—[in the destruction] of all these birds, fasting for a day [is laid down.] (145—146)

By killing a frog, a snake, a cat, or mouse one should remain fasting for three nights [and then] feed the Brāhmaṇas. (147)

By killing boneless worms, one is purified with the Prāṇāyāma ; in killing those that have bones, a learned Vipra should make some presents. (148)

A twice-born person, who, stricken with lust, knows a Chāṇḍāla-woman, is purified, in order, with three Kṛichchhras [beginning] with the Prājāpatya. (149)

For knowing a Pukkasa-woman (the offspring of a Nishāda by a S'ūdra-woman), whether under the influence of lust or not, the penance of Chāndrāyana is laid down as the highest purification in the Smṛiti. (150)

By knowing an actress, a S'ailūshi (a dancing girl), a washer-woman, one who makes her living by bamboo-made articles, and a cobbler-woman, one should perform a Chāndrāyana. (151)

For him the penance of Sāntapanam becomes destructive of sin who, under the influence of lust, knows a Kshatriya-, or a Vais'ya-, woman. (152)

By knowing a S'ūdra-woman for a month or half-a-month, a Brāhmaṇa would become purified in a fortnight by living on barley and the urine of a cow. (153)

By knowing [another] Brāhmaṇa's wife, a Vipra should perform a Prājāpatya; a Kshatriya, by knowing [another] Kshatriya's wife, should perform the same penance (154)

By holding intercourse with a cow, a man should perform the penance of Chāndrāyana. (155)

By knowing a preceptor's daughter, father's sister or her daughter, one should perform the penance of Chāndrāyana. (156)

By unknowingly knowing a maternal uncle's wife, a woman of one's own family, the daughter of a maternal uncle, or a daughter-in-law, one would become purified by a Parāka. (157)

By knowing the wife of a paternal uncle, or a brother's wife, one should perform the penance [laid down] for knowing a step-mother. There exists no other redemption for him. (158)

By getting upon (i.e., co-habiting with) one's own father's wives other than his own mother, and by knowing any of these women, viz., a sister, a maternal uncle's daughter, a step-mother's sister, that vilest of men should perform a Taptakṛichchhra. (159)

For that vilest of men, who knows his own mother, daughter, or his own sister no atonement has been laid down. (160)

For knowing a maiden, one should perform this (i.e., the Prājāpatya); in holding sexual intercourse with an animal or a harlot, Prājāpatya is laid down. (161)

A twice-born person, who knows his wife's friend, a maiden, his own mother-in-law, or his wife's sister, one engaged in Niyama, or one observant of a religious vow, should perform an ordinary penance and give away a milch-cow. (162)

A highly distressing penance is laid down for the expiation of his sin, who co-habits with a woman in her menses, or with one who is in the family way, or with a degraded woman. (163)

By knowing a prostitute, a Brāhmaṇa should perform a Kṛichchhra; such is the expiation of sins according to the deliverance of Samvarta. (164)

By knowing another Brāhmaṇa's wife, a Brāhmaṇa would become purified by a Kṛichchhra. (165)

If somehow, a Brāhmaṇa-woman comes in contact with a S'ūdra, she should perform the penance of Chāndrāyana which is most purifying according to the Smṛiti. (166)

By somehow knowing a Brāhmaṇa-woman, a Kshatriya or a Vaisya would be purified in a month by living on barley and the urine of a cow. (167)

By knowing the women of Chāṇḍālas, Pukkasas, S'wapaṅkas, or of other degraded castes, one of a superior caste should perform three Chāndrāyanas. (168)

Listen now to the means of expiation for [other] sinners [than those mentioned above]. A wicked-minded person, who, having adopted a life of renunciation knows a woman for procreating children, should thereafter, untiringly perform a penance, extending over six months. (169)

This is the penance for those, who after taking poison or entering into fire [for committing suicide], become dark-coloured or of variegated colour. This is also the penance, laid down in the Smṛiti, for those outcastes who vilify [chaste] women and know censurable women. (170)

[This is also] the purification for killing men; the King of the departed spirits (Yama) has said so. (171)

No tear should be shed by the good, seeking their own well-being, for those killed by kine, or for those who have committed suicide. (172)

He,—who carries the dead-body of, or cremates the same, or performs the watery rites for, any of these,—should perform the penance of Chândrāyana. (173)

By merely touching the dead-body (i.e., not carrying or cremating the same), or by only touching its cloth, the former should perform a penance; and the latter, fast for a day. (174)

[The offering of] water and funeral cakes [and the performance of] S'rāddha for the great sinners and for those who commit suicide, do not at all reach [them] but are stolen by the Rākshasas. (175)

No S'rāddha should be performed by those who have been killed by the Chândālas, aquatic animals and snakes, [as well as] for those who have been killed by the punishment [given] by the Brāhmaṇas. (176)

If [before cleaning himself] after passing urine or excreta or with the leavings of food in his mouth, a twice-born person is touched by a dog, etc., he should, after bathing, recite the Gāyatrī for a thousand times. (177)

By touching a Chāṇḍāla, an outcaste, a dead-body, a lowcaste, a woman in her menses, and a woman in a state of impurity consequent on child-birth, one should bathe with the cloth on. (178)

Bathing is laid down for him who touches an object which should not be touched [with an article in his hand]; after that āchamanam and sprinkling of that article with water is spoken of. (179)

The foremost of the twice-born, who, with the leavings of food in his mouth, is touched by a Chāṇḍāla or any other [degraded caste], becomes purified by living on barley and the urine of a cow for six nights. (180)

By being touched by a dog or by another woman in menses, a woman in menses should fast for the remaining days [of the menstrual period] and get herself purified by drinking clarified butter after bathing [at the end of the menstrual period]. 181)

By drinking well-water contaminated by a Chāṇḍāla's vessel, one becomes purified by living on barley and the urine of a cow for three nights. (182)

By drinking water, out of ignorance, in sacred waters, tanks and rivers polluted by the degraded castes, one becomes purified with the Pañchagavya. (183)

By drinking water from wine-bowls, from a place where it is distributed to travellers, and that which comes from the sky, a twice-born person, after fasting for a day and night, should take the Pañchagavya. (184)

By drinking water from a well contaminated by excreta and urine, twice-born persons become purified [by fasting] for three nights; Sāntapanam is laid down, in the Smṛiti, as the expiation for drinking water from a pitcher [similarly contaminated]. (185)

[The following is] the means of purification for sullied tanks wells and ponds. By taking out a hundred pitcherfuls of water, one should throw the Pañchagavya [into them]. (186)

By drinking the milk of a sheep, that of an animal whose hoof is not cloven, (as a horse, an ass, etc.,) and that of a she-camel, the foremost of the twice-born, for the purification thereof, should take barley for three nights. (187)

By taking the milk of a she-goat, that of a cow pursued by a bull for impregnating her, and that of an animal that takes excreta, one attains to purification [by fasting] for three nights. (188)

By taking excreta and urine, one should perform a Prājāpatya; taking the food partaken of by a dog, crow or a cow, a twice-born person should [fast] for three days. (189)

By taking the food partaken of by a cat or a mouse, a twice-born person should take the Pañchagavya; by taking the residue of a S'ūdra's food one would become purified [by fasting] for three nights. (190)

By taking onion, garlic, as well as a domesticated fowl, a mushroom, and a domesticated hog, a twice-born person should perform a Chāndrāyana. (191)

By taking the urine or excreta of a dog, ass, camel, monkey, jackal or a Kaṅka (bird), a man should perform the penance of Chāndrāyana. (192)

By taking boiled rice, which is stale, or which is sullied by hairs or insects, or which has been seen by outcastes, a twice-born person should take the Pañchagavya. (193)

By taking food from the vessel of a degraded caste, or from that of a woman in menses, one would become purified, in half-a-month, by living upon barley and the urine of a cow. (194)

By taking all these interdicted food,—beef, human flesh and what is brought by the hand of a dog, one should perform a Chândrāyana. (195)

[By taking food] at the hands of a Chândāla, a S'wāpaka or of a Pukkasa, a Vipra would become purified, in half-a-month, by living upon barley and the urine of a cow. (196)

By associating with an outcaste for a month or a half, one would become purified, in half-a-month, by living upon barley and the urine of a cow. (197)

And on every occasion when a twice-born person would think himself impure, he should perform a Homa with sesame and recite the Gāyatrī. (198)

This auspicious regulation about penance has been spoken of by me. The penance, for sins not mentioned [before], should now be spoken of [by me]. (199)

Forsooth, the foremost of the twice-born would be daily freed from sins by gifts, Homa, recitation of the Gāyatrī, the practice of the Prāṇāyāma and Vedic study. (200)

The gift of gold, that of a cow, and that of earth, dissipate sins [committed in this life] and those committed in pristine life. (201)

He,—who, gives unto a self-controlled twice-born person, sesame and a cow,—is freed from sins, such as Brahmanicide, etc.; there is no doubt in it. (202)

By fasting on the Full-Moon day when the month of Māgha sets in and giving sesame unto the Brāhmaṇas, one is freed from all [sorts of] sins. (203)

By fasting on the Full-Moon day in the month of Kārttika and giving away gold, raiment and boiled-rice, a person is freed from iniquities (204)

Amāvasyā (the last day of the dark fortnight), the twelfth day of each fortnight, the last day of a month particularly, and a Sunday,—these are the most fitting days [for performing religious rites]. (205)

Bathing, the recitation of the Gāyatrī, Homa, the feeding of the Brāhmaṇas, fasting, and making gifts on all these days, each of these purifies a man. (206)

A learned person, after being bathed, purified, putting on a washed cloth, being of a purified soul, having controlled his senses, and resorting to the Sāttvik state of mind, should make gifts. (207)

For the expiation of minor sins, Homas, to the number of a thousand, should be performed, with seven Vyāhritis, by the twice-born ones seeking their own well-being. (208)

A twice-born person committing heinous crimes, should perform a Lakṣa (a hundred thousand) Homa; [and then] from the recitation of the Gāyatrī, [he] becomes freed from all sins. (209)

For the purification of all sins, one should, going to a forest or on the bank of a river, recite the most sacred Gāyatrī, the mother of the Vēdas. (210)

Bathing there, suppressing the vital airs, restraining his speech and being purified by three Prāṇāyāmas, a twice-born person should recite the Gāyatrī. (211)

Being clad in a pure cloth, seated on the ground and on a pure spot, and self-restrained, and by performing the āchamanam with a pure hand, one should begin the recitation of the Gāyatrī. (212)

By the recitation of the Gāyatrī, all the sins, both of this world and of another, are dissipated in five nights. (213)

There is no purification of iniquitous deeds superior to the Gāyatrī. (214)

By reciting the Gāyatrī accompanied with Mahā-Vyāhṛitis and Prāṇāyāma, a Vipra becomes freed from all sins. (215)

Living on a restricted diet and being given to the well-being of all creatures, a Brahmachārin, by the recitation of one-hundred thousand Gāyatrī, becomes freed from all sins. (216)

By officiating as a priest for him for whom no priestly service should be rendered, by taking boiled rice of a censurable wight, one, by reciting one thousand and eight Gāyatrī, becomes freed [from sins]. (217)

As a snake throws off its slough, so a foremost of the twice-born, who daily studies the Gāyatrī, becomes freed [from his sins] in a month. (218)

A Vipra,—who being restrained and purified, always recites the Gāyatrī, goes, becoming like air and assuming the astral body, to the most excellent station. (219)

A twice-born person should daily recite mentally the seven Vyāhṛitis, accompanied with Prāṇava; and the Gāyatrī, accompanied with S'irasa-Mantram. (220)

The suppression of one's own vital airs constitutes the regulation of the Prāṇāyāma. Being self-restrained, one should perform the Prāṇāyāma thrice every day. (221)

Three Prāṇāyāmas being practised, any sin, that is committed by the mind, word or the body, is forthwith destroyed. (222)

He,—who reads the Rig-Vēda, the Yajush with its branches, and the Sāmans with their esoteric meanings, —becomes freed from all sins. (223)

By reciting the Pāvamāni-Sūkta, the entire Purusha-Sūkta, and the Pitṛi-Mantram [recited by] Madhuchchhandas, one becomes freed from all sins. (224)

By reciting the Brāhmaṇa-Maṇḍala [of the Rig-Vēda], Vṛihat-Kathā mentioned in the Rudra-Sūkta, Vāmadēva-Mantram, and the Vṛihat-Sāma, one becomes freed from all sins. (225)

By performing the Chāndrāyana, the highest purificatory measure for all sins, one attains to purification and the most excellent station. (226)

This most sacred Dharma-S'āstra (Religious Institute) was described by Samvarta. By studying it, a Brāhmaṇa attains to the eternal abode of Brahmā. (227)

KA'TYA'YANA-SAMHITA'.

CHAPTER I.

THEREUPON like unto a lamp [lighting up all objects in darkness], I shall fully point out the Regulation of all the rites mentioned, but not made clear, by Gobhila, as also of other [religious] works. (1)

Three circles of thread should be formed upwards; and three circles, downwards; thus a sacred thread becomes of three circles: then one knot should be made. (2)

That which hanging on the spinal chord and the navel reaches the waist,—such a sacrificial thread should be held (i.e., worn), and not one longer or loftier than it. (3)

One must always put on the sacred thread and bind the tuft of hair on the crown: what one does without having the sacred thread on or without binding the tuft of hair on the crown, is equal to an act not done. (4)

Drinking water thrice, one should, therewith, sprinkle the mouth twice; then [one should] sprinkle with water the following places:—the face, nose, eyes, ears, navel, breast, head and the ankles. (5)

Closing the three fingers, one should touch one's face; with the thumb and the forefinger, one should touch one's nose; with the thumb and the nameless finger, the eyes and the ears [should be touched] again and again. (6)

With the smallest finger and the thumb, [one should touch] the navel; and the breast, with the palm; with all the fingers, the head; and afterwards, one should touch the arms with the tips [of all the fingers]. (7)

Where instructions about a religious rite have been delivered to a person engaged in performing them, but no limb has been mentioned, there the right hand should be known as [the one] competent for performing the rite. (8)

Where there is no rule about the quarter in the performance of, the recitation of the Gayatrī, and the Homa, Aindrī (east), Soumī (south-east), and Aparājītā (north-east),—these three directions have been spoken [as the fittest]. (9)

Where there is no such regulation [that one should perform a rite] either standing, sitting, or bending the forepart of the body, one should do it by sitting and not by bending the forepart of the body nor by standing. (10)

Gourī, Padmā, S'achī, Médhā, Sāvitrī, Vijayā, Jayā, Dévasénā, Svadhā, Svāhā, Dhṛiti, Pushti, Tushti with Atmadévatā,—these Mātris are the mothers of the Lokas. For performing a Vṛiddhi-rite (on the occasion of a marriage, etc.,) these fourteen, added by Gaṇes'a, should be adored. (11—12)

In all religious rites, the Mātris with the leader of the Gaṇas (Gaṇes'a) should be adored with care. They being adored, make [the performer] worthy of adoration. (13)

Having drawn figures on white images, canvas and dried paddy, [they should be adored] with separate Naivédyas (articles of worship). (14)

With clarified butter, one should make seven or five currents on the wall, neither very low nor very high, as Vasudhārās. (15)

Then, being self-controlled, having recited there longevity-giving-Mantrams, for the purpose of S'ānti (peaceful completion of the rite), one should reverentially undertake a S'rāddha for six departed Manes. (16)

Without offering oblations to the departed Manes at a S'rāddha, one should not perform a Vedic rite; even there the Mātṛis should be adored first with care. (17)

The full complement of regulations, spoken of by Vasishtā, should be observed here without fish or meat. I shall, hereafter, describe what difference is there. (18)

CHAPTER II.

HAVING made an even number of Brāhmaṇās, invited in the morning, to take their seats on both the sides, one should, with an evenly extended palm, offer them Kus'ās. (1)

The Kus'ās for a sacrifice should be of a green colour; those for Pākayajna, yellow; those for Pitṛis should be with roots; and those for Vis'wadhévās should be of a variegated colour. (2)

Green Kus'ās, with leaves, dried, plain, shorn of any defect and of the measure of a cubit (i.e., the distance from the elbow to the end of the closed fist), should be spread [with the Pitṛi-Tirtha.] (3)

When the Kus'ās, that are spread for offering funeral cakes, and those [spread] for offering water, are held while passing urine or excreta, they should be thrown away: so it is laid down [in the Smṛiti]. (4)

While performing a rite for the Deities, one should always lay down the right knee [on the ground]; and one should lay down the left knee, while performing a rite for the departed Manes. (5)

The right knee should never be laid low [in a Vṛiddhi S'rāddha]; in it, one should always serve the Pitṛis reverentially like unto the Divinities. (6)

Having made them (i.e., the Brāhmaṇás) sit on the Kus'a offered to the Pitṛis, according to the following regulation, and having recited their family and name, one should offer Arghya to the deceased ancestors, (7)

In it, no Apasavya [going round a person, so as to keep the right side towards him] should be done; no Pitṛi-Tīrtha is wished-for; the filling up of the vessels should be made with the Dāiva-Tīrtha (water). (8)

Having made, [amongst] all the pairs [of Brāhmaṇás,] the younger place his hand on that of the elder, and their Pavitrás being placed in the foreparts of their palms, Arghya should be given; in it, [the Arghya] should not be given separately. (9)

A Pavitra, in each and every place, should be made of Kus'a-reeds, having tips and two rows of leaves and no leaves in the middle part, and should be of the size of the span of the thumb and the forefinger. (10)

This is the mark described of Piñjalī; this is also necessary for cleaning clarified butter. (11)

Some say that a Kus'a-Piñjalī should be made of dried or withered blossoms or of fresh raw-blossoms. (12)

The recitation of the Pitṛi-Mantram, the touching of the heart, the seeing of degraded persons, passing wind, excessive laughter, speaking an untruth, the touching of a cat or of a mouse, speaking harshly and the rise of anger,—any of these portends taking place while performing a religious rite, one should touch water. (13—14)

CHAPTER III.

TO perform no rite, to do that which is enjoined for another branch, and thirdly to perform improper rites, are the three classes of Akrīyās (interdicted acts), mentioned by the learned, for those who perform religious rites. (1)

Fruitless becomes the operation of that stupid wight, who, renouncing the protection of his own branch, wishes to follow that of another. (2)

That which has not been mentioned in one's own branch [of the Véda,] but what has been mentioned in another branch, as not colliding [with one's own regulation], should be performed by the learned like Agnihotra and other rites. (3)

If a person, after being engaged in a religious rite, commits an improper act out of ignorance, he should thereupon complete the same, beginning from the part where the irregularity has taken place. (4)

If he happens to know after the completion [of a rite] that an irregularity has been committed by him, he should perform it again; no re-performance of all the rites [is allowed]. (5)

When any irregularity takes place in a prominent religious rite, it should again be performed with all its parts; but if any irregularity takes place in any of its parts, neither it nor the [principal] rite should be performed again. (6)

[In a Pārvaṇa-S'rāddha], the recitation of the Madhuvāta-Mantram thrice after the Gāyatrī is laid down for those who wish to feed [the Brāhmanās]; but [the A'bhyudayika-S'rāddha] is divorced from the Madhu-Mantram. (7)

In it, one should never recite a Mantram describing the greatness of the Pitris; but the recitation of any other auspicious Soma-, Sāma-, Mantram should not be omitted. (8)

[In a Pārvaṇa-S'rāddha, the Brāhmanās] being gratified [with food], boiled rice, near the residue, should be scattered like sesame or barley; [in an A'bhyudayika], the opposite procedure should be adopted. (9)

[In an A'bhyudayika,] the question,—“Susam-pannam” (is it well-done?), should be put instead of,—“Triptāḥ stha” (are you gratified?); when they say that “it is well-done,” one should dedicate the last portion of the food. (10)

Having invoked [the spirit of one's father] at the base of the Kus'ā-reeds having their tops directed towards the east, one should pour water from the vessel at the root with the Mantram,—“Avanénikshva.” (11)

At the middle and the topmost parts, [one should invoke] the second and the third [degrees of Manes, i.e., one's grandfather, and great-grandfather]; on the left side, [one should invoke] [the three grades of departed Manes,] such as, the maternal grandfather, etc. (12)

Having taken up the boiled rice from all [the collections]; mixed it with curry, barley, jujube and curd; been seated facing the east; and offered funeral cakes of the size of Bel-fruits, like unto the offering of water;—one should again sprinkle the Darbbā-grass with the water, washing the vessel. (13—14)

CHAPTER IV.

IN a S'rāddha-operation, gradual [advancement of the giver is effected] by the gradual offering of funeral cakes [from bottom upwards]; and gradual degradation [is effected by offering the same] at the top downwards. (1)

Therefore in all the S'rāddhas, principal and minor, one should offer small Piṇdas at the bottom, middle, and the top [of the Kus'ā-reeds]. (2)

Then one should dedicate scents and other [articles] silently and then make the twice-born persons perform the A'chamanam; in other places, (i.e., in other S'rāddhas) this procedure, without barley, should be observed. (3)

[Funeral cakes should be offered] in a lowland, in the south; [the offerer should sit] facing the south; the Darbha-grass [should be scattered] with their tops directed towards the south; this is the regulation in other [S'rāddhas]. (4).

[With the Mantram,—] “Suprokshitamastu” (it is sprinkled well), one should sprinkle with water the ground lying before [the Bráhmanas]; [with the Mantram,—] “S'ivá A'pah santu” (may water become auspicious), one should pour water into the hands of a couple [of Bráhmanás]. (5)

[With the Mantram,—] “Soumanasyamastu” (be of delighted mind), one should, hereafter, offer flowers; and with,—“Akshatañchárishtañchástu” (may fried paddy remove ills), one should offer fried paddy. (6)

Akshayyodakadān (gift of inexhaustible water) should be made like that of Arghya; one should daily do it with the sixth inflection, and never with the fourth. (7)

In [the offering of] Arghya, of inexhaustible water, of Piṇda, in sprinkling water on the Darbha-grass at a

S'raddha-ceremony, and in reciting the Swadha [at the termination of the rite], no regular order needs be maintained. (8)

Replies being given by the leading twice-born in all the prayers, one, reciting the Mantram, for placing a vessel on the back with the face upwards, (i.e., "Urjiam Vahuntīh,") should sprinkle water on the Piṇḍas strewn with Pavitra. (9)

Then the pairs of Bráhmaṇás should be made to recite "Swasti" (peace be unto you). Then joining the tops of both the thumbs and saluting the Vipra standing at the head, one should then follow him. (10)

The entire course of S'raddha-rules has thus been briefly described by me; they who know them never make mistakes in S'raddha-rites. (11)

He, who knows the sum-total of this mysterious science told by Vas'ishtha, knows the S'raddha-[rules] and not any one else. (12)

CHAPTER V.

IN all those rites, which, once commenced, are to be performed respectfully, the adoration of the Mātṛis and the celebration of the (A'bhyudayika-) S'raddha should not be done, on every occasion, by the performer of the rite. (1)

In depositing the Sacred Fire, in the two Homas (morning and evening), in the Vaiśvadeva-[adoration] in the Vali-rite, in a half-monthly sacrifice, in that performed on the Full-Moon day, and in a new sacrifice, the learned sages, informed of rituals relating to sacrifices, hold, that one S'raddha should be performed and not separately. (2—3)

In an Ashtaka-(Homa), in a S'rāddha [for the departed Manes], in a Soshyanti-(Homa), in Jātakarma (a ceremony consequent on a birth), and in a rite to be performed on the return of a person from a foreign country, no [A'bhyudayika]-S'rāddha should be performed. (4)

In all the rites beginning with the marriage and ending with the Garbhādhāna, which we have heard of, it is only in a marriage that one should perform this S'rāddha and not at the beginning of every rite. (5)

For Nishkramana (the rite of bringing out a child to the public in the fourth month), and for that of entering into a house, there is one S'rāddha in the night-fall. In a religious ceremony, performed for the attainment of religious prosperity, one should not perform a S'rāddha in the beginning. (6)

In all the six rites, such as the application of plough, etc., one should perform [the S'rāddha] separately. And at the recurrence of every such, one should perform one [S'rāddha], but not in the beginning. (7)

There is no [performance of] S'rāddha at the rites that are performed for the well-being of big animals at the appearance of a solar disc; and for that of smaller animals at the appearance of a lunar disc. (8)

It should not be performed in the end in rites for the crooked positions of the planets; and in rites like [the administration of] poison for being bitten [by a snake] and in the treatment of worm-bite. (9)

While performing a number of rites, the Mātrīs should be adored once, and a S'rāddha should be performed once at the beginning and not separately in [all the rites]. (10)

Whenever a S'raddha takes place, there the Mātṛis [should be adored]. This has been spoken of [by me] as a side-issue. The main point I would [now proceed to] describe truthfully. (11)

CHAPTER VI.

If the eldest brother has deposited the Sacred Fire, then one should deposit the same being subject to the time of depositing and the person who has engendered the Fire. (1)

He, who takes a wife or deposits the Sacred Fire before his eldest brother, is known as Parivéttā. And the brother, born before, is known as Parivitti. (2)

Both the Parivitti and Parivéttā go to hell. Even if they have performed a penance, they partake of the fruits of Pādona. (3)

If superseding [the eldest and other] brothers,—living in foreign countries, having no generative power, having one testes, not born of the same mother, addicted to public women, outcasted, [and those who are] acting like S'údrás, suffering from a serious disease, inert, dumb, blind, deaf, hunch-backed, dwarf, lepers, greatly aged, widowers, given to agriculture, servants of the king, given to the multiplication of wealth and doing whatever they like; divorced from the family, insane and thieves,—a younger brother marries or deposits the Sacred Fire, he commits no sin. (4—6)

Even when hasty, one should, wait, at least for three years, [for a senior brother,] who multiplies his wealth by usury, who serves the king, who cultivates the land and who lives in a foreign country. (7)

When one hears of no news [of a senior brother] living in a foreign country, one should do it after [waiting for] a year; if he returns again, [the younger brother] should perform a part of a penance for purification. (8)

In a Lakṣhmaṇa-rite (i.e., a rite beginning with Parisamūhana, i.e., sprinkling water round the Sacrificial Fire to Parishēka, (i.e., pouring water), one should draw lines with Kus'ā [around the Fire,] leaving off seven fingers [on each side] [of the following lines] :— twelve fingers form the measure of the line that is directed towards the east; the measurement of another line touching its base and running towards the north, is twenty-one fingers; the remaining lines attached to the one running towards the north, are of the measurement of a thumb. (9—10)

If the rite of measurement and the person to do it, are not mentioned, the sacrificer should make the measurement. This is the conclusion of the learned. (11)

One should deposit the Sacred Fire, and it is highly spoken of by all. Sacrificial fuels should be collected by one willingly for kindling that Fire. (12)

He, to whom a maiden has been given by one by words, should collect the last sacrificial fuels for depositing the Sacred Fire; otherwise not. (13)

If in an unmarried state that maiden dies, he should not be guilty of the breach of vow. By that Fire, he may marry another maiden. (14)

If after soliciting, he does not get a maiden, he should consign that Fire unto himself and forthwith adopt the next order. (15)

CHAPTER VII.

It is said that *Araṇi and the Uttara-Araṇi (i.e., the upper part) should be made of the branches spreading towards the east or north or upwards of an As'wattha, grown in an extensive ground and having a S'amī-tree attached to its root. It is preferable that Chatra and Ovilī† should be made of the strongest parts of the wood. (1—2)

The [tree,] the root of which is attached to a S'amī, is called S'amīgarbha; in the absence of a S'amīgarbha, one should speedily create Fire from [one which is not so]. (3)

A length of twenty-four thumbs, a breadth of six thumbs, and a height of four, have been described as the size of the Araṇis. (4)

A Pramantha is to be of eight fingers [in size]; a Chatram, ten fingers, and an Ovilī, twelve fingers. These are churning instruments. (5)

Where instruction is given about the measurement of the thumb, there one should always take measurements with its bigger knot. (6)

A Nētra (the string of a churning stick) should be made with three circles of the down of a cow's tail mixed with hemp fibres of the size of a pure Vyāma (a measure of length equal to the space between the tips of the fingers of either hand when the arms are extended); by it, the Fire should be churned. (7)

The head, the eyes, the ears, the face, and the shoulders,—these five limbs of the Araṇi should be of the size of a thumb each ; the breast is spoken of [as measuring] two thumbs. (8)

* A piece of wood of the S'amī-tree used for kindling the Sacred Fire by attrition; the fire-producing wooden stick.

The chest [is to measure] one thumb ; the belly is known in the Smṛiti [as measuring] three thumbs ; the hip is known [to measure] one thumb ; the abdomen, two ; and the anus, two. (9)

The two thighs, the two knee-joints, and the two feet, should severally measure four, three, and one thumb. These limbs of the Araṇi have been described by those conversant with the rituals of a sacrifice. (10)

What is spoken of as the Guhyam (anus) of the Araṇi is called the Dēvayoni. The Fire, that is generated here, is spoken of as the most auspicious. (11)

Those who churn the Fire elsewhere, come by the fear of ailments. This is the regulation in the first churning, and not in the subsequent ones. (12)

The Pramantha (churning) should always be done with the upper part of the Araṇi. He, who performs the churning by any other method, is affected by the sin of being born in a mixed caste. (13)

If the upper part of the Araṇi be wet, has holes, has any circular part, or any cleft, it does no good unto the sacrificer. (14)

CHAPTER VIII.

DULY putting on a new cloth and a sacrificial thread, and with his face directed towards the east, one should hold the Yantra (sacrificial implement). (1)

Having firmly fixed the top of the churning stick on the Chatra-Vṛidhna and placed the Araṇi in the north, a learned man should place on it the Vṛidhna. (2)

He should then place the Ovilī, fixed to a pin attached to the base of the Chatra [on the Araṇi], turning its top towards the north; then being self-restrained and in a state of purity, he should, hold the Yantra with all his strength, so that it may not move. (3)

His wives, putting on new raiments, should put three folds of string around the Chatram and first of all, churn the Araṇi, so that Fire might drop in the east. (4)

The rite of placing the Sacred Fire should not be performed by the twice-born, if they have not even one wife; all the rites, that are done [in that state], know, as being not done at all. (5)

Many wives of the same caste and of other castes existing, the rite of churning, for producing the Fire, should be done by the chaste wives of the same caste, on account of the superiority of birth. (6)

Of them, one very capable, or any one of them, [or, in her absence,] any one of the wedded wives [belonging to other castes], should carefully churn the Fire. (7)

In it, one should not employ a S'ūdra-wife, or one who tries to injure her husband or is jealous of him, or one who does not perform religious observances, or one who lives with other men. (8)

Having made Lakshmaṇa, for [the Fire,] born, placed it, lighted it, and put sacrificial fuels into it, he should make Brahmá seated. (9)

Then offering the libation, effecting the completion of the rite with all the Mantrams, and at the end of the sacrifice,—for the well-being of the house, [the sacrificer] should present unto a Brahmana two pieces of raiment and a cow. (10)

Where there is no instruction about the Homa-vessel, Sruva (sacrificial ladle) is mentioned in the Smṛiti [as the vessel for pouring] liquid substances ; in minor rites, the palm is used [as the vessel] ; with Srucha also, a Homa is performed. (11)

It is said in the Smṛiti that a Sruva should be made of Khadira-, or Palās'a-, wood ; and be of the size of two vitasti (a measure of length, equal to twelve angulas or fingers) ; a Srucha should be of the length of an arm ; and the handle should be round. (12)

The forepart of a Sruva should be like a nose ; there should be two holes [on the two sides] of the circumference of two fingers [each] ; the hole [in the] Sruva should be like that of a S'arā (an earthen tray-like vessel) ; one should make it on a nirvāha-method and six fingers deep. (13)

Their cleaning should be done by a person, wishing to perform Homa, with Kus'ā-grass, facing the east ; when dipped in clarified butter, they should be washed with hot water. (14)

[One should place the articles] near the Fire either in the east side, facing the east ; or in the north-side, facing the north ; he should collect all the articles which should be used [in the Homa.] (15)

When no article for offering into Fire is mentioned, clarified butter is sanctioned for the Homa-rites ; [and when Mantram or Deity is not mentioned,] the conclusion is that Prājāpatya-Mantram (Vyāhṛiti), and Prajāpati [should be recited, and adored]. (16)

One should never take fuels which are stouter than the thumb ; those shorn of bark, those having worms, and those having clefts, [should not be used]. (17)

Those measuring more than a Prādēs'a, those measuring less than a Prâdés'a, those having branches, those not completely made (i.e., having leaves), and those having no strength (i.e., useless ones), should never be used in Homa by one conversant [with rituals]. (18)

The measurement of a sacrificial fuel is described to be a couple of Prâdés'a (the span of the thumb and the forefinger) ; in all rites, such should be the sacrificial fuels. (19)

The learned say that there are eighteen kinds of sacrificial fuels, but in the Half-Monthly S'râddhas, in that performed on the Full Moon-Day, and in other similar rites, twenty fuels [are used]. (20)

Before and after a Homa, one should, without [reciting] a Mantram or without [naming] a Deity, throw the Samid (a kind of tree) ; for it grows for generating the Fire. (21)

The preceptors have recorded in the Smṛiti that the sacrificial fuels, in a Homa performed with clarified butter, are for creating the Fire. I shall now clearly describe where this should not be done. (22)

It is laid down that no sacrificial fuel [should be used] in the rites called Âṅgahoma, Samittantra, [and] Soshyantî ; in all those and [other] similar rites where no such mention is made (such as the Vais'vadeva, etc.) ; in a Homa performed for averting the calamity of breaking a limb ; in a Watery-Homa ; and in all the rites where oblations of Soma-Juice [are offered]. (23—24)

CHAPTER IX.

[In the evening] when the Sun is at a distance of thirty-six fingers before reaching the Setting Hill and [in the morning] after seeing the solar rays, one should generate the Sacred Fire. (1)

The Homa-regulation of those who wish to perform Homa at the rising of the Sun, does not become profane till the Sun does not rise a hand above the Rising Hill. (2)

As long as the Stars are not completely visible in the sky and the crimson rays do not disappear [from the firmament], one may perform the Evening-Homa. (3)

When the Sun disappears under dust, snow, or clouds, or behind a tree, one may offer oblations to the Sandhyā; one's religious observance would not be stopped thereby. (4)

In Kshipra-Homa, a twice-born person should neither perform the Parisamūhanam (sprinkling water around the Sacrificial Fire), nor should he recite the Virūpāksha-Mantram; he should also avoid the Prapada (the Mantram beginning with Tapas'cha, Tejas'cha, etc.). (5)

In every rite, one should perform the Paryyukshaṇam (sprinkling water) with [the Mantram,—] Aditéhnaviti and sing the Vāmadēvyā thrice, at the end. (6)

The seeing of the Moon, as mentioned, should be done in rites where no Homa is to be performed; the Vāmadēvyā should be sung in the end [when] a number of rites [is performed in a day]. The Vais'wadēva-rite should take place] after the Vali-rite. (7)

In those rites in which [Kus'ā-reeds] are [already] scattered on the ground at the end, no [more] scattering should take place. For successfully performing one rite, one should leave off the circumference. (8)

In all oblations in sacrifice, not one of these three, —spreading the Kus'ā outside, sprinkling water into the

Sacrificial Fire, the recitation of the Vāmadēvya, should be done. (9)

It is said in the Smṛiti that in the matter of Haviṣhya (vegetable diet), barley is superior ; and next to it, is the Vṛīhi (a kind of corn) ; one must avoid the Māśa (corn), the Kodrava (corn), and the white sesame, even if nothing is available. (10)

When any oblation is offered with a hand, the twelve knots should be filled ; when by a belmetal vessel, the Sruva should be filled [with offerings] ; clarified butter should be offered with the Daiva-Tīrtha into the Fire having embers and flames. (11)

A man, who throws offerings into a Fire that has no embers or flames, becomes of weak digestion, suffers from dysentery and is born as a poor man. (12)

He, who seeks freedom from diseases, long life and great prosperity, should perform Homa with a Fire set with sacrificial fuels, and never with that into which no sacrificial fuels have been given. (13)

When prepared to offer oblations, one should not kindle the Fire with the Hasta, S'ūrpa, or the Vajra (sacrificial implement), or with wood ; he may do it by a fan. (14)

The Fire is to be kindled by [the air of] the mouth, for it originates from the Mantram uttered by the mouth ; that Fire should not be kindled by the mouth [is an injunction] applied to the Loukika-(ordinary) Fire. (15)

CHAPTER X.

If not suffering from any disease, one should daily, after washing the teeth, bathe in the morning, in rivers, etc.,

as in the day-time; when bathing in the house, one should recite the Mantram. (1)

The wood for cleaning the teeth, as spoken of by Hārada and others, should be cut measuring eight fingers and contain bark. With its tip, one should rub the teeth. (2)

Rising up, washing the eyes, becoming pure and self-restrained and reciting the Mantram, one should rub the teeth with a wood. (3)

[The Mantram is:—]“O tree, give us long life, strength, fame, energy, children, cattle, wealth, knowledge of the Védās, discriminative knowledge and genius.” (4)

In two months, beginning with S'rāvaṇa, all the rivers get their menstrual courses. [No one] should bathe in them, excluding the rivers which go to an ocean. (5)

[The watery expanses,] the courses of which do not go beyond eight Kros'ās (16 miles), are not worthy of the name of a river: they are described as pools. (6)

[In offering water] in an Upākarmaṇ (a ceremony performed before commencing to read the Védās after the monsoon), in a rite of dedication, in a bathing after a death and at the solar or lunar eclipse, the Rajah-(or menstruation-) impurity exists no longer. (7)

When the Brahmvādins go out for bathing in an Upākarmaṇ, or in a dedication rite, all the Védās, the Chhandas, the Celestials headed by Brahmā, the departed Manes, Marīchi and other Rishis, gratified and seeking water, follow them in their bodily forms. (8—9)

Where these all appear, the sins of murder, etc., are, forsooth, dissipated what to speak of the impurity of a river? (10)

When the Rishis bathe and when a person, situate in their midst, has his body sprinkled with [their] scattering drops of water, [if he be] a Brāhmaṇa, he comes by learning and other desired-for objects ; [and if] a maiden, she comes by a becoming bridegroom ; and he, forsooth, attains to well-being in the next world. (11—12)

The *Anirddas'āha departed Manes, who are of the form of Rākshasās, eat all the impure offerings, water, etc., presented in a raw earthen vessel by a person in a state of impurity. (13)

During solar and lunar eclipses all the waters, that exist on earth and even that in a well, become like that of the Ganges. (14)

CHAPTER XI.

HEREAFTER I shall describe the regulations relating to the Sandhyā-adorations, since it is mentioned in the Smṛiti, that a Vipra, who does not perform the Sandhyā, is not entitled to perform a religious rite. (1)

Having taken up Kus'ā-reeds in the left-hand, one should perform the rite of A'chamanam ; short Kus'ās are the most distinguished, while offering invocation ; and the long ones shall form the bed or layer. (2)

The Darbhās are spoken of as being holy ; therefore, in a Sandhyā-rite the left-hand should be made to hold them, and the right one should hold the Pavitra (two blades of Kus'ā-grass used at sacrifices in purifying and sprinkling the ghee). (3)

One should protect one's own self by sprinkling water

* The departed Manes, within ten days from the day of death, are called Anirddas'āha Prātas.

on all sides, and sprinkle one's own head by drops of water with the Kus'ā. (4)

The Praṇava, Bhūrbhuvah, Swah Gāyatrī [forming the third], the three Mantrams,—"A'pohishṭa, etc.," [forming] the fourth, [are the Mantrams] for the Mārjanam (sprinkling the head with water). (5)

The three eternal Mahāvyaḥṛitis, Bhūh, etc., Mahah, Janah, Tupah, Satya, the Gāyatrī, A'pojyotīrasomṛitam, Brahma Bhūrbhuvah Swah, [forming] the first part of the Gāyatrī—at the beginning of all these Mantrams and at the end of the first part of the Gāyatrī, one should recite the Praṇava. (6—7)

Having restrained the vital airs, one should recite thrice these ten and seven Vyāhṛitis, Gāyatrī, Gāyatrī-S'irah (first part) and the Praṇava. This process is called the Prāṇāyāma. (8)

Taking water in his palm, putting the nose into it, and suppressing the breath or not, one should recite once or thrice the Aghamarshaṇa-Sūkta. (9)

Standing up, one should throw water with joined palms towards the Sun, [reciting] the three Mantrams (Praṇava, three Vyāhṛitis and the Gāyatrī); then with the two Rik-Mantrams,—"Udutyam," and "Chitram Dēvānām, etc., one should perform the rite of Sūryopasthanam (appearance of the Sun). (10)

The sages say that Sūryopasthanam should be performed at the two Sandhyā-adorations; if one wishes to do it during the noon, one should recite, in addition to it, the Mantram,—"Vibhrāt." (11)

With the heels not touching the heels, or with one foot touching the earth, or with that foot up-raised, or with joined palms, or with up-raised arms,—one should perform this rite. (12)

In whatever part there is greater distress and trouble, there is greater well-being ; so say the learned for, well-being proceeds from hardship. (13)

According to one's own might, one should perform the first Sandhyā before the rising of the Sun ; the middle one, in the noon ; and the third, in the evening, before the Stars become visible ; but at every Sandhyā, one should recite the three Riks (Praṇava, the three Vyāhṛitis and the Gāyatrī). (14)

This is spoken of as the threefold Sandhyā, whercin exists the dignity of a Brāhmaṇa. He is not called a Brāhmaṇa who has no reverence for it. (15)

As serpents cannot approach Garuda, so imperfection cannot approach him who fears the non-performance of the Sandhyā and who is always given to bathing. (16)

According to one's own might, one should, from the very beginning, recite the Vēda-(Mantrams) daily. If one cannot recite all the Vedic Mantrams, one should invoke the presence of Rudra in the end. (17)

CHAPTER XII.

THEREUPON reciting in the beginning "OM," and "Tarpayāmi Namaḥ" (I offer oblation), one should, with water and sesame, offer oblations to the Deities and the departed Manes. (1)

Brahma, Vishṇu, Rudra, Prajāpati, the Védās, the Divinities, the Chhandas, the Rishis, the Ancient Preceptors, the Gandharvas, the other tribes inferior to the Gandharvās, the incarnate months and years, the female Divinities, the group of Apsarās, the followers of the Divinities, the Nágās, the Oceans, the Mountains, the Rivers, Deified men, other men, Yakshas, the Rákshasás, the Supernas (the feathery tribes), the Pis'áchás, the earth, herbs, animals, trees, the four troupes of spirits,—unto these,—one should offer oblations being invested with the sacred thread. Yama, the emissaries of Yama, the Fire, the bearers of sacrificial offerings, Soma, Yama, Aryyamá, Agnishwatta, Somapa and Varhishadas,—these Pitris, unto each of them,—one should offer water every time. The three degrees of ancestors, on the paternal side—the three degrees of ancestors on the maternal side, unto each of these ancestors,—one should offer water thrice. Unto the eldest brother, the father-in-law; the paternal uncle; the maternal uncle, and unto others of the parental families one should offer handfuls of water, saying,—“I gratify, with this last handful of water, all those who are desirous of receiving water from me.” The S'lokas [relating to this rite are mentioned] below. (2)

As one, stricken by the solar rays in autumn, wishes for a shade; as one thirsty, for water; as one hungry, for food; as a child, for the mother, and a mother, for the child; as a woman, for a man, and a man for a woman;—so all elemental creations; movable and immovable, desire for water from a Vipra:—for he does good unto all. (3—4)

Therefore, he should every day offer watery oblations; by not doing so, he is visited with a great sin; and by doing it; he maintains the entire universe. (5)

For the shortness of the time for Homa and for the complexity of the rite of bathing, one should not take a prolonged bath in the morning; the non-performance of Homa is a censurable [act.] (6)

CHAPTER XIII.

THE regulation of the Five great Sacrifices is spoken of, the constant performance of which enables a Vipra to attain to eternal residence. (1)

One should know, as great Sacrifices, those that are performed successively for the Deities, the Spirits, the departed Manes, for Brahmā and for mankind. (2)

To deliver religious instructions, is the Brahmayajña; to offer watery oblations, is the Pitriyajña; to offer oblations of clarified butter to the Fire, is the Dévayajña; to offer Valis (offerings), is the Bhutayajña; and to treat guests, is the Nriyajña. (3)

A S'rāddha or the offering of Valis to the Pitris, is [also called] Pitriyajña; what is called the recitation of the S'ruti, is also designated as Brahmayajña. (4)

This (i.e., the Brahmayajña in the shape of the recitation of the S'ruti,) should be performed after the Tarpanam (the offerings of water); the next (i.e., the Brahmayajña in the form of delivering religious instructions,) should be performed after the Morning-Homa; and [that in the shape of singing the Vāmadēvya should be performed] at the termination of the Vaias'wadēva-rite; [it should not be performed] at any other time except at these three [periods] (5)

If there is no other eater or [sufficient] eatable, one, for the attainment of success in a Pitriyajña, should feed at least one Brāhmaṇa. There is no Daiva-paksha (divine fortnight) in it. (6)

Taking up a little quantity of boiled rice, a twice-born person should, every day, according to his might and with due order, offer it unto the departed Manes and human beings. (7)

Having said,—“Pitrībhya idam” (i.e., this is for the departed Manes), he should recite “Swadhā” [thereafter] ; saying,—“Manushyēbhya idam” (i.e., this is for men), he should recite “Hanta.” And he should accordingly offer water. (8)

Two meals a day have been prescribed by the Sages for the Brāhmaṇas living on this mortal earth ; one is in the day time, and the other in the night within a Prhara (a period roughly reckoned at three hours) and a half. (9)

Even when fasting, one should daily perform the Vais'wadēva and the Vali-rites, both in the evening and morning ; otherwise, he will be affected by sin. (10)

“Amushmai Namaḥ” (salutation unto such a person) —such is the regulation laid down for the Vali-offerings ; since for offering a Vali, one should only make a salutation. (11)

“Swāhā,” “Vashat” and “Namaḥ,”—[these three] are for the Celestials ; “Swadhā” is for the departed Manes ; and “Hanta” is for mankind. (12)

Therefore one should daily make offerings to the Pitris by reciting “Swadhā.” Some say the word “Namaḥ” may be added to it. But Goutama [says],—“not so.” (13)

If the Valis are kept in one place in a compact form attached to each other, they do not become sullied even when touched by a huge cat ; such is from the evidence of the S'ruti. (14)

CHAPTER XIV.

Now about the placing of Valis (offerings of food). Like funeral cakes in a Vṛiddhi S'rāddha, one should place, one after another, four Valis for the earth, the air, the Vis'wadévas and the Prajāpati; on their left side, those for water, herbs, trees, sky and Kāma (desire) [should be placed]; on their left, those for men, Indra, Vāsuki and Brahmā; on the right side of all those, for the Pitṛis [should be placed]. These fourteen [should be placed] every day. There are Kāmya-Valis, such as, the A's'asya, etc. Both the sides of all should be sprinkled with water. The residue should be known as a Piṇḍa. (1)

The Homa-, and Vali-, rites are not the ordinary Kāmyas (i.e., rites performed with a particular end) It is specially said that the daily Homa-, and Vali-, rites should be performed first. (2)

They may be performed after the Kāmya-rites, but never in the middle; for another rite must not be undertaken, while one is being performed. (3)

Homa for the Fire and others, that spoken of by Goutama, S'ākala-Homa with Vali rites, are for him who has deposited the Sacred Fire. (4)

Touching water, looking at the Sun and with joined palms, one, before the recitation of the Vāmadēdya, should pray for the multiplication of wealth, freedom from disease, longevity, lordly powers, intellect, patience, auspiciousness, courage, energy, cattle, strength, the knowledge of the Védās, the dignity of a Bráhmana, good luck, success in business, headship of the family and excellent mastery. [He should say,—] "O thou the witness of all, grant us all these; may we not be shorn of wealth." (5—7)

There is no Sacrifice superior to a Brahmayajña; there is no gift superior to that of the Védās; all other gifts and all other Sacrifices have limited [fruits]; but no one has seen the end of these. (8)

By reading the Rik daily, one gratifies the Celestials with streams of honey and milk; by reading the Yajush daily, [one gratifies them] with streams of clarified butter and ambrosia. (9)

By reading the Sāman daily, [one gratifies them] with streams of Soma-Juice and clarified butter; and by reading the Atharvan of Āṅgirash, with streams of sacrifices. (10)

By reading the principal and minor aphorisms, the Purāṇās and Itihāsās (Histories) daily, one gratifies them with streams of meat, thickened milk, oudana (barley cakes) and honey. (11)

By reading daily, according to one's might, any of all these scriptures, headed by the Rik, one gratifies the departed Manes with streams of honey and clarified butter. (12)

They, being gratified, gratify him (the performer) whether alive or dead. He may range at will in all the celestial habitations. (13)

No great sin affects him, and he becomes the sanctifier of the row. With the perusal of the regulations of a sacrifice, one reaps the fruits of that sacrifice. (14)

He comes by the fruits of the threefold gift of earth filled with riches.* (15)

* Brahmayajña means here the reading of the Védās, and Brahma-dānam means the deliverance gratis of Vedic instructions.

CHAPTER XV.

WHATEVER sacrificial present is mentioned in a rite, it must be given to Brahmá after the termination thereof. If it is not mentioned, the vessel full of offerings would go [to Brahmá]. (1)

With what gives complete gratification to many eaters, but not with a lesser quantity, one should make a vessel filled. This is the settled regulation. (2)

If any other person performs the rite [for the sacrifice], that Hotā sacrificial priest) should take half of the sacrificial present; [if the sacrificer] himself performs both [the works of Brahmá and Hotā], he should give it to another. (3)

He, who wishes to make daily gifts and seeks his own well-being, should never supersede the family-priest, the Guru and a preceptor who lives near. (4)

Having addressed [the family preceptor and priest] saying,—“I make this present unto him,” one should give away [a present]; if without asking this, one gives [a present] to a qualified person, it yields no fruit. (5)

Having mentally offered the best part to these two, when they live at a distance, one should give it to others. This is the best regulation about a gift. (6)

He, who by superseding a Bráhmaṇa who delivers religious instructions and lives near, makes a gift, is visited with the sin of theft overcoming [the fruits of the same.] (7)

When an ignorant person lives near one's house and a qualified person at a distance, there is no sin in superseding that ignorant wight and making a gift unto the qualified one. (8)

There is no [sin in] superseding a Brahmaṇa [by shunning] a Vipra who is divorced from Vedic learning.

Leaving aside a burning fire, one should not offer oblation to ashes. (9)

In all the offerings of clarified butter, the A'jyasthālī (vessel for keeping clarified butter) should be made either of metallic substances or of earth. (10)

One could make the size of A'jyasthālī as one likes; one strong and without holes, is described as the best A'jyasthālī (11)

Its expanse and height should be of the size of the sacrificial fuel; but it must be strong and should not have a big (wide) mouth. A *Charusthālī made of earth or of Udumvara-tree is most preferable. (12)

Charu should be prepared according to the deliverance of one's own branch; it should be well-cooked,—must not be burnt, nor made hard; it must be good, [and] neither of a highly liquid condition nor stale. (13)

A Mekshana (a vessel for containing clarified butter) should be made of the same class [of trees] from which sacrificial fuels [are made]; its size would be half [of the sacrificial fuel]; its forepart would be heavy like a plump thumb and it should be particularly fit for containing drops of clarified butter. (14)

Similarly a Darvī (ladle or spoon) [should be made]. I shall describe the distinction thereof. The forepart of a Darvī would measure two fingers; and its size would be four times that of a Mekshana. (15)

A Mushala (pestle for cleaning rice) and a Ulūkhalā (mortar for grinding rice) should be made of wood [of the tree from which sacrificial fuels are collected], must be expansive, strong and of any size one likes. A S'ūpra (a winnowing basket) should be made of bamboos. (16)

A vessel for preparing Charu, a kind of sacrificial food.

While performing a Nyañcha-rite (i.e., reciting Mantrams for the earth by lying on the face), one should place one's face down on the right palm, and placing the left hand on it, direct the foreparts of the two hands towards one's own self. (17)

Seated [on one's seat] and directing the two hands, kept in their own places and firmly placed, towards the Fire, one should perform the Pradakṣiṇam and Pari-samūhanam (i.e., the collection of Fires, scattered hither and thither, unto one place). (18)

There should be three fences of the size of an arm each, straight, having bark, no cuts, no tops. In the view of one class of men, there should be four on four sides. (19)

One should place two Paridhis fences on two sides of the Fire running towards the east; and one on the west, facing the north; and if another is to be placed, it should be placed in the east, facing the north. (20)

[As in the rites to be performed] with barley, wheat [may be used], as [in the rites to be performed] with Vṛihi, S'āli [may be used] so; in the absence of proper articles their substitutes may be accepted. (21)

CHAPTER XVI.

A S'rāddha in which Piṇḍas are to be offered for the gratification for a month, is to be preferably performed on the wane of the Moon (Amāvasyā-day); it should be performed in the third part of the day; but never towards the evening. (1)

When a Chaturdas'i (the fourteenth day of the dark fortnight) extends over three divisions of the day and the Amāvasyā lasts for a shorter period, a S'rāddha should be performed on the previous day. (2)

What has been said [by my father Gobhila,] "that the day on which the Moon is not seen," (i.e., on such an Amāvasyā-day, a S'rāddha should be performed,) and the [expression,—] "on the wane of the Moon," must be known as to mean the same.* (3)

The Text,—“being visible once,” refers to the Chaturdas'ī-day; [if both the days arrive, one] should wait for the Amāvasyā; [but if the Amāvasyā does not appear at the time fit for the performance of the S'rāddha [in both the days], one may perform it at the end [of the Chaturdas'ī].† (4)

The Moon disappears in the eighth part of the Chaturdas'ī, and a part of it re-appears in the eighth part of the Amāvasyā according to S'āstric deliverance. (5)

Persons, conversant with the movements of the Moon, (i.e., the Astrologers), speak of some distinction in the Amāvasyā of the month of Agrahāyana and Jaistha. (6)

* i.e., A S'rāddha should be performed on an Amāvasya-day when the Moon is not visible.

† These S'lokas are very elliptical and require elucidation.

Gobhila said :—“A S'rāddha should be performed on an Amāvasyā-day when the Moon is not visible.”—Kātyāyana says :—“kshiné rajani,” when the Moon wanes. Sanction is given that a S'rāddha is to be performed on the Amāvasyā-day succeeding the Chaturdas'ī. But the Moon is visible on the fourteenth day, and Gobhila's Text is :—“Yadahastyeva Chandramā na dris'yéta”—the day in which the Moon is “not visible.” This Text contradicts the Text,—“kshiné rajani” To avoid this contradiction the subsequent S'loka is written. There is no contradiction if it means that the S'rāddha should be performed immediately after the disappearance of the Moon which takes place in the day previous to the Amāvasyā.

In these two days, a part of the lunar rays exists in the first Prahara, but it fully disappears in the last part. Astrologers say so. (7)

Even in that year in which one intercalary month is added to twelve,* [the Moon] does not become visible by the third [part];† knowing these movements of the Moon, one should, in the last part of the wane of the Moon, offer [oblations]. (8)

Sometimes an Amāvasyā becomes co-mingled with the Chaturdasī. Some (the Yajurvedins) know it as an inferior [occasion] for the performance of a S'rāddha. Others (the Rikvedins) consider it the best. (9)

If on the next day, one gets an Amāvasyā increased by three Yamas (periods), a Pitṛiyama (S'rāddha) should be performed at that time. (10)

One should make a fortnightly Charu on the first day of the fortnight. People should do it in the first part of the day. Other learned men [hold that it may be performed] when [the second day of the fortnight] comes upon [the first]. (11)

One has no right to perform the rites for the departed Manes of his own father [while he is alive]. Superseding a living person, one should never make a gift. Such is the S'ruti. (12)

* This intercalary month is called Mala (impure) Māsa (month), because no religious rites are performed in this month.

† The S'loka is very elliptical and obscure. The purport is that in the year in which there is an intercalary month even in these two months, there is a decrease of more than one-fourth part of the lunar ray in the first part of the Amāvasyā. Or, in the eighth part of the Chaturdasī, one-fourth portion of the lunar ray disappears; and in the seventh part of the Amāvasyā, it disappears fully and it reappears on the last part thereof. So a S'rāddha should be performed immediately after the disappearance of the Moon in the seventh part of the Amāvasyā.

If one's father dies while his grandfather is alive, one should offer oblations for him. If the grandfather dies, when the great-grandfather is alive, one should offer oblations [for the both]. (13)

But, one whose great-grandfather is dead, should make three Piṇḍas, for the father, grandfather, and the great-grandfather. (14)

Another Text of the S'ruti is:—A twice-born person should offer food and water to the departed Manes superseding a living person. Or his own father should offer oblations to his father. (15)

If one's grandfather dies after the demise of his father, the sixteen S'rāddhas—including one that is performed on the eleventh day—should be celebrated by the grandson. (16)

But it should not be done by the grandson, if the grandfather has got any other son. Having performed the Sapīṇḍa-S'rāddha, he should perform the six monthly ones. (17)

The grandson and the great-grandson should not perform the purificatory rites, (i.e., the Sapīṇḍakaraṇa-S'rāddha) for [the grandfather and the great-grandfather,] for whom no purificatory rite has been performed. One should then perform only the purificatory rite for the father. So Kātyāyana has said. (18)

One should make one's grandfather, who has attained to the condition of a Prēta (deceased ancestor) or who has got over that position, forsooth, perform the purificatory rites for the father. (19)

One's father being killed by a Brāhmaṇa, [or on being dead] when outcasted, living a life of mendicancy, or committing a transgression,—one should offer oblations unto those to whom he (i.e., the father) used to give. (20)

The Sapīṇḍakaraṇ of the mother should be performed [by the daughter] with the grandmother, according to the regulation mentioned before if she has no son. (21)

Except on the day of death, no separate Piṇḍas should be offered to women since the Smṛiti says that they get gratification from the part of the Piṇḍas offered to their respective husbands. (22)

A daughter's son should first offer the Piṇḍa to his mother; secondly, to her father; and thirdly, to her father's father. (23)

CHAPTER XVII.

A Karsū (trench), that one digs before one's front, is known as the Pūrvā (first); the one, that is dug on its south, is the middle one; and the one, that is dug on the [further] south, is called the last. (1)

They should be made, beginning with the north-west corner and ending with the south-east, each at a distance of one-and-a-half fingers; their ends should be pointed; the middle parts, like barley; and they should be spacious like a boat. (2)

The S'aṅkhu (stake) should be made of Khadira (wood) and decorated with silver. The measurement of a S'aṅkhu and Upavés'a (stool), is known as twelve fingers. (3)

Karsūs should be thickly covered with Kus'a, having their tips directed towards the south-east. In a Pitri-Yajña, one should cover [a Karsū] ending in the south, with [Kus'ās having their tips directed towards the south. (4)

Sweet-scented Tagara-flowers, sandal and other pastes, and Souvira-collyrium for Piñjalīs, are known and spoken of [as the best in a S'rāddha]. (5)

Having collected all those articles which are fit [for the īte], one should, without hastiness and in a pure state, perform the S'rāddha after finishing the worship of the Deities. (6)

Having performed the rites, as mentioned by Vasiṣṭha, beginning from the gift of a seat to the offering of the Arghya, one should offer, in all the vessels, sesame and water. (7)

Having offered water separately and silently, one should offer sesame and water with the Mantram; scented-water should be offered in order of proximity (8)

The departed Manes of the person, who offers sesame and water in an A'sura-vessel, do not accept food from him for fifteen years. (9)

In the Smṛiti, a vessel made of earth and in a potter's wheel, is called A'sura; that made by the hand, as a Sthālī, etc., is called Daivika (i.e., vessel for the Deities. (10)

Dedicating, in order, unto the Brāhmaṇās, scents, season-flowers and incense,—one should, thereafter, perform the Agnoukaraṇa-Homa. (11)

Agnoukaraṇa-Homa should be performed by one invested with the sacrificial thread and with the face directed towards the east. The S'ruti Text is that one should offer oblations to the Fire for the Deities. (12)

Or it should be performed by one wearing the sacred thread over the right shoulder and facing the south; having determined the offering of clarified butter for one, one should not give [it] to another. (13)

In this [rite], one should not utter "Swāhā" in the end; nor should any offering of clarified butter be made without it. Having offered oblation to the Fire with "ṣwāhā," one should, afterwards, complete the recitation of the Mantram. (14)

A person, who has not deposited the Sacred Fire, after pouring libations of clarified butter unto the hand of the person who is the head of [the Bráhmaṇas] representing the Pitris, should silently offer the residue into the vessels [belonging to] others. (15)

One should never separately repeat the Homa-Mantrams, in [proper] tune and with A'chamanam, etc.; one should silently recite the others. (16)

By holding the Piñjalī, etc., [by the right hand] from the left, one should, therewith, perform the Uliékhanam (rubbing) by the left hand. (18)

By taking up a little from all sorts of offerings and mixing them up with the Charu, one should begin to offer Piṇdas. (19)

In a Parva-S'rāddha, one should offer Piṇdas to the father in the northern Kars'u, to the grandfather in the middle one, and to the great-grandfather in the one placed in the south. (20)

Some say that one should go to the end of the north by turning round on the left. Gotam, S'andilya and Sándilyāyan say so. (21)

Circumambulation, suppressing the vital airs and meditating on the Pitris truly and reciting the Mantram, one should return in the same way and pass his breath. (22)

On the eighth day of the month of Phālguna, one should himself, or make his wife, cook vegetable-leaves. Where a Homa with vegetable-leaves is to be performed, it must be done according to the rules of an Ashtaka-S'rāddha where sweet-barley-cakes [are offered]. (23)

Gobhila and Gotama say that Anwashtakā-S'rāddha should be performed in the middle one. Koutsa Rishi says that Anwashtakā may be performed in all the Ashtakās (a collection of three days,—seventh, eighth and ninth, beginning with the seventh day after the Full-Moon) (24)

If in the place of an animal, one cooks Sthālī settled afterwards, one should boil it with the milk of a young cow having a calf. (25)

CHAPTER XVIII.

THE learned describe one class [of religious rites] beginning with the evening and ending with the morning, and another class as beginning with the Pourṇamāsa (Full-Moon-day) and ending with the Dars'a (tenth day). (1)

After the offering of full oblation, one should perform a Homa on any day that comes first between the Dars'a and the Pourṇamāsa. Such is the Sruti. (2)

After Purnāhuti, one should perform the Evening-Homa; thereupon, after the Pāka-Yajña, one should perform the Vais'wadeva-adoration and the Vali-rite. (3)

Afterwards, according to one's own might, one should feed such Brāhmaṇas as one may desire. The sacrificer should, then, take his meals. So says Kātyāyana. (4)

Shorn of idleness, one should perform the morning, and the Evening-Homa into the Vaivāhika-Fire. After performing the Chaturthi-Homa, one should do this. Such is the opinion of S'ātyāyana. (5)

After performing the Purnāhuti, one should perform Homa in the morning, and then [offer] the Evening Oblation. The Morning-Homa should be as usual, and the regulation, for the succeeding Homa, is also the same. (6)

After the expiration of the Pūrṇamāsa (Full-Moon-day) as well as that of the Amāvasyā, one should perform Homa on the day when worthy articles of offering and qualified priest would be available. (7)

I shall now describe how a Homa should be performed afterwards when a person, being unable to offer oblations to the Fire, passes time fasting and being self-restrained. (8)

Calculating the number of offerings [neglected] and placing them in full on a vessel, one should duly offer them in excess to the others with Mantrams. (9)

When an expiatory Homa is to be performed with the Vyūhṛitis, four offerings are known [to be offered] there, as in the case of espousing a maiden. (10)

Or, it should be performed with the Mantram,—“Ajñāta,” etc ; or a Prājāpitya-offering should be made. This is the threefold regulation of a Prāyaschitta- (expiatory) Homa, according to the Smṛiti. (11)

If, on any occasion, a Sacred Fire comes in contact with an ordinary one,—one should offer oblations of clarified butter with the Mantram,—"Agnayé vivichayé." (12)

If it comes in contact with lightning-flashes, one should offer oblations to the Fire with the Mantram,—"Apsuman;" [if it comes in contact] with a bad fire, one should offer oblations [with the Mantram,—"Agnayé s'uchayé." (13)

If a Sacred Fire comes in contact with that consuming a house, a Kshāmavān-Homa should be performed by the twice-born. [Similar is the procedure,] when it comes in contact with a wild fire. If the heat generated by these two fires, touches the heart,—one should extinguish the generated one and enkindle the other which is detached. Giri S'arma has said so. (14—15)

One cannot perform a Homa for another, without offering, at least, one sacrificial fuel to one's own Fire. Put one may offer oblations for purifying the embryo till it is not born. (16)

In every Homa for the Naming-Rite, etc., Loukika (ordinary) Fire [should be improvised]; for a Fire consecrated by the father, does not go to the son. (17)

He, on whose Fire other's Homa shall be performed, should make a Vais'vānara-Daivata-Charu (sacrificial food); for that is his penance. (18)

If another performs a Homa on one's own Fire, if one performs one's own Homa on another's Fire, if one fails to perform a Pitṛi-Yajña or two Vais'vādēva-rites, if one takes the newly-grown rice without performing the new Yajña, or if one takes the boiled rice of a degraded caste,—one should make Vais'vānara-Charu. (19—20)

In all the purificatory rites for his son, a father should offer Piṇdas (funeral cakes) to one's own father, grandfather, etc. In his absence, [one should offer them] to the higher [manes]. (21)

If in a Bhūtapravāchana (a rite for the promulgation of a child), a wife, disabled by menstrual impurity, does not come near, what would the sacrificers do? (22)

The woman of the same caste, who cooks rice in the kitchen, should be made to make the Pravāchana, or one should perform it with Praṇava as said by Kātyāyana. (23)

In a sacrifice, in a Vāstu (rite of adoration of the earth, in holding by palms, in making a Stambha (pillar), in making a Kus'a-Vatu, in making a seat of Kus'ā and in spreading Kus'ā, there is no limit of Darbhās. (24)

CHAPTER XIX.

HAVING made over the charge of the Sacred Fire to his wives and selected a sacrificial priest, a Vipra may proceed to a foreign country. One must not uselessly go to a foreign country, nor should one live there for good. (1)

When living in a foreign land, one should mentally think of the daily rites after being purified and shorn of idleness and seated. One should follow all [the rites] in proper time. (2)

A woman devoted to her husband and seeking good fortune, wealth and non-widowhood, should also humbly serve the Fire without any break. (3)

One should engage in this rite a wife who has given birth to heroic sons, who carries out the behests of her consort, is beloved, expert in business, speaks sweet words and is spotless. (4)

If it cannot be performed by one, they (i.e., the wives) should, either according to seniority or ability, severally or jointly, perform the rite, according to their own light and knowledge of the scriptures. (5)

The seniority of women [is determined] by their good fortune, and that of the twice-born, by their bearing. The fame or asceticism of women does not lead to the gratification of their husbands. (6)

The woman following the commands of her husband, who, like Umā, gratifies the Fire with manifold religious observances, attains to good luck in the next world. (7)

The woman,—who, even when bending low with humility, is disliked by her husband,—must have disregarded in a previous birth her husband, Umā and the Fire. (8)

He, who rising up in the morning, sees a S'rotṛiya (one learned in the S'ruti), a blessed lady, a cow, the Fire, as well as a person who maintains his Sacred Fire, becomes freed from all calamities. (9)

He, who rising up in the morning, sees a sinful wight, an unlucky woman, a degraded person, a nude wight, and one whose nose has been cut off, is visited by Kali. (10)

What hell is there where a woman, disregarding her husband out of stupefaction, does not go to? What sorrow is there which she does not know after attaining to a human birth with great difficulty? (11)

Is there any region which a woman serving her husband, does not attain? Again returning to this world from the celestial region, she becomes like an ocean of happiness. (12)

What Homa is laid down for that person, maintaining his Sacred Fire, who having a living wife wishes for other wives, for some reason or other? (13)

Homa should be performed with his own Fire and never with the ordinary one. It is laid down that no rite of a person who has consecrated the Sacred Fire, should be performed with the ordinary fire. (14)

Till the seeing of Dhruva, he shall have the Homa performed by another with six oblations. Till he is not married, there is no necessity of his own self. (15)

The three forms of Prâyaschitta (penetentia' rite) that have been spoken of before, have been described by good men conversant with sacrifice, as Shad'âhutikam. (16)

CHAPTER XX.

A Homa should never be performed by the Ritwik and others in the absence of the married couple. What is done in their absence becomes profitless. (1)

By leaving aside the Sacred Fire and transgressing the limit, if a person goes away with his wife and the time for Homa expires, he shall have to deposit the Fire again. (2)

If the Sacred Fire is mixed up with the fire that destroys a forest, one should preserve it. And when that fire is extinguished, he should again consecrate it. (3)

If one having many wives goes on superseding the eldest one, some wish that the Fire should be consecrated again. But this is not [the view of] Gotama. (4)

Having cremated a becoming wife, dead before, with the fire of the vessel,—one should get himself re-married without delay [and consecrate the Fire again]. (5)

A twice-born person, who is conversant with religious laws, should cremate a good-charactered wife of the same caste, who dies before, with the sacrificial vessel according to the Agnihotra-method. (6)

One who, having his first wife living, cremates the second wife with the Vaitāṇika-Fire, is equal to the destroyer of a Brāhmaṇa. (7)

Know him to be a Brahmojjham (abandoning the dignity of a Brāhmaṇa) who renounces the Agnihotra (adoration of the Sacred Fire) on the death of his second wife. (8)

One must not abandon the Vedic Fire on the death of one's wife, but should perform all the rites therewith as long as one lives. 9)

Having made a golden image of his illustrious wife Sītā, the eternal Rāma celebrated many sacrifices along with his brothers. (10)

He, who any how cremates his wife with his own Sacred Fire, attains to womanhood and his wife attains to manhood. (11)

If a twice-born person be guilty of a heinous crime and if his wife be dead or living in another country, his son would be entitled [to maintain the Sacred Fire. (12)

If a wife, worthy of respect, being insulted by her husband, dies before,—she attains to manhood for three births, and the man becomes born as a woman. (13)

In the rite of consecrating the Sacred Fire again, the former sex shall be as before. But the distinction is that, the rite of Agnyupasthānām (placing on the Fire) [should be performed], and eight oblations of clarified butter [offered]. (14)

Finishing up to end the Vyahṛiti-Homa, one should place the Sacred Fire. He should recite merely the Agnéya-Sūkta, such as,—“Kastējāmi ramāṇasas.” (15)

With the Mantrams,—“Agnimīd'e” (I adore Agni), “Agna āyāhi” (come Fire), “Agna āyāhi vītaye” (come Fire to this sacrifice), the three Mantrams,—“Agnirjyoti,” etc., “Agniṁ dutaṁ” (Fire the messenger), and “Agné-mṛid'a,”—[with these eight Mantrams,]—one should, duly and in proper order, offer eight oblations. Then one should perform the completing oblations and other rites as before. (16—17)

The consecrating of the Fire on the other Araṇis, is not allowed so long as a little of the first two Araṇis is visible. (18)

One should throw into the burning Fire, the destroyed Sruka-Sruva (sacrificial ladles), the up-turned vessel and the Mushala (mace), having its top directed towards the east. (18)

CHAPTER XXI.

IF a person is incapable of performing a Homa himself, he should come before the Fire; if he is unable to do that even, he should sit up on his bed. (1)

If at the time of performing the Evening-Homa, the householder appears so weak [as to die immediately], then the Morning-Homa should be performed. If he survives, [on the morning,] he may perform it again, if he so wishes. (2)

Having bathed the dead body and covered it with a pure raiment, one should place it, having its head turned towards the south, on the ground strewn with Kus'ā-reeds. (3)

Having soaked it with clarified butter, one should again sprinkle it with water. It shall then be clothed, invested with another sacred thread, bedecked with flowers and have all its limbs pasted with sandal. (4)

Having placed gold into its seven apertures and covered its face with a cloth, the sons and others should carry it. (5)

Having taken boiled rice in a raw earthen vessel, one should follow the dead body, preceded by an Agnihotrin, and scatter half [of the boiled rice] on the way. (6)

Then reaching the cremation-ground, [the chief mourner,] seated with his face directed towards the south and bending low his left knee-joint, should, mixing up the remaining half [of the rice] with sesame, offer it according to the regulations of Piṇḍa. (7)

Thereupon after bathing, the son and others, on a purified spot of the ground, qualified by its marks for making a funeral pyre, should make a huge collection of wood. (8)

Then placing on it the dead body on its back with its head towards the south, one should place, on its mouth, a Sruk, filled with clarified butter; on its nose, a Sruvam with its top directed towards the south; on its legs, the eastern Araṇi; on its breast, the northern Araṇi; on its left side, S'ūpra; on its right side, the Chamasa; on the space between the two thighs, the Mushala; and on the collar bones, the Udūkhala (mortar). One who has not consecrated the Fire, should be placed on its face. One who will set fire to the Fire, shall neither have tears in the eyes nor be stricken with fear. (9—11)

Making the sacred thread hang down towards the left part of the body over the right shoulder, controlling speech and facing the south and performing [all rites in that state], bending low one's left knee, and facing the Fire, one should gradually lighten up the fire. (12)

He should recite the Mantram,—"Thou wert created by him; may he, through thee, be born again; may he attain to the celestial region." (13)

When the master of a house is thus cremated, he gets over all his sins. He who cremates his body, also gets praiseworthy children. (14)

As a traveller, carrying his own weapon, traverses fearlessly the forest and reaches the appointed place, so a person, who consecrates the Sacred Fire, adorned with the weapon of a sacrificial vessel, transcends all the regions and attains to Brahma. (15—16)

CHAPTER XXII.

THEREUPON without looking [at the Fire], all those who touch the dead body, should go to the water; bathe with their raiments on; rinse their mouths; and offer water on the ground to the departed one. (1)

Reciting the family and name, they should afterwards say,—"Tarpayāmi" (I offer water). Directing the tops of the Kus'ā-reeds towards the south, they should separately [offer water] with sesame. After having thus performed the watery-rite completely and bathed and rinsed their mouths again, they shall be seated on a plot of ground covered with green grass, their followers saying,—(2—3)

"All living creatures do not live for ever; therefore do not grieve. Practise with care religion, for it will go with you. (4)

"Foolish, indeed, is that wight who seeks real essence in a man who is as unsubstantial as the trunk of a plantain tree and the water-bubbles. (5)

"The earth, the oceans and even the Deities run to destruction; why would not then the region of the mortals, like unto a foam, meet with destruction? (6)

"What is there to repent for, if the body, which is known to be composed of five [substances], is again reduced to five [original substances] under the influence of physical actions? (7)

"All collections meet with destruction; all elevations meet with fall; all unions meet with separation; and every life ends with death. (8)

"A departed person, losing all control, eats the phlegms and tears discharged by kinsmen. Therefore none should weep, but [all] must perform the rites with care." (9)

Having been thus accosted, they should return home preceded by younger persons. Others (but kinsmen) would get themselves purified by bathing, touching the fire and drinking clarified butter. (10)

CHAPTER XXIII.

THE assignment of vessels for a person who has deposited the Sacred Fire should be made thus. In this, there is a special regulation mentioned in the Sūtrās about the black-antelope-skin, etc. (1)

If one dies in a foreign country, his bones should be brought, soaked with clarified butter and cremated, covered with wool. The assignment of vessels should be made as before. (2)

If the bones are not procurable, leaves, to the number of bones, should be burnt according to the regulation spoken of; impurity lasts till then. (3)

If a person, who has deposited the Sacred Fire, is accidentally affected with a heinous iniquity, his son and others should maintain the Fire till his sins are not dissipated. (4)

If after committing a sin, a person dies without performing the penitential rite, his Household Fire should be extinguished; and the S'routa-Fire, together with the ingredients, should be thrown into the water. (5)

Or he should throw them both into the water, for Fire originates from Water; or he should give the vessels unto a Vipra; or [he should] burn, or throw, them into the water. (6)

A woman, wending a righteous way, should be cremated in this way; but the Māntram, for putting the Fire, should not be recited in her case; such is the determined conclusion [of the Smṛiti]. (7)

With that Fire, one should cremate one's wife, if she had not proved [herself] independent [of her consort], or degraded [herself]. After that the vessels should be consumed separately near [the funeral pyre]. (8)

On the next, or on the third, day, the depositing of bones should take place. The regulation relating to that, as laid down by the Rishis, should now be spoken of. (9)

arm ; and abstaining from speech ;—one should soak the bones with cow-milk. (10)

Having taken up the bones from ashes with the branches of a S'ami or a Palāsa-tree, one should soak them with clarified butter made of cow-milk and then sprinkle them with scented water. (11)

Having placed them inside an earthen vessel, one should encircle it with thread. Then digging a hole on a sanctified spot, one should place them in that hole facing the south. (12)

Then filling up the hole with earthen balls and corals, one should perform thereon the remaining portion of the rite that should be performed in the morning. (13)

Such is the rule of cremation for a deceased person who had not deposited the Sacred Fire ; fire should be put [to their funeral pyre] like that of women. What has [already] been said, should now be dwelt on [at length] (14)

CHAPTER XXIV.

IN a state of impurity, all rītes, beginning with the Sandhyā, should be renounced. A Homa, with dried rice or fruits, may be performed in the S'routa-Fire. (1)

One should offer Akṛita (raw corn) ; in its absence, Kṛitā-Kṛita (rice) ; or Kṛita (boiled) according to the regulations obtaining at the rite of first taking the boiled rice. (2)

Odana, Sāktu (kinds of cakes), etc., are called Kṛitā ; rice, etc., are called Kṛitā-Kṛita ; and Vrihi, etc., are called Akṛita :—the learned speak of these three classes of offerings. (3)

When any such [preventive] cause appears, as impurity, residence in another country, inability, or partaking of food at a S'rāddha,—one should have the Homa performed by another. (4)

A Brahmacharin should not renounce his own work even in a state of impurity; [an impurity would not be an impediment] in a sacrifice after initiation or in the performance of a distressing penance. (5)

Even on the demise of the father, they are not affected by any impurity. The impurity of a Brahmacharin takes place after the performance of his religious rite or lasts for three days. (6)

The S'rāddha of a Sāgnika would take place on the eleventh day after the cremation. But the annual S'rāddha, one should always perform on the day of death. (7)

Twelve monthly S'rāddhas, the first S'rāddha after the death, two six-monthlies, and the Sapīṇḍ'īkaraṇ—these are the sixteen S'rāddhas. (8)

[The first] six-monthly S'rāddha should take place either one or three days previous to the day of death. And the annual S'rāddha, forming the [second] six-monthly, would also take place one or three days previous to the day of death. (9)

The first fifteen S'rāddhas should be performed for one who has no son; and the other also should be performed on one day in the year. [The S'rāddha,] for the one who has a son, should always be performed.* (10)

The husband of a woman having no son, shall not perform [the Pārvaṇa-S'rāddha] for her; nor shall a

* The Commentator Raghunandan has given a different interpretation of this couplet. He says :—"The first fifteen S'rāddhas and the annual Ekoddhishṭa-S'rāddha should be performed for a sonless man or woman.

father do it for the son; nor the eldest brother, for the younger. (11)

Having duly performed the S'rāddha on the eleventh day, a son who has deposited the Sacred Fire, should subsequently perform the Sapīṇḍa for his father or mother. (12)

After the Sapīṇḍ'ikaraṇam, one should not perform a S'rāddha every month according to the Ekoddishta-regulation. But Gotama says, one should do it. (13).

Leaving off the [S'rāddha to be performed for] agricultural operations, the first sixteen S'rāddhas and the annual, there shall be six Pīṇḍas in the subsequent ones. This is the rule. (14)

In the offering of the Arghya, in that of unending water, in that of Pīṇḍa, in Avanējana (sprinkling water on the Darbha-grass at a S'rāddha-ceremony) and in reciting Swādhā, there shall be the stoppage of the ritual. (15)

The S'rāddha and other good offices should not be performed for them, who were punished (i.e., killed) by the Brāhmaṇās, and for whom no cremation has been done. (16)

CHAPTER XXV.

IN the collection of Mantrams, the five "Agné," etc., should be recited by those who seek brevity. Twenty Mantrams are necessary in its application. (1)

"Vāyu" [should be used,] instead of "Agni." The word "Chandra" and "Suryya" should be understood. And understanding all in the fifth Sūtra, each Mantram should be recited four times according to the S'ruti. (2)

In the five Mantrams of the first group of five, shall occur the expression,—“Papī Lakshmīḥ.” Those, conversant with sacrificial rituals, know it so. (3)

In the second group, shall occur [the word] “Patighnī,” in the third, “Aputrakā,” in the fourth, “Apasavyā.” These are the twenty oblations. (4)

In the Dhṛiti-Homa as well as in the eight Gonār a-Homas, one should not use [“Swāhā,” with the fourth declension]; in the “Gondma-Homa,” one should offer oblations with “Aghnā,” instead of the fourth declension. (5)

The hidden leaves on the top of the branch of a creeper, is described as S'uṅgā.* According to the S'ruti, a chaste woman, observant of a vow and an unworthy Brāhmaṇa [should buy it].† (6)

S'ālatu is mentioned for indigo, and Granthah is used for a Stavaka. The hairs on both sides of the head, are called Kapushṇikā; those on the back, are called Kapuchchhalaṃ. (7)

Salalī means the pointed sticks of a porcupine; and Vīratara, an arrow. Sesame and rice, boiled together, passes by the name of Kṛishara. (8)

In the Naming Rite—the word Muni, Vasu and Pis'ācha should always be used in the plural number. And Yakshas, the Pitṛis, the Viśwédēvas, the guests and other Divinities should be treated with oblations. (9)

In the Homa-rites of Planets beginning with Lunar Mansion called Kṛittikā, of those beginning with Snake (Rohiṇi, etc.), of those beginning with Viśākhā (the

* The Sheath of a young bud.

† In the Gobhīlā-Sūtra, there is a regulation about the purchase of the S'uṅgā. Kātyāyana has explained the term and mentioned the names of persons who should buy them.

sixteenth Lunar Mansion consisting of two Stars), of those beginning with A's'ād'a (the twentieth and twenty-first Lunar Mansions), of those beginning with Dhanishthā (the twenty-third Lunar Mansion consisting of four Stars), and of those beginning with As'winī (the first of the twenty-seven Nakshatras or Lunar Mansions consisting of three Stars),—one should offer oblations with the plural number. Dual should be used for the remaining two pairs; and singular, for the rest. (10—11)

Amongst the Deities [presiding over the Planets], the Serpent, the Air, the Water, the Vis'wédévas and the Pitṛis should be offered oblations with the plural number. (12)

Being ordered by his preceptor in the performance of a religious rite, a Brahmachārin should follow his behest by saying,—“Vād'am” (well); or “Om” (yes). (13)

Till the [final] bath, the shaving of the head—except the tuft of hair on the crown, should be done by a Brahmacharin, if he has not taken the vow of a lifelong celibacy. (14)

He must not remove the dirt of his body—except in a calamity, must not sport in water; nor should he wear ornaments. And like a rod, he should take his bath. (15)

How should one offer oblations when the Deities are adverse? Having performed the penitentiary Homa, one should again offer oblations in due order. (16)

If on any occasion, one performs a purificatory rite after the proper time is over, he should perform Homa, on all these occasions destructive of sins. (17)

The Vaishvānara-Charu is laid down as the penance for him who without performing the new sacrifice, eats the boiled rice of new crops, even out of ignorance. (18)

CHAPTER XXVI.

How should the Charu (sacrificial food) be made,—in the rite of the combination of Charu, in a sacrifice attended with cow-slaughter, in the rite of the dedication of a bull, in a Horse-Sacrifice, on the Full-Moon-day in the month of S'rāvaṇa, in the evening and at the commencement of agricultural operations? How should the presentations of offerings and libations to the Fire be made, in all those rites? (1—2)

Proportionate to the number of Divinities, offerings should be taken up separately. Twice they should be taken up silently; and Homa, performed separately. (3)

[And] the quantity of the Charu would be such as will leave some remnant after the completion of the Homa as mentioned in a particular rite. (4)

In the rite of the combination of Charu and in that at a sacrifice for the Pitṛis, one should perform Homa with a Mékshaṇa; others say,—that [a Homa] should be Ūpastīrṇa, (i.e., clarified butter should be poured into a Sruva-vessel with the Sruk or sacrificial ladle) and Abhigārita (i.e., accompanied with the pouring of clarified butter). (5)

The time and regulation about the dedication of a bull has been described, in brief, by Kātyāyana. Since Gobhila has not spoken of it. (6)

The universally received time, for a Cow-, and a Horse-, Sacrifice, as well as for the rite of Prastarārohaṇa (getting upon a rock or bed), has been mentioned in some other book of instructions. (7)

The regulation in another book of laws, is, that the time for a Cow-Sacrifice, is the day of Mārgapālya, and that for a Horse-Sacrifice is the Nirājana-day.* (8)

Some say that the Sacrifice for the New [Rice] should be performed in the autumn or in the spring. Others say [that it should be performed] when the paddy is ripe; forest-recluses should perform it when S'yāmāka-crop is ripe. (9)

In the rites to be performed on the Full-Moon-day in the month of A's'wina, in agricultural rites, in the worship of the Deity of the household,—the sacrificers, conversant with the secrets of sacrifices, lay down the following Homa. (10)

The Smṛiti enjoins that two, five and two oblations should be offered, in order, with clarified butter. The remaining oblations should be made with clarified butter. So Kātyāyana has said. (11)

Milk, according to others, curd mixed with clarified butter, is called Prishātaka. By obtaining that, one should make Pāyasa-Charu. (12)

The holding of the seven herbs, namely, Vrihi, S'ali, Mudga, wheat, mustard, sesame and barley, dissipates all sins. (13)

The purificatory rites of men have been remembered by Gotama and other Rishis. Then all the Ashtaka-rites should be performed in due time. (14)

The twice-born person, who performs, even once, the Ashtaka-rites, becoming the sanctifier of the row, goes to regions pouring clarified butter. (15)

* A kind of military and religious ceremony, performed by kings or generals of armies in the month of A's'wina, before they took the field; (it was, so to say, a general purification of the king's Purohita, the ministers, and all the various component parts of the army, together with the arms and implements of war by means of sacred Mantrams).

He,—who, being engaged in a religious rite, serves the Fire, in a purified state, even for a day,—lives in the celestial region for a hundred days by the fruits thereof. (16)

He,—who, having consecrated the Fire, does not perform sacrifices in honour of the Deities, after giving them hopes,—that repudiator of the Deities, is called Nirākṛiti (repudiator). (17)

CHAPTER XXVII.

THE S'rāddha, that is performed at the commencement of a rite; the sacrificial present, that is given at the end; and the second one, that should be performed on an Amāvasyā, is called Anvāhāryya.* (1)

In Ekasādhyā- (capable of being performed by one) Homa, there is no spreading of the Kus'ā, no sprinkling of water round the Sacrificial Fire, and no Udgāsādanam (obtaining of water); for, it is known as Kshipra (quick) Homa. (2)

One should offer oblations with curd or milk in the absence of Vrihi and barley; in its absence, with rice-gruel; and in its absence, with water. (3)

Having recited the Roudra, Rākshasa, Pitrya and the enchanting Mantram,—one should, touching one's own body, touch water. (4)

* The Nandimukha-S'rāddha is called Anvāhāryya, because it is performed after the adoration of the Mātris. A dakshina is so called, because, it is offered at the termination of a religious rite. And the Amāvasyā-S'rāddha is so called, because it is performed after the adoration of the departed Manes.*

If one is seen offering bones in the quarters presided over by the Moon or the Varuṇa, then offering oblations with Vyāhṛitis,—one should administer punishment unto the twice-born (5)

He,—who makes offering of salt, honey, meat or any saline substance, must take his meals after fasting. He must not take any thing in the night. (6)

If the sacrificial priest and offerings not being available, the Evening-Homa is not performed in its proper time,—it may be performed in the next morning before the hour of the Morning-Homa. But it should be done after the celebration of the penitentiary Homa. (7)

The hour of the Morning-Homa extends till before that of the Evening-Homa. The time for a Dars'a, extends till before that, for the Full-Moon-day S'rāddha; and that for the latter, till before the hour for Dars'a. (8)

Failing to perform the Vais'wadeva-rites, one should remain fasting for the day and night. Then performing the penitentiary rite, one should again undertake the rite. (9)

The two Homas (Morning and Evening) and the Dars'a and Pourṇamāsa-rites being not performed, one should again deposit the Sacred Fire. Such is the deliverance of Bhārgava. (10)

One who has not studied the Rig-Vēda, is called Māṇava; a black antelope is called Eṇaḥ, according to the Smṛiti (of Gobhila); a white-coloured deer, is called Ruru; and a stake is called Sumaraḥ. (11)

A Brāhmaṇa's Daṇḍa (a staff given to a twice-born person at the time of his investiture with the sacred thread) should be made, in size, extending up to the end of hairs; that of a Kshatriya, up to the fore-head; and that of a Vais'ya, up to the nose. (12)

They shall be all straight, without knots, handsome to look at, unproductive of anxiety to men, covered with bark and unsullied by fire. (13)

The superiority of a cow is spoken of by the Brāhmaṇas and is mentioned in the Vēdas. There is none superior to her; and a cow is, therefore, called Vara. (14)

In all those rites, at the termination of which no sacrificial present is mentioned, a cow or a raiment should form the presents unto the preceptor. (15)

Exposition at an improper place, recitation in parts and erroneous teaching, bring about the rejection of a S'ruti. (16)

The Annual-Upākarma,* and Utsarga,† duly performed by the twice-born, increase afresh the power of the Vēdas: (17)

Whatever rite the twice-born, even sportively, perform by the help of the Vēdas not rejected, always yields for them Siddhi (supernatural powers). (18)

Having duly instructed the pupils in the three Rich-Mantrams—Gāyatrī, Gāyatra and Vārhaspatya, a preceptor should begin the Upākarma of the S'ruti. (19)

In the Samhitā (of the Vēda), there are, in order, twenty classes of metres. With the first Mantram composed in each metre, he should perform Homa for all those Chhandas. (20)

With the subsequent portions of the Charchchā- (Recitation) Mantrams, he should perform Homa for

* A ceremony performed before commencing to read the Vēda after the monsoons.

† The rite performed at the completion of the study of the Vēda.

hymns, the Brāhmaṇa (portion of the Vēdas) and the Aṅgas (the six auxiliary parts of the)Vēda. (21)

CHAPTER XXVIII.

BARLEY is called Akshata ; when fried, it becomes Dhāna ; Vrihi-rice when fried, is called Lāja ; and a pitcher is called Svāṇḍika. (1)

For the six months when the Sun is in the southern solistice, a wise man should not study the subsequent mysterious subjects and the Upanishads. (2)

A person conversant with religious science, should study during the northern solistice after performing the Upākarmaṇ-rite. Utsarga (terminating rite) should be performed on the Full-Moon-day either in the month of S'ravana or of the Bhādra. (3)

One should not marry a woman who has not auspicious marks, who has profuse hairs on her person, and who is born of a woman giving birth to a single child. (4)

Three attached footsteps pass by the name of Pra-krama in the Smṛiti. It is mentioned by the Adhvaryu in all the Smārātta, and S'routa, rites. (5)

One should offer oblations of food facing the quarter in which [they should be placed] Nyāñcha-Karma (lying on the face) should not always be performed in all those rites [that are celebrated] [in the month of] S'rāvaṇa. (6)

The oblations at the end of a Vali (food-offering) and Agni-praṇayanam (fetching the Fire) would not take place every day. But Ulmukha (torchlight) must always be done. (7)

All are entitled to the Mantram for despatching Prishātaka (milk mixed with ghee) and for eating the new-boiled rice left after offering it to the Fire. (8)

If Brāhmaṇas are not near at hand, [the sacrificer] should himself look at the Prishātaka. Even in a New Sacrifice, one should partake of the residue of the clarified butter. (9)

All the jujube branches are called Kalatavya. Conch-shells grown in a sandy soil, are known in the Smṛiti as Jātas'ila (pitumen). (10)

When with the destruction of a rock a precious stone is destroyed, one should, collecting it, purify the same. He should not wait for the A'grahyaṇic rite. (11)

If the S'ravaṇa-rite is stopped for some impurity consequent upon birth, etc. one should completely perform the A'grahyaṇic rite, except the offering of the Vali. (12)

Thereupon one should lie down on one's own bed, either for a month, half-a-month, seven nights, three nights, or for a day, or immediately. (13)

After that, one should not use Mantrams. Nor should one follow the rules governing the Room in which the Fire is deposited. No new cloth should be spread, nor should there be any mention of the south or the sides. (14)

If they are very strong then even when the rite is begun in Agrahayana, one should sprinkle two pitchers with water reciting the Mantrams all the while. One should recite the Mantrams at every pitcher. (15)

A small impediment has been mentioned by many in the Smṛiti as an obstacle. Prāṇa-Sammita, etc., has been described as an impediment by Vas'istha. (16)

When there is a contradiction of words, the deliverance of the majority is considered as an authority. Where evidence is of equal weight, reason is described as an authority. (17)

A palm is called Traiyaṃvaka; the head is called Apūpaḥ; a ball is called Palās'a; and powdered iron is called Chīvara. (18)

In some places, one should touch with the forepart of the Nameless finger; and in some places, one should consecrate with Mantrams by merely looking at them. (19)

CHAPTER XXIX.

IN all the rites the Srotas (stream) of animals should be sprinkled with water quietly by a bunch of Kus'a, according to one's desire. The two vessels made of Palās'a, are for keeping the marrow. (1)

The seven apertures in the head, the four udders, the navel, the hip and the anus, are the fourteen Srotas of a cow. (2)

The hoof is for cutting flesh. Having collected the entire quantity of marrow according to the rules of learned men, one should perform Homa and then terminate the Mantrams. (3)

The breast, the tongue, the lap, the bones, the two kidneys, the anus, the udders, the hip, the shoulder, the testes and the sides, are spoken of as the limbs of an animal. (4)

In number, the Avadānam (cutting into pieces) is eleven, as there are eleven limbs. But it is sometimes fourteen, as there are two kidneys, two sides and two testes (5)

As somehow or other the injunctions of the S'ruti must be carried into effect, so there should be eight Rik-Homas, even when the Charu sacrificial food is prepared with a goat. (6)

Proportionate to [the number] of Avadānas that one would have made on animals were they available, Piṇḍas of rice boiled with milk, should be made in the absence of animals: (7)

In the absence of animals, one should make a liquid food of rice, milk and sugar boiled together for Uhana-curry; and similarly, in the Anvashtakā-rite. (8)

Some learned men speak of the superiority of the offering of Piṇḍas; for, it is seen that, at holy places, chiefly at Gaya, merely Piṇḍas are offered. (9)

Other great Rishis speak of the superiority of feeding; for, it is seen that, great care is taken in examining the Brāhmaṇās (10)

The regulation of an A'ma-S'rāddha (i.e., one performed with raw materials), is that [it should be done] with Piṇḍas. The study of the Vēdas is forbidden in the case of taking food at a S'rāddha; and in that of listening to the S'rāddha-regulations. (11)

I have arrived at this conclusion, after having collected the opinions of learned men. Since there is the superiority of both the rites, therefore this is the aggregate opinion: (12)

The sprinkling of an animal with water in Pitṛi-rites, should be done by one wearing the sacred thread over the right shoulder and under the left arm. And one should offer Charu by wearing the sacred thread under the right arm. (13)

The collection of Avadānam and not that of any thing else, is for establishing the superiority. The offering of oblation is the superior part; the remaining portion is but an ordinary affair. (14)

Any elevated place is called Dvipa; any place covered with green grass is called Ishtakā in the Smṛiti. Any watery place is called Kilina; and that which is distant from a pool is called Maru. (15)

The gate, the window, the pillar, the earth, the plinth and the last corner should have no holes, nor should the gate of the house have any holes; and it must be in the possession of the A'ryyas. (16)

In it Vṛihi is called Vas'aṅgamā; and barley is called S'aṅkha; reciting the name by such a one, one should offer oblations like those of a Kshipra-Homa. (17)

Arghya is formed by the collection of fried paddy, flowers, water and scents. And Madhuparka is formed by the combination of curd and honey. (18)

With a belmetal vessel, one should pour Arghya into the palms of a venerable person. One should also dedicate Madhuparka placed in a belmetal vessel and covered by a belmetal vessel. (19)

VRIHASPATI SAMHITA

HAVING celebrated a hundred sacrifices [and] completed [them] with profuse presents, King Indra accosted Vṛihaspati, the foremost of orators, saying,— (1)

“O lord, by what gift happiness is always multiplied? Tell me, O thou of great asceticism, of that, which, being given, yields most precious fruits.” (2)

Being thus accosted by Indra, the greatly wise Vṛihaspati, the master of speech and the priest of the Celestials, said,— (3)

“O Vāsava, he, who makes gifts of gold, cow and lands, is freed from all sins. (4)

“Gold, silver, raiment, diamond and precious stones, are all given by him who gives away lands. (5)

“By giving away furrowed lands, capable of germinating seeds and filled with corns, one lives gloriously in the celestial region, so long as the solar rays remain in the three regions. (6)

“By making a gift of land, even of the measurement of a Gocharma, one is purged of any sin he commits under the distressing pressure of limited means of livelihood. (7)

“A plot of land, thirty rods of ten cubits in length and ten such in breadth, is called Gocharma. [The gift of such a land yields] great fruits. (8)

“Or the plot of land where a thousand kine, having given birth to young ones, may live comfortably, is called Gocharma in the Smṛiti. (9)

“By making gift of a land unto a Vipra, endued with accomplishments, asceticism and self-controlled, one enjoys the un-ending fruits thereof, so long as the earth girt by the ocean exists. (10)

"As seeds, scattered on the surface of the earth germinate; so virtue, acquired by the gift of lands, multiplies. (11)

"As a drop of oil, thrown into water, spreads itself; so the virtue of the gift of lands, multiplies itself in every corn. (12)

"The giver of rice becomes ever happy; and that of raiments, beautiful. The man, who makes gifts of lands, becomes always like a king. (13)

"As a milch-cow rears its calf by discharging milk, so, O thousand-eyed Deity, the land, given away, multiplies the prosperity of the giver. (14)

"[By giving away lands, one comes by the fruits of the gifts of] conch-shell, house, umbrella, animate and inanimate objects, and elephants. The fruit of the gift of lands, O Purandara, comprises various virtues and the celestial region. (15)

"The Sun, Varuṇa, Viṣṇu, Soma, Fire-God, and the Divine Holder of the Trident (Ś'ivá), gratify the giver of lands. (16)

"The fathers vaunt and the grandfathers become gratified, [and say,—] 'A giver of lands is born in our family. He will become our rescuer.' (17)

"The gifts of kine, lands and learning, are spoken of as supreme gifts. They, forsooth, rescue the giver from all sins. (18)

"The givers of clothes, go [to the other region], being covered therewith. And those, who fail to do so, go nude. The givers of food, go there, gratified [with food]. And those, who do not make gifts of food, go hungry (19)

"All the departed Manes, afraid of hell, seek it, thinking,—'The son who will go to Gayá would be our rescuer.' (20)

One should desire for many sons, for if one happens to go to Gaya, or one happens perform a Horse-Sacrifice, or to dedicate a Níla-bull. (21)

The one, the upper part of whose tail is dark-blue in colour, whose hoops are twany-coloured, and whose horns are white, is called a Níla-bull. (22)

If that Níla-bull, having a twanty-coloured tail, goes about eating grass, the departed Manes [of the giver], remain gratified for sixty thousand years. (23)

"If the mud, upraised from the bank, exists on its horns, the departed Manes of the dedicator repair to the most beautiful region of Soma. (24)

"Formerly [this earth [belonged] to Yadu, Dilipa, Nriga, Nahusha and other kings; and in future it will go to others. (25)

"This earth was given away by many kings, Ságara, and others. But the fruit belongs to him in whose possession the land exists. (26)

"The perpetrator of sinful deeds,—he, who kills a Bráhmaṇa, who kills a woman, who kills his father, who kills a hundred or a thousand kine, who seizes lands given away by his own self or by another,—rots with his departed Manes by becoming a virmin in his own excreta. (27—28)

"He, who speaks ill of the gift of lands, and he, who gives permission for stealing the same, goes to hell. (29)

"The giver of land and the stealer of the same, reap the virtue or the sin, and no one else. Till the dissolution of the universe, [the giver] remains upwards (i.e., in the celestial region); and the stealer, downwards (i.e., in hell). (30)

"The first offspring of the Fire, is gold. The daughter of Vishṇu, is the earth. A cow is the daughter of the Sun. He, who gives away gold, cow, or the earth, becomes the giver of the threefold regions (i.e., enjoys the fruits of such a gift). (31)

"[A part of] the earth, extending over eighty-six thousand Yoyanas, being given away by one of one's own accord, it gives everywhere all sorts of desired-for objects. (32)

"Both he,—who accepts the gifts of lands, and he,—who makes such a gift,—are the performers of pious deeds. And they, forsooth, repair to the celestial region. (33)

"The fruits of all the [other] gifts, follow one birth, but those of the gifts of gold, lands and a seven years old maiden, follow seven births. (34)

"Thinking that I am the soul, he, who does no injury to the fourfold creations (those born of perspiration, those born of eggs, the vegetables, and those born of the uterus), has nothing to fear of, even when he is alienated from his body. (35)

"Those men, by whom a land is improperly stolen, or those by whom it is made to be stolen,—both the stealer and the orderer,—destroy their seven generations. (36)

"That wicked-minded person, stupefied by Tamas (disorganizing tendency), pilfers a land or makes another do the same, is killed by Varuna's noose, and is born in the species of the feathery tribe. (37)

"If denying the gift, one pilfers a land belonging to

Bráhmaṇa, his three generations are destroyed by tears shed [by such a Bráhmaṇa] (38)

"The stealer of lands, is not purified by [the gift of] a thousand of wells and tanks, by [the celebration of] a hundred Horse-Sacrifices, and by the gift of a Koti (ten millions) of kine. (39)

He, who wrongly possesses a cow, a piece of gold, or a plot of land half a cubit in measurement, lives in hell till the hour of final dissolution. (40)

"One meets with destruction by wrongfully possessing a boundary land, measuring even half a cubit. By obstructing a road trodden by kine, or the village-road, or the cremation-ground, and striking the kine, one remains in hell till the final dissolution. Vyása's deliverance is that one should sow corns in a barren place, dig wells in a waterless place. The false accusation of a maiden, destroys five generations; and that of a cow, ten. (41—43)

"The false accusation of a horse, destroys a hundred generations; that of men (i.e., servants), a thousand. Those born and those who will be born in the family of one who utters a falsehood for gold, are destroyed. (44)

"To speak false for land, destroys all. Therefore, one should never utter a falsehood for land. One should never cherish an inclination for a Bráhmaṇa's property, even if his vital breath comes up to the throat. (45)

"That dreadful poison has no medicine and no physician. Poison is no poison; but a Bráhmaṇa's property [verily] is spoken of as poison. (46)

"Poison kills only one man [who takes it], but a Bráhmaṇa's property destroys even his son and grandson. One can digest iron, powdered stone and even poison. (47)

"What man, in the three regions, can digest a Brāhmaṇa's property? A Brahmana's anger is a weapon, a king's hand is a weapon. (48)

"A weapon destroys only one man; but a Brāhmaṇa's anger, the entire family. The Brāhmaṇas have thus ire for their weapons; and Hari (Vishṇu) has the discus for his weapon. (49)

"[A Brāhmaṇa's] anger is fiercer than the discus; one should not, therefore, make a Brāhmaṇa irate. Those destroyed by fire or the Sun, may grow again. (50)

"But there is no re-growth for him, who has been destroyed by a Brāhmaṇa's ire. Fire destroys [an article] by its power; and the Sun, by its rays. (51)

"The king consumes [a person] with the rod of chastisement; and a Vipra, with anger. That wealth which creates a desire for a Brāhmaṇa's property and hankering for what is dedicated to a Deity, leads to the destruction of one's family and self. The theft of a Brāhmaṇa's property, Brāhmaṇicide, the pilfering of a poor man's wealth, and that of a preceptor's or a friend's gold, afflicts one, even if one is stationed in the celestial region. The sin, attached to the stealth of a Brahmana's property, is never dissipated. (52-54)

"If one hides that sin, it will get wind elsewhere. The weapons [bought] and the soldiers fed by a Brāhmaṇa's wealth, are destroyed in a battle like water in sands. O Vāsava, O foremost of the Celestials, eternal is the gift that is made unto a person who is well-read in the Vēdas, born in a good family, poor, contented, humble, given to the well-being of all creatures, who studies the Vēdas, performs penances, has acquired knowledge and controlled the senses. As milk, curd, clarified butter and honey, placed in a raw earthen vessel, are destroyed for the defect of the vessel, so an ignorant man, who accepts cows, gold, raiment, food, land and sesame, is consumed like a wood. If an ignorant person lives in one's own house, and one vastly read in the S'ruti at a distance,—presents should be made unto the one who is master of the Vēda. There is no sin in superseding the ignorant wight. A learned person, O Vāsava, rescues the family by seven and seven (i.e., seven generations upwards and seven downwards). (55—61)

“He, who reclaims old tanks, wells, pools, forests and gardens, enjoys the same fruits of the original maker. (63)

“The person, O Vāsava, in whose tank, water exists even in the summer season, never comes by any distressing condition. (64)

“O foremost of the kings, the person, in whose tank on this earth, water exists even for a day, rescues seven generations upwards and downwards. (65)

By making gifts of lamp, one becomes of a handsome body. By making gifts of edibles, one acquires memory and intellect. (66)

“If, after perpetrating iniquitous deeds, one gives food unto one soliciting the same and especially unto a Brāhmaṇa, one is not affected by the sin [thereof]. (67)

“[The sages] call him the destroyer of a Brāhmaṇa, who, when seeing lands, kine and wives of one, forcibly taken by another, does not communicate [the matter unto the master]. (68)

"If a king, on being communicated by the Bráhma-nás, oppressed by anger, does not save them, him also, they call the destroyer of a Bráhmaṇa, (69)

"He, who, out of stupefaction, puts impediments in an impending marriage, sacrifice or gift, O Vāsava, is born as a virmin after death. (70)

"Wealth is multiplied by a gift; and life [is prolonged] by the protection of lives. By abstention from injury, one enjoys the fruits [thereof in the shape of] beauty, prosperity and freedom from diseases. (71)

"By partaking of fruits and roots, one attains to the adorable celestial region along with the dwellers therein. By fasting, one enjoys a kingdom and happiness everywhere. (72)

"[The acquisition of] kine, etc., [is the fruit of] initiation. One, by living on grass, attains to the celestial region. One, by bathing three times [a day], acquires women: and by drinking air only [and dying thereby], one reaps the fruit of a sacrifice. (73)

"A kingdom does not accomplish what [is gained by] a twice-born person, who bathes daily, adores the Sun, and recites the Mantrams at the two periods of junction. One attains to the celestial region by meeting with death while fasting. (74)

"Entering into a fire by being self-restrained, one lives gloriously in the region of Brahmá. He, who returns precious stones, comes by creature-comforts and sons. (75)

"He, who fasts, lives, for good, in the celestial region. He, who always lies down on one side, comes by a desired-for condition. (76)

“He, who resorts to a hero's seat, a hero's bed and a hero's place, has eternal regions and desired-for objects. (77).

“By performing fasting, initiation and water-sprinkling for twelve years, one attains to a region superior to that of heroes. (78)

“By studying all the Vēdas, one is immediately freed from sorrow. He, who performs sanctifying religious rites, lives gloriously in the celestial region. (79)

“The twice-born, who study the holy deliverance of Vṛihaspati, have these four, viz.—longevity, learning, fame and strength, multiplied.” (80)

THE END.

DAKSHA SAMHITA'

CHAPTER I

THERE was a patriarch named Daksha, who was acquainted with the true import of Dharma (religion) Artha (worldly profit), the foremost of all those conversant with the Védās, and a perfect master of all forms of learning. (1)

Creation, universal dissolution, preservation and destruction take place of themselves and the soul abides in Brahman. (2)

A Brahmachârin (religious student) a Grihastha (householder), a Vânaprastha (forest-recluse) and a Yatin (hermit)—for all these, Daksha wrote his Institutes. (3)

As long as a boy does not attain to the age of eight, [he is known] as a new-born babe. He is to be known as an embryo, the difference [only] being that of his individuality. (4)

In the period [that is during the period] that he is not invested with the sacred thread, there is no sin in a food and an interdicted edible, in drink, in what should be spoken or not, and in falsehood. (5)

By doing forbidden deeds, after being invested with the sacred thread, one commits a sin. As long as he is not sixteen years old, he is not entitled to follow an established rule or practice. (6)

As long as one studies the Védās and follows the Vedic observances, he is called a Brahmachârin. Thereafter, on being bathed, he becomes a householder. (7)

Two classes of Brahmachārin have been mentioned by the wise in the Smṛiti. The first is Upakuruvāṇaka (a Brāhmaṇa, in a state of pupilage, who wishes to pass on to the state of a householder); the second is Naishthika (one who leads a life of perpetual celibacy. (8)

He,—who after having adopted the life of a householder, becomes a religious student again,—is neither a Yatin nor a Vānaprastha but he is divorced from all the A's'ramas. (9)

A twice-born person should not live, even for a day without following any order. If he lives without following an order, he is required to perform a penitential rite. (10)

He,—who, divorced from an order, engages himself in recitation, or in the performance of Homa, or in making gifts, or in Vedic study,—does not reap the fruit thereof. (11)

The three orders should be followed in due succession, and not in a reverse course. There is none more sinful than he who follows them in a reverse order. (12)

A Brahmachārin is marked by a girdle, a black antelope skin and a staff; a householder, by the sacrifices for the Deities, etc.; and a forest-recluse, by the presence of nails and hairs. And a Yatin [is known] by a threefold staff. These are the different characteristic marks. (13)

He, who has none of these marks, is no follower of an order; and he is required to perform a penitential rite. The order of the above-mentioned rites has not been spoken of, nor has the time [of those rites] been recorded, in the Smṛiti, by the Sages. (14)

For the behoof of the twice-born, Dakṣha himself has spoken of [all those rites]. (15)

CHAPTER II.

I SHALL now describe all those rites, which, being conducive to their well-being, should be performed by the twice-born every day, after getting up from the bed early in the morning. (1)

From sunrise to sunset, a Vipra should not remain, even for a moment, without performing the daily and the obligatory rites, as also those performed with an end in view and those, not censurable. (2)

If a twice-born person, abandoning his own rite, performs those of another caste, either unwittingly or out of stupefaction, he becomes degraded thereby. (3)

Instructions would [now] be delivered by me about what should be performed in the first part of the day. I would [also] describe in full all those different rites which should be performed in the various divisions of the day,—the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and the eighth. (4—5)

When the dawn arrives, one should, after duly performing the purificatory works (i.e., passing urine and excreta) and cleansing the teeth, bathe in the morning. (6)

Bathing in the morning is the purifier of the highly dirty body, having nine apertures, [and] passing [urine and excreta] day and night. (7)

The organs of a sleeping person become moistened and pass discharges. The superior organs thereby come to the level of the inferior ones. (8)

Besmeared with sweat and perspiration, one gets up from the bed. Therefore without bathing, one must not perform any religious rite, such as, the recitation of the Mantrams, the celebration of Homa, etc. (9)

If a Vipra, getting up from the bed at dawn, takes his daily bath early in the morning for three years, he has the sins of his entire birth dissipated. (10)

Bathing in the morning, at the period of conjunction when the Sun rises, is equal to the [penitential rite of] Prájápatya in the destruction even of mighty iniquities. (11)

The Rishis highly speak of early bathing in the morning; for it yields fruits seen and unseen. One who bathes in the morning, with his soul purified is entitled to perform all, such as, the recitation of the Mantrams, etc. (12)

It is said that one should rinse the mouth after bathing. By performing the A'chamanam (rinsing), according to the following regulation,—one attains to purification. (13)

Having washed both the hands and feet, one should drink water thrice, after seeing it carefully. Then one should rub the mouth twice, with the thumb curved a little. (14)

Having sprinkled his two feet completely with water, one should touch one's limbs with the fingers. Thereafter, one should touch the two nostrils with the thumb and the forefinger. Sprinkling water thrice, one should touch one's face. Then sprinkling the feet completely with water, one should touch the limbs. (15)

Thereafter, one should touch the nose with the thumb and the forefinger. And with the thumb and the nameless one, one should repeatedly touch the eyes and the ears. (16)

Then one should touch the navel with the thumb and the little finger; the breast, with the right palm; then the head, with all the fingers; and the arms, with the tops of all the fingers. (17)

That Bráhmāna in particular, who does not perform his Sandhyā-adorations, in the evening, morning and the noon, becomes in his lifetime like a Śūdra. After his death, he is born as a dog. (18)

One, who does not perform the Sandhyā-adorations, is always impure, and is unworthy of all religious rites. The fruit, of any religious rite that he may perform, goes not to him. (19)

After the termination of the Sandhyā-adoration, one should himself perform a Homa. The fruit, which one reaps by himself, performing the Homa, is not attained if it is performed by another. (20)

When a Homa is performed by any of these—a Ritwik, a son, the preceptor, a brother, a daughter's son, and a son-in-law, it is equal to that performed by one's own self. (21)

Having performed the sacrifice for the Deities, one should, thereafter, adore the preceptor and look at the auspicious articles. The rites for the Deities should be performed in the first part of the day; that for men, in the middle part; that for the departed Manes, in the afternoon; all these rites are to be performed with great care. (22—23)

If one performs a rite in the evening which should be performed in the morning, he reaps no fruit thereby as a barren woman by sexual intercourse. (24)

It is laid down that all the rites should be performed in the first part of the day. And the Vēdas, It is laid down should be studied in the second part. (25)

The study of the Vēdas is spoken of as the highest austerity for the Vipras. The study of the Vēdas with its six auxiliaries is to be known as Brhma-Yajña. (26)

The first is the admission [of the superiority] of the Vēdas; then discussion [on the Vēdas], then the study, then the recitation [of the Vēdas], and then the deliverance of instructions unto the disciples. This is the fivefold practice of the Vēdas. (27)

This time (i.e., the second part of the day) is also spoken of as the fittest time for the gathering of sacrificial fuels, flowers, Kus'a, etc. In the third part of the day, means, for acquiring riches and supporting the dependants, should be thought of. (28)

The father, the mother, the preceptor, the wife, the children, the poor people the dependants, the incomers and the guests, are spoken of as the Poshyas (i.e., those who should be supported). (29)

Kinsmen, relatives, those suffering from diseases, who have none to look after them, those who seek refuge, and others having no means, are also spoken of as the Poshyas (30)

To support the Poshyas, is the most excellent expedient for attaining to the celestial region. By oppressing them, one goes to hell. Therefore one should support them with care. (31)

One should especially offer boiled rice unto all creatures. One should make presents unto the learned, or else he would go to hell. (32)

Blessed is his life, who alone is the instrument of support unto many. Those men are like the dead, although alive, who live for themselves only. (33)

Some live for many; others live for their kith and kin; others [only] for themselves. And some cannot, with difficulty [even], support themselves. (34)

One desiring for lordly powers, should make gifts unto the poor, the helpless and the learned. By making gifts unto unworthy persons, people are born dependant on another's fortune. (35)

I consider that wealth, which one presents unto worthy persons and which one offers every day in Homa, as the true wealth. The rest belongs to somebody else which one merely protects. In the fourth part of the day, one should fetch earth for bathing. (36)

[One should in the same part of the day, collect] sesame, flowers, Kuśa, etc. One should bathe in the natural water. Bathing has been spoken of as being threefold, viz.,—Nitya (daily), Naimitika (obligatory, as in the solar or lunar eclipse), and Kāmya (having an end, such as the attainment of the celestial region in view). (37)

Of them that which is Nitya (daily), divides itself again into three :—(1) Malāpaharaṇam (that which removes the dirt of the body); (2), the next is the one which is done after reciting the Mantrams. (38)

[The third] is the bathing at the two periods of junction. These are the divisions of bathing described. Mārjanam (sprinkling the person with water by means of the hands) should be made in the water. Praṇāyāma may be practised anywhere. (39)

Their adorations should be offered to the Sun; afterwards the recitation of the Gāyatrī is spoken of. The Sun is the Deity of the Gāyatrī at whose mouth the threefold Fire is stationed. (40)

The Rishi (Saintly Author) is Vis'vámitra and the metre is Gāyatrī. Savitri is thus qualified. In the fifth part of the day, due divisions should be made. (41)

[Divisions of food should be made] for the departed Manes, the Deities, the mankind and the insects etc. Such is the deliverance [of Dakṣha]. Since a householder gives daily sustenance unto the Deities, the human beings and the bipeds, the order of a Gṛihastha is, therefore the foremost of all A's'ramas. The order of a householder is spoken of, as the source of the three other A's'ramas (42—43)

That being deteriorated, the other three also become subject to decay. A trunk has the root for its life, the branches have the trunk, and the leaves have the branches, [for their life]. (44)

The root being destroyed, all these meet with destruction. A householder should therefore be protected with every care. (45)

He is to be revered and adored by the king and the three other castes, [except the Bráhmaṇa]. He is called a householder who performs the duties of the order. A householder [does not become a householder] by [merely possessing] a house. (46)

A man,—neglecting his own duties, and failing to bathe, offer oblations to the Fire, recite the Mantrams and make gifts,—does not become [a householder] by [merely having] a son and a wife. (47)

By being indebted to the Deities and others,* one

* This refers to the various debts which a man is to satisfy. The debt to the Deities, one satisfies by performing religious rites; the debt to the departed [Manes, one satisfies by performing the S'rāddha; the debt to the Rishis, one satisfies by making religious studies; and the debt to mankind, one satisfies by feeding them.

goes to hell. One who eats alone, is the taker of food, while the other [who shares it with many,] is the feeder of others. (48)

[The difference between these two, is:—] He, who only takes food for himself, [lives alone for himself and] does not feed others. He,—who makes allotments [of food unto the guests], is forgiving, compassionate, devoted to the Deities and guests,—is a pious householder. He is spoken as the leading householder in whom exists these accomplishments, viz.,—mercy, bashfulness, forgiveness, reverential faith, discriminative knowledge, practice of Yoga and gratitude. Having made an allotment [of the food], a householder should partake of the residue. (49—51)

Having partaken of the food and sat at ease, he should digest the same. He should then spend the sixth and seventh parts of the day in the study of the Itihasas and the Puranas. (52)

In the eighth part [of the day], temporal affairs should be attended to. Then, again, he should adore the Fire in the evening. He should next perform Homa, take meals and finish other household works. (53)

Having performed [all the duties], one should, afterwards, study the Védās a little. One should spend the two periods of time after Pradosha (nightfall) in the study of the Védās. (54)

He, who then sleeps for the next two periods, is competent to attain to Brahman. Occasional rites and those undertaken with a particular aim, one may perform at any time whatsoever when the necessity arises. No fixed time is laid down for them. One, being born in this world, shall have to meet with death here. (55—56)

One wishing for happiness, should, therefore, perform all the duties with every care. The middle period is the best for all the rites. By partaking of the clarified butter left as remnant of the offering of oblation, and going to sleep in due time,—a Bráhmaṇa has never to suffer from any physical disabilities. (57—58)

CHAPTER III.

A HOUSEHOLDER has nine Sudhās. I shall express these nine in words. Similarly there are nine [proper] acts and nine [improper] acts. (1)

Secret deeds are nine; open works are nine; successful works are nine; and unsuccessful works are also nine. (2)

There are nine objects which are never to be given away [by a householder]. These groups of nine always lead to the aggrandisement of a householder. (3)

I shall now describe the Sudhā-articles. When any distinguished person comes to the house, one should gently offer these four,—the mind, the eye, the face, and the words. One should rise up and say,—“come here;” carry on a pleasant conversation, saying,—“welcome;” treat him with food; and follow him. [All] these works should be carefully [performed]. (4—5)

Other minor gifts [are:]—[pointing out of] a place [for sitting]; [offering of] water [for washing the feet]; [offering of] a Kus'a-seat; washing the feet; [offering of] oil for rubbing the body; [offering of] a bed; [and offering of] food, according to one's night. A householder should not take his food before his guest is fed, the offering of earth and water ;—all these, a householder should always perform. (6—7)

Sandhyā-adorations, bathing, recitation of the Gāyatrī, Homa, Vedic study, adorations of the Deities, adoration of the Viśvadevas, hospitable treatment extended to the guests, according to one's own might, proper allotment of food for the departed Manes, Deities, human beings, the poor, the helpless, the ascetics, the father, the mother and the preceptor,—these are the nine [sacred] works. Iniquitous deeds are, again, [the following :—] Falsehood, knowing another's wife, taking forbidden food, knowing a woman who should not be known, drinking what should not be drunk, theft, committing injury, doing works not sanctioned in the Śruti, transgression of a friend's duty,—these are nine improper deeds. One should avoid them all. Longevity, wealth, weakness of a house, counsel, sexual intercourse, medicine, 'austerity, charity, and honour,—these nine should be carefully kept secret. Freedom from a disease, satisfaction of a debt, gift, study, sale, giving away a daughter in marriage, dedication of a bull, secret sin, and the act of not being censured by others,—these nine should be publicly done by a householder. (8—14)

What is presented as a gift to the father, to the mother, to the preceptor, to a friend, to a humble person, to one who has done any good, to the poor, to the helpless and to distinguished persons, yields fruits. (15)

What is given as a present to a wicked person, to a panegyrist, to an ignorant wight, to a bad physician, to a liar, to a cheat, to a flatterer, to a wandering actor and to a thief, becomes fruitless. (16)

A small property, what is gained by begging, what is kept as a security, trust-money, a woman, a woman's personal property, what is inherited, whole estate and public property,—these nine articles should never be given away even in a calamity, if there is any living member in the family. That foolish wight who gives them away, is required to perform a penitential rite. (17—18)

The Goddess of Prosperity in this world and in the celestial region in the next, does not forsake a person who knows these groups of nine and performs the rites mentioned therein. (19)

Others should be looked upon as his own self by a person desiring for happiness. Happiness and sorrow are equal both unto one's ownself and unto others. (20)

Happiness or sorrow, which should be afforded unto others, would afterwards again arise in one's own self. (21)

No article is procurable without trouble. How can any religious rite be performed in the absence of [proper] articles? There is no religion in the absence of rites. And where is happiness in the absence of religion? (22)

All persons seek happiness; but that originates from religion. Therefore religion should always be carefully practised by all the castes. (23)

A rite for the next world should be performed by articles acquired by fair means. A gift should be duly made unto an accomplished person in proper time (24).

In making a gift, the particular fruit multiplies, in order, in equal number, twofold, thousandfold, and endlessly. Similar [is the fruit] in committing injury. (25)

Equal [is the fruit] when a gift is made unto a

Brāhmaṇa ;* a thousandfold, [when it is made unto] a preceptor ; and endless, [when it is made unto] one who has mastered the Védās. (26)

Not only that which one gives unto an unworthy person who neglects all injunctions, becomes futile, but the remaining virtue is also destroyed [thereby]. (27)

Finding out one who solicits a gift for preventing a calamity or for maintaining his relatives, one should make a gift ; otherwise it would yield no fruit. (28)

The virtue of a person, who establishes an orphan by performing the rite of investiture with the sacred thread, marriage, etc., for him, cannot be enumerated. (29)

The well-being, which is attained by a person for settling down a Vipra, is not acquired by an Agnihotra-, or an Agnisthoma-, rite. (30)

Whatever is greatly prized, whatever is the most favourite article in the house, should be given away unto a qualified person by one seeking an endless possession of all those articles. (31)

CHAPTER IV.

THE household of men has the wife for its root, if she follows the Védās ; there is none equal to the domestic mode of life, if a wife is under the control of her husband. (1)

* The Text has Brāhmaṇa Vruvé, i.e., one who pretends to be a Brāhmaṇa but neglects the duties of the caste. It is, however, curious how may the fruit be twofold in this case. But we have rendered the Text literally. Perhaps the Author means Brāhmaṇa-S'résṭhah.

With her, one reaps the fruits of the threefold objects of life, namely,—Dharma (Virtue), Artha (worldly profit) and Kāma (desire). If she follows her own will and is not curbed [by her husband] out of love, she becomes uncontrollable afterwards like unto a disease neglected. She who follows the will of her lord, does not give vent to evil words, is an expert, is chaste, speaks pleasant words, is protected by her own self and is devoted to her consort, is a goddess and not a woman. (2—4)

This world is like a celestial region unto him whose wife follows him obediently. It is like a hell unto him whose wife is against him. There is no doubt in it. (5)

Mutual attachment [between a husband and a wife], is rare even in the celestial region. There is nothing more painful than the fact that one is attached to, and another is unfavourably disposed towards, [the other]. (6)

The domestic mode of life is for happiness; and happiness is dependent on a wife in the house. She, who is humble, knows the mind and is under the control [of her husband],—is a [real] wife. (7)

Otherwise she always becomes miserable and disappointed. Disagreement of the mind always takes place when a person has a wife always going against him, and specially when he has two wives. (8)

All wives are like leeches. Even if daily gratified with ornaments, dresses and food, they never cease to extort a man. (9)

That small leecher merely sucks the blood while the other draws the wealth, property, flesh, energy, strength and the happiness of a man. (10)

In childhood, she always remains afraid ; in youth, she becomes disobedient ; and afterwards in old age, she considers her own husband as a servant. (11)

Obedient, unsullied by harsh speech, expert, chaste and devoted to her husband,—a wife, endued with all these accomplishments, is, forsooth, the Goddess of Prosperity personified (12)

She, who is always of a delighted mind, acquainted with the position and number of household articles, and always affords satisfaction unto her husband, is the [real] wife ; others are like decrepitude. (13)

Glory is for that person in this world, whose disciple, wife, little child, brothers, grown up son, servants and dependants are all humble. (14)

The first is the Dharmapatni (i.e., a wife helping in the acquisition of virtue) ; the second is for increasing lust. In the latter, originates the fruit that is seen, but not what is not seen (i.e., virtue). (15)

If she (i.e., the first wife) be freed from any shortcomings, she is called Dharmapatni. If she suffers from any defect, there would be no sin in accepting a second one [for as such], if she happens to be endued with accomplishments. (16)

He, who renounces, in youth, a wife who is free from any fault and is not degraded, will attain, after death, to womanhood and become barren. (17)

A woman who forsakes her poor or diseased husband, is repeatedly born either as a bitch, a vulture, or a shark. (18)

A woman, who, after the demise of her husband, ascends the funeral pyre, becomes of good conduct and lives gloriously in the celestial region. (19)

As a snake-catcher forcibly takes out a snake from a hole, so she, rescuing her husband [from hell, lives happily with him. (20)

CHAPTER V.

WHAT is pure and what is impure have been spoken of; [what is pure,] should be done; [and what is impure,] should be avoided by intelligent men. Wishing for your good, I shall speak a little on their significance. (1)

Care should always be bestowed on the purificatory rites. The purificatory rite has been described in the Smṛiti as the root of the twice-born. All the rites of a person, who is divorced from the purity of conduct, become futile. (2)

Purity is being spoken of as being twofold,—external and internal. It is said in the Smṛiti that external purity [is effected] by earth, water, etc. Purity of thought is internal [purity]. (3)

External purity is superior to impurity; and internal purity is superior to that (i.e., external purity). He who is pure in both (i.e., externally and internally), is [said to be] in a state of purity and no one else. (4)

Earth should be given once in the generative organ; thrice, in the anus; ten times, in the left palm; seven times, in both the palms; and thrice, on the feet. (5)

This is the purification, spoken of, for a householder; for [the followers of] the other three [orders], it is, in order, twofold, threefold and fourfold for the fourth [order]. (6)

The earth [that is to be applied to the] first (i.e., the generative organ) should be half-a-handful as described in the Smṛiti; for the second and the third, it has been described half of each. (7)

The earth with which three knots of a finger are filled up, has been described for being applied to the generative organ. This purification is for the householders. Twice as much is for the Brahmachārins (8)

Threefold is for the forest-recluses and fourfold for the Yatins. Water should be used as long as the earth is not washed off. (9)

Purification is effected by earth and water. There is no trouble nor [is there any] expenditure of money. His mind has been examined* who is lax in the matter of purification. (10)

This is the purification for the day-time. Another is laid down for the night. One method obtains for the Vipras at the time of calamity, and another when they are at ease. (11)

A half of the purification which is necessary in the day-time, is laid down for the night. Half of it, is for a diseased person; and a half of it, for him who is in a hurry to go in the middle of a road. (12)

More or less should not be done, in the matter of purification, by him who wishes for purity. There is no penance for the transgression of the established practice. (13)

* i.e., He who is not inclined to undergo the purifying process, for it is neither troublesome nor expensive.

CHAPTER VI.

I SHALL now describe, fully and in order of precedence, the impurity arising from birth or death, as well as that which lasts for life. (1)

Immediate purification,—one lasting for a day; those for two, three, four, ten, and twelve, days; that for a fortnight; that for a month; and that terminating with death;—these ten form the fixed time of impurity. I shall, in due order, describe them fully. (2—3)

He,—who is acquainted with the exposition of the Vēdās together with their Āṅgas (six auxiliaries), Kalpas (Codes of Law), and their Rahasya (their gnostic portions), and who performs the rites laid down therein,—suffers from no impurity. (4)

Immediate purification is laid down for kings, sacrificial priests, those initiated, children, for a death in a foreign country, for those engaged in a religious observance, and for those engaged in a sacrifice. (5)

One day is spoken of for him who maintains the Sacred Fire and studies the Vēdās. Two, three, and four days, are for those who are inferior and more inferior. (6)

A Brahmana, by caste, is purified in ten days; a Kshatriya, in twelve days; a Vais'ya, in fifteen days; and a S'ūdra, in a month. (7)

Perpetual impurity is spoken of for all of them, who, without bathing, offering oblations to the Fire and making gifts, partake of [their] meals. (8)

Perpetual impurity is for a diseased person, a miser, one laden with debts, one who does not perform religious rites, an illiterate person, and especially for a hen-pecked person. (9)

Daily impurity is for one who is addicted to gambling, etc., and for a dependant. The impurity of a person, who does not perform the S'rāddhas, ends with his ashes (i.e., death). (10)

Temporary impurity is not for them, but a lifelong one. Thus impurity, according to the differentiation of merits has been spoken of. (11)

If an impurity, consequent on birth, takes place with that of one arising from death; or if an impurity, originating from death, happens with that of birth—in a case of such a combined impurity, one is purified with [the end of the] impurity consequent on death. (12)

To make gifts, to accept presents, Homa and Vedic study are stopped in a state of impurity. A Vipra, conversant with sacrifices, deserves purification after the tenth day. (13)

Gifts should be duly made, for it saves one from inauspiciousness. If any impurity, consequent on death, takes place within the time of a similar one, and that arising from birth happens in the course of a like one,—in cases of such combined impurities, one is purified at the end of the previous one. In both the cases, within ten days, one should not partake of any food of the family [laden with such an impurity]. (14—15)

On the fourth day, the bones should be deposited by the twice-born. The touching of the limbs is laid down after the depositing of the bones. (16)

If one husband takes wives from all the castes in their natural order, then on the occasion of the childbirth, impurity extends over ten, six, three and one, days respectively. (17)

There would be no impurity, consequent on a birth or death, when a sacrifice is being performed, or a marriage is being solemnized, when there is a revolution in the country, or a Homa is being performed. (18)

All these impurities have been spoken of for the time, place and case. There is no impurity for a person who is visited with a calamity (19)

CHAPTER VII.

I SHALL now describe that Yoga by which the universe, the soul and the senses are brought under control. (1)

Prāṇāyāma (suspension of the breath Dhyāna (meditation), Pratyāhāra (withdrawal of the mind from external objects), Dhāraṇā (concentration), Tarka (abstract reasoning), and Samādhi (absorption of thought into the Supreme Spirit),—are called the six Angas (steps) of Yoga. (2)

Yoga does not consist in resorting to a forest; nor does it consist in thinking of many literary works; nor does Yoga is performed by religious observances, sacrifices and ascetic austerities. (3)

Yoga does not consist in taking any particular food or in fixing one's looks on the tip of the nose. Nor does it originate from the observance of purity, more than what is mentioned in the S'āstras. (4)

Nor is Yoga done by the abstention from speech, the recitation of the Mantrams and the clever performance of the many illusory feats. Sometimes Yoga is attained by one who has disassociated himself from worldly concerns. (5)

Yoga arises from strict concentration, practice, firm resolution, continued disgust in worldly affairs, and not by any other means. (6)

Yoga is accomplished by finding pleasure in the meditation of self, by the toy of purity and by the consideration of all creatures as equal and not by any other means (7)

He, who is devoted to self; who daily sports in self—who is given to the culture of self; who is always engaged in the meditation of self; who is by nature fond of self; who is contented; who has not his mind attached to any other object; and who is well-satisfied with self;—succeeds in attaining to Yoga. (8—9)

One should be engaged in Yoga even when asleep—specially when awake. In the Smṛiti, a person, who displays such an exertion, is described as the foremost of those conversant with Brahman. (10)

He, who does not see a self, is like unto Brahman. This is the deliverance of Dakṣha. (11)

The Yatin, who has his mind attached to worldly objects, does not attain to Mokṣa (liberation); therefore a Yogin should carefully renounce attachment for things earthly. (12)

Some say that the attachment of the senses to their objects is Yoga. Irreligion is accepted as religion by these ignorant people. (13)

Others say that the union of the mind and the soul is Yoga. These are greater dunces than the first, and are simply deprived of Yoga. (14)

By dis severing the mind from [all] its faculties and unifying the individual soul with the Supreme One, liberation is to be attained. This is spoken of as the highest Yoga. (15)

Attachment, stupefaction, distraction, bashfulness and fear, are spoken of as the operations of the mind. One should bring these under subjection. (16)

He, who has controlled the five ordinary senses together with the higher six (i.e., the mind) is incapable of being defeated by the Celestials, Asuras and the mankind. (17)

A hero is not spoken of as one, who has forcibly taken possession of another's kingdom: he, who has controlled all the senses, is described by the learned as a hero. (18)

By making all the senses, which run towards the external objects, operate internally, one should engage the mind in [the meditation of] the Atman (self) (19)

Being freed from all distracting thoughts, one should consign the individual soul to the Brāhmaṇa. This is Dhyāna,—this is Yoga; the remnant is nothing but the amplification of a book. (20)

Renouncing attachment for earthly objects, when the mind becomes steadied in the form of the power of the soul, it is called Samādhi. (21)

Temporary is the position that is attained by the unification of the four (vis., corporal body, subtile body individual soul and the Supreme Soul). But eternal, real, and unending is what is acquired by the union of the two (i.e., the individual soul and the Supreme Soul). (22)

It is a contradiction when what does not exist for all, is spoken of as existent. Therefore that does not exist in the heart of another. (23)

Brahma is to be known by one's own self, like cohabitation with a maiden. One, who is not a Yogin does not know (Brahman) ;—as one, born blind, does not know a pitcher. (24)

Brahma is completely knowable by him who daily

practises Yoga. The Eternal Para-Brahma is not ascertainable on account of subtleness. (25)

Like mental thoughts, the learned know It (Brahman) as one. Women and illiterate people consider it as manifold. (26)

Even the Celestials, who are possessed of Sattwa (harmonising tendency), are under the control of the object of the senses, what to speak of men in this respect who are under the influence of stupefaction and possessed of a very small portion of the Sattwa-guṇa. (27)

Therefore casting off the impurities of the mind, one should take up the staff [of a Yogin]; others cannot do it and become subject to the objects of the senses. (28)

The water, driven by the wind and converted into waves, does not stand still even for a moment. Therefore, one should not place confidence in any. (29)

Many persons drive their livelihood under the umbrage of a triple staff [i.e., of being a Sannyāsin]; he, who does not know Brahman, is not worthy of holding the triple staff. (30)

[A Yogin] should always preserve his Brahmacharyya [celibacy]. Sexual intercourse is of eight sorts:—vis., thinking of a woman, talking [about it], dalliance with a woman, looking [at a woman with an impure desire], speaking to her secretly, determination [for holding a sexual congress], persistent endeavour [for doing it] and the actual deed. The learned hold that these are the eight divisions of sexual intercourse. (31—32)

This should never be thought or spoken of, nor should it ever be done. One, who has mastered all these propensities, is a Yatin, and none else. (33)

Branding him as an outcaste, the king should speedily turn him, who, having adopted the life of mendicancy, does not observe its regulations, out of his kingdom. (34).

One [mendicant] is a Bhikṣhu; two are called Mithuna in the Smṛiti; three are called Grāma; and more than that, Nagara. (35)

A Nagara, Grāma, or a Mithuna should not be formed [by a Yatin]. By doing these three, a Yatin transgresses his own duty. (36)

If they would thus come to live together, their conversation would [naturally] tend towards begging, the king, the objects of their affection, slandering and jealousy. (37)

The exposition of the Scriptures for lucre and adoration, the collection of disciples and many other similar displays are [in vogue] amongst the bad ascetics (38)

Meditation, purification, begging alms, and always living in a solitary place,—these four are the duties of a Bhikṣhu. He must not follow the fifth. (39)

[A Bhikṣhu],—emaciated by ascetic austerities and the recitation of the Mantram, disabled by interruptions of health, age, infirmity or decrepitude; possessed by an evil planet, deranged in intellect—[may seek refuge in a house]. (40)

But a healthy and youthful Bhikṣhu cannot betake to a home-life; he would thereby vitiate that place and injure the learned. (41)

Such a healthy and youthful person destroys his Brahmacharyya; when Brahmacharyya is destroyed, his family also meets with destruction. (42)

If while living in a house, a Bhikṣu holds sexual intercourse then the root of the master of that house is cut off. (43)

What is the use of any other religious rite for him in whose house a Yatin finds shelter even for a moment? He becomes blessed thereby. (44)

Living even for one night, a Yatin consumes all the sins that are collected by a householder till his death. (45)

The three worlds, consisting of animate and inanimate creations, are fed by him who feeds a Yatin, laden with toil, in the order of hermitage, by the practices of Yoga. (46)

The country, in which a Yogin, well-versed in meditation, resides, becomes purified, what to speak of his relatives? (47)

The thought of dualism, monism, dualism-and-monism, no-dualism and no-monism, leads to the highest acquisition. (48)

Permeated by the thought of Brahman, one should neither think of one's self nor of his relationship with another. Obtaining such a stage, one comes by the most excellent station. (49)

Some firmly believe in dualism; and some, in monism. I would describe the firmly-formed tenets of the monists. (50)

If one sees a second object except the self, then he should study the S'āstras and listen to [the views contained] in innumerable books. (51)

The Vipras, who study the Institutes of Dakṣha, containing an account of the most excellent duties of all the orders as spoken of duly, repair to the celestial religion. (52)

Even if an inferior person studies and listens to it reverentially, he comes by son, grandson, animals and fame. (53)

If a twice-born person makes this Dharma Śāstra listened to by others at the time of a Śrāddha, it yields endless fruits and comes to the departed Manes. (54)

THE END.

S'A'TA'TAPA SAMHITA

CHAPTER I.

THE Mahápátakiṇs who do not perform the penitentiary rites, are born, after their sufferings in hell, with bodies disfigured with the signs [of their crimes]. (1)

The sin-indicating signs appear in every birth but, with the performance of the penitential rites and repentance [for the commission of the sins] they disappear. (2)

The marks of heinous crimes appear for seven births [consecutively]; those of the Upapátaks (minor sins), for five; and those of other sins, for three. (3)

The diseases, begotten of the iniquitous deeds of mankind, disappear with proper treatment. They are cured by the recitation of the Gāyatrī, adoration of the Celestials, performance of Homa and gifts. (4)

A sin, committed in a previous birth, assails people in the shape of a disease after the termination of the sufferings in a hell. It is dissipated by recitation etc., (5)

Leprosy, consumption, gonorrhœa, diarrhœa, obstruction in urination, stone, cough, dysentery, fistula, obstinate ulcers, inflammation of the glands, paralysis, loss of eyes,—these diseases, says the Smṛiti, originate from the perpetration of heinous crimes. (6—7)

Dropsy, liver, spleen, colic, ulcer, short-breathing, dyspepsia, fever, cold, forgetfulness, distraction of the senses, Galagraha (a kind of disease), bloody tumour, dry spreading itch, are the diseases begotten of minor sins ; convulsive fits, appearance of circular figures of various sizes on the body, trembling of the body, itches, elephantiasis, Poonḍarika (a kind of leprosy), and other diseases, originate from Unuṣṭa-sins. The diseases of mankind, heard by [the name of] piles, originate from Atipapa (heinous crimes). (8—10)

Various other diseases originate from the combination of sins. Their symptoms and penitentiary rites should be spoken of in due order. (11)

In Mahapatakas (gravest sins), [gifts] must be in full ; in minor offences, in half ; in other sins, one should give away a sixth, according to the nature of the disease and proportionate to one's power or otherwise. (12)

The general rule for making a gift of kine and other rites, is this :—In the gift of a cow, it should be of a good nature, with a calf and yielding milk. (13)

In the gift of a bull, it should be endued with auspicious marks and decorated with gold and a piece of white cloth. In the gift of earth, one should give away, unto the twice-born, lands of the measurement of ten Nivarttana. (14)

A Nivarttana consists of thirty rods, each rod being ten cubits [in length]. Ten Nivarttanas make one Gocharma. By making a gift [of such a piece of land], one lives gloriously in the celestial region. (15)

Where a hundred Nishkas (gold coins) are to be given away, gold, fifty or twenty Nishkas in quantity, [should be given] ; in the gift of a horse, one should present a quiet and good-looking animal, bedecked with ornaments. (16)

In the gift of a buffalo, one should give away a she-buffalo endued with a golden weapon. And in a great gift, one should give away an elephant with a golden fruit. (17)

In the adoration of a Deity, one should present a hundred thousand excellent flowers. In the matter of feeding the twice-born, one should offer sweet edibles unto a thousand Bráhmaṇás. (18)

After adoring the Holder of the Trident (S'iva) with a hundred thousand flowers, one should recite the Rudra-Mantram. One should recite the Rudra-Mantram eleven times. Having performed the tenth part of a Homa with oblations of clarified butter covered with Guggula (fragrant gum resin), one should perform A'bhisecchanam (sprinkling with water) with the Varuna-Mantram. In a S'ánti-(pacification) rite, one should pacify the goblins after pacifying the planets. (19—20)

In the gift of paddy, as laid down in the Smṛiti, good paddy of the quantity of a Khāra (a measure of grain equal to 16 Droṇas), or of six [should be given], and in the gift of cloth, two pieces of silk raiments with camphor [should be given]. (21)

Having made ten, five, eight, or four, good Bráhmaṇás seated, made up the San̥kalpa (determination) according to one's own desire, performed the adoration of Viṣṇu,—one should make presents of kine, according to one's might, unto the twice-born, after having decorated them, proportionate to one's means, with dresses and ornaments. (22—23)

One should then solicit from them, the due penance [for a sin] as punishable [by the king]. Then having duly performed the penitential rite with their permission, one should, again, for completing the same, properly adore the twice-born persons. Gratified, the Brâhmanâs should accord permission unto one who wishes to perform a religious rite. (24—25)

If the Brâhmanâs desire it, all the faults in the matter of recitation, or in austerity or sacrificial rites disappear. (26)

The Deities honour what the Brâhmanâs say. The Brâhmanâs are at one with all the Deities and their words never prove otherwise. (27)

Fasting, religious observance, pilgrimage, religious austerity, if all these are performed by the Vipras, complete becomes the fruit thereof. (28)

When the earthly deities (i.e., the Brâhmanâs) say that it is well-done, one should carry it on his head after saluting them. [Thereby] he reaps the fruit of an Agnisthoma-rite. (29)

The Brâhmanâs are the moving pilgrimages void of water and granting all desires. Persons suffering from the impurity [of sins], are purified by their word-like water. (30)

Having obtained their permission and received their blessings, one should, after feeding the twice-born according to one's might, take one's meals along with one's own kinsmen. (31)

CHAPTER II.

AFTER serving his term in hell, the destroyer of a Brâhmaṇa, is born afflicted with white leprosy. Therefore, for the expiation of that sin, one should perform a penitential rite. (1)

Five pitchers should be placed filled with five gems, five leaves and covered with a piece of white cloth. (2)

Earth collected from horse-stable, etc., should be placed into them ; they should be filled to the brim with sacred water and contain five bitters and various sorts of fruits. (3)

Sarvoushadī (sacred medicinal herbs) should be placed inside them. And they should be placed on each side by the twice-born. One should then place on the middle pitcher, a lotus of eight petals made of silver. (4)

On it, one should place the figure of the four-faced Deity Brahma, made of half-a-Pala of gold. (5)

With scents, flowers, incense, etc. the sacrificer, should duly adore it thrice daily with the Purushasūkta-Mantram. (6)

Thereupon the Brahmanas, observing celibacy, should gradually, recite their own Védās,—the Rig-Véda, and others, into the pitchers placed in the east and other quarters. (7)

Thereupon after propitiating the planets, one should perform the tenth part of a Homa on the middle pitcher with sesame and gold soaked with clarified butter. (8)

Having finished this rite, extending over twelve days, the foremost of the twice-born should sprinkle the sacrificer with water in the altar. (9)

Thereupon one should, proportionate to his means, present kine, lands, gold, sesame, etc., unto the twice-born. Unto the A'chāryya, he should give the idol. (10)

[He should say :—] “ O ye A'dityas, Vasus, Rudras, Vis'wadevas, Maruṭs, being gratified, do ye destroy my most terrible sin. (11)

Repeatedly reciting this Mantram with reverence, he should beg pardon from the A'châryya. By observing this regulation, one suffering from white-leprosy, becomes purified. (12)

The slayer of a cow, after his sufferings in a hell, is born as a leper. His redemption is as follows. He should place a pitcher filled with articles mentioned before. Its body should be pasted with red sandal, filled with red flowers and covered with a red cloth. Having thus made that pitcher red, he should place it in the south. (13—14)

He should then place on it a copper plate filled with powdered sesame; he should place on it the image of Yama, made with gold of the quantity of a Nishka. (15)

He should then adore it with the Purushasûkta-Mantram, [praying,—] "May my sin be dissipated." One, well-read in the Sâma-Vêda, should finish the recitation of the Saman near the pitcher. (16)

Having performed the tenth part of the Homa with mustard and Abhishêchanam (sprinkling with water) with the Pavamanisûkta, one should present, unto the A'chârya, the image of the King of Righteousness. (17)

"May Yama seated on a buffalo, with a dreadful rod in his hand, the presiding Deity of the south,—may he remove my sin." (18)

Having recited this Mantram, one should perform the Visarjjana-rite* He should then spend a month being filled with reverence and faith. The sin of the destruction of a Brâhmaṇa or a cow is dissipated by this penitential rite. (19)

* The life of a Deity is invoked in the image at the commencement of the worship; and at the end of it, the said life is said to be thrown into water. Visarjjana signifies "to throw off."

The destroyer of one's own father is born as an inert;—and that of mother, as a blind person, after undergoing the pangs of a hell. One should, therefore, duly perform the penitential rite. (20)

One should, according to directions, perform thirty Prajapatyas. After the termination of the rite, one should make a boat with gold, in quantity weighing a Pala. (21)

Then placing a pitcher made of silver, one should keep a copper plate on it. Then an image of the Deity (Vishnu), bearing the mystic mark of S'rivatsa, should be made of gold of the quantity of a Nishka. (22)

Covering it with a silk cloth, one should duly adore it. He should then present, unto a twice born person, the boat containing all the requisites. (23)

"O Vâsudêva, O lord of the universe, O thou stationed in all creatures, O thou the destroyer of the calamity of one who bows unto thee, do thou rescue me, who am sunk in the ocean of iniquity." (24)

Having recited this Mantram and saluted it, one should present it (i.e., the image) unto a Brâhmana; one should make presents unto other Brâhmanas proportionate to one's means. (25)

The destroyer of a sister is born as a deaf after the termination of sufferings in a hell. In the destruction of a brother, [one is born] as a dumb. The following is the redemption laid down in the Smriti. (26)

One should, for the expiation of the sin, perform a Chândrayana-rite. After the termination of this religious observance, one should make gift of a book with a golden fruit. (27)

Reciting the following Mantrams, one should throw off the image of the divine wife of Brahmâ—"O

Saraswati, O Mother of the universe, O presiding Goddess of the words of the Védās, O great Goddess, rescue me from the sin originating from the iniquitous deeds. A person, slaying a child, is born as one whose children die on birth. (28—29)

LIKHITA SĀMHITA'

SACRIFICE or other religious rites, and the digging of tanks, etc., shall be performed with care by a Brāhmaṇa. By Ishta (religious rite) one attains to the celestial region, and by Purṭta (digging of tanks, etc.,) one attains to emancipation. (1).

[Such a tank at least be excavated] that sacred water may lie on earth at least for a day; that, (i.e., a tank) in which the thirst of a cow is satisfied, rescues seven generations. (2)

By planting trees a mortal attains to those regions which are described [as being attainable] by the gift of lands or kine. (3)

He, who reexcavates and restores delapidated wells, tanks, lakes, and temples, reaps the fruits of Purṭta acts. (4)

Adoration of the sacred Fire, ascetic austerity, truthfulness, the protection of the Vēdas, hospitality, and the worship of the Vis'wadevās are spoken of as Ishta. (5)

The [three] twice-born castes have equal rights in both Ishta and Purṭta works. A S'udra is entitled to [perform] Purṭta [works] but not Vedic rites. (6)

As long as the bone of a man exists in the Ganges water for so many thousands of years he lives gloriously in the celestial region. (7)

One should offer libations of water in water unto the celestials and the Pitris. For those dead without going through the purificatory rites one should offer libations of water on land: (8)

The deceased, for whom a bull is let loose on the eleventh day, is released from the region of the dead, and goes to that of the Pitris. (9)

Many sons should be sought for; because one of them at least may happen to go to Gayá, or celebrate a horse-sacrifice, or dedicate a Neela bull. (10)

If one, after entering Beneres, leaves that place on any occasion and goes elsewhere, the Bhutas (spirits) laugh, striking their palms, amongst themselves. (11)

The person naming whom one offers a pinda at Gayás'iras, goes to the celestial region; if stationed in a hell; and attains to emancipation, if residing in the celestial region. (12)

One takes him, whether he be his own relative or an out-sider, to the eternal region of Brahman, by naming whom he offers a pinda at any place in the sacred shrine of Gayá. (13)

That which has a crimson colour, white hoops, tail and head, is called in the Smṛiti, a Neela bull. (14)

The first, twelve monthly, two six monthly and the annual, ones,—these are the sixteen S'rāddhas (15)

The Pisāchahood of the person, for whom these sixteen Ekoddhistha S'rāddhas are not performed, remains fixed even if a hundred [annual] S'rāddhas are offered. (16)

After the performance of the Sapindikaraṇ S'rāddha a twice-born person should perform, every year, the Ekoddhisthas on days of their death, separately for his father and mother. (17)

Every year, for the gratification of one's father and mother, one should perform a daiva (rite for the deities) and offer one pinda only (18)

On the last day of a month, on the two eclipses, on a Parva, and on Mahālaya three pindās should be offered, and one on the day of death. (19)

If a twice-born person performs the Pārvana S'rāddha neglecting the Ekoddhīstha, know that as fruitless; and he is known as the destroyer of his father. (20)

After the performance of the Sapīṇḍakaraṇ, [the annual S'rāddha] should be celebrated according to the Regulation of the Pārvana for him who dies on an Amāvasyā day in the Pitri fort-night (the dark half of Bhādrapada). (21)

[He who dies] after holding the triple staff, does not come by the condition of a pretā (deceased), on the eleventh day of his death a [S'rāddha] should be performed according to the Parvāna regulations. (22)

A twice-born person should offer daily a pitcher filled with water for him for whom a Sapīṇḍakaraṇ subsequent to the annual [S'rāddha] is laid down in the Smṛiti. (23)

On the day of her death, with one [pinda] a Sapīṇḍakaraṇ for a woman should be performed by her husband. It should be mixed with that for the paternal grand-mother. The latter living, it should be mixed with that for her mother-in-law, or grand-mother-in-law. This is the fixed rule. (24—25)

After the termination of the nuptial rite, and on the night of the fourth day, a woman becomes one with her husband, in a pinda, gotra (family), and impurity consequent upon births and deaths therein. (26)

At the seventh pada (foot-step)* after marriage a woman becomes divorced from his own family. Gifts, and the offering of pindas and water should be done [according to the regulation of] her husband's gotra (family). (27)

By taking the name of the two in every pinda it should be offered for the two mothers. Three pindas should be offered for the six. The giver, by doing so, does not become stupefied. (28)

Even if he be a Brāhmaṇa, conversant with Mantras; and affected by physical sins as well as those affecting a row (diners), still Yama calls him sinless; and such a person is the sanctifier of the row (29)

The residue of the oblation offered to the Fire, one should place in a Pitṛi vessel and distribute amongst the Pitṛis; he should never put it in a vessel for the Vis'wadevās. (30)

If a Vipra, who does maintain the Sacred Fire, performs a Pārvana S'rāddha, he should always perform fearlessly that for his ancestors in the maternal line. (31)

Ekoddishtha and not a Pārvana S'rāddha should be offered unto them, men or women who die sonless (32)

On the self same Tithi on which a twice-born person dies, gifts and the offering of funeral cakes and water should be made unto him. (33)

Birth-day ceremony and Abisheka (consecration by sprinkling water) should never be done in the redundant month. But the S'rāddha, preceding the annual one, may take place in the redundant month. (34)

That month is considered interdicted for every rite. In the other (i.e., pure) part of the month and in the same Tithi any rite may be performed. (35)

One may daily cook rice with the fire, kept in the house, or with an ordinary one. It is laid down that Homa should be performed in that fire with which rice is cooked. (36)

One should zealously offer oblations every day to the Vaidik and Laukika (ordinary) fire. By [offering oblations] to the Vaidika one attains to the celestial region, and those to the Laukika dissipate sins. (37)

He, who does not preserve the sacred fire, should offer oblations to the Fire reciting the S'akala Mantram preceded by Vyahroti, and then, distributing food amongst the Bhutas (evil spirits), should himself take meals. (38)

He should not touch the food so long the Brahmanas are not dismissed. He should then perform Griha-vali. This is the established religious ritual. (39)

Darbhas (grass), black antelope skins, Mantras, and Brahmanas, in particular, never become desecrated, so they may be employed repeatedly. (40)

A twice-born person should always, with a Kus'ā in his hand, drink water and rinse his mouth. It is not considered as sullied as the residue of his meals. This is always the regulation. A Kus'ā is as unsulliable as the hand. (41—42)

The blades of Kus'ā grass should be caught hold of with the left hand, and the mouth should be rinsed with the right. The ignorant, who do not retain Kus'ās in their left hands on the occasion, are supposed to rinse their mouths with blood. (43)

Kusa blades fastened with the waist-knot of a wearing cloth, or with the strings of a holy thread should be always regarded as unsullied, in as much as they are as pure as the body itself. (44)

Kus'ā blades in touch with the Piṇḍas dedicated to one's departed manes, or with any kind of excreted matter, as well as those used in offering libations of water to Pitris, should be rejected as unclean. (45)

One should practise Brāhmacharyam (absolute continence) on the occasion of celebrating a Pārvana or Ekoddishṭa S'rāddha, as well as in connection with celebrating the one which is undertaken with the sole object of propitiating one's departed manes. (46)

Oblations should be first given to one's departed manes on the mother's side, then to those on the father's side, and thereafter to those on the maternal grand-father's side,* in connection with the celebration of a Vridhhi S'rāddha (offerings made to one's departed manes on prosperous occasions such, as the birth of a son, etc.) (47)

Kratu and Dakṣha, Vasu and Satya, Kāla and Kāma, Dhuri and Lochana, and Pururavā and Madra-vasa, are, in couples, styled as Vishwadevās. (48)

May the mighty Vishwadevās, of illustrious fate, come, and grant us the boon in respect of the celebration of those S'rāddhas of which they have been respectively ordained to act as the presiding deities. (49)

Kratu and Dakṣha are the Vishwadevās, who should be invoked to preside over an Ishta S'rāddha ceremony. (A S'rāddha celebrated for the fruition of any earthly desire). Vasu and Satya are the Vishwadevās, who should be invoked in connection with a Deva S'rāddha (S'rāddha celebrated in honour of the gods.) Kāla and Kāma are the Vishwadevās, who should be addressed

* A Sāma Vēdi Brāhmaṇa need not make any offering to manes on his mother's side (Mātri pakṣha) in connection with a Vridhhi S'rāddha. This is the regulation :—Tr.

on the occasion of an Agni Kāryaya (oblation to the Fire god), Dhuri and Lochona in respect of Ambara Karyayam, and Pururavā and Madravasa in connection with a Parvana S'rāddha (the general ceremony of offering oblations to all the manes on days of Parvana such as, the new moon, etc.) (50)

A wise man should not wed a girl without an uterine (or step-brother) of her own and whose father's name is not known, apprehending lest she might have been previously given away as a Putrikā. (51)

"I give this daughter, who has got no uterine brother of her own, duly bedecked with ornaments, to you. The male child begotten on her person shall be a son of mine." The girl, who is thus given away, is called a Putrikā. (52)

The son begotten on a Putrikā daughter should first offer oblations to his mother, then to his mother's father, and then to his father's father. (53)

He, who feeds (offers oblations to) his departed manes in earthen vessels on the occasion of a S'rāddha, is consigned to hell in the company of the invited Brahmanas and the priest officiating at the ceremony. (54)

Earthen vessels may be substituted for other kinds of utensils, on the occasion, with the permission of the congregated Brahmanas, provided they be first smeared with clarified butter. Such earthen vessels are not impure. (55)

The departed manes of a person, who himself, having performed a S'rāddha, dines, that day, out of greed, in connection with another's S'rāddha-ceremony, stand deprived of oblations and libations of water, and come by a worse condition in the nether regions. (56)

The departed manes of a person, who himself having performed a S'rāddha, or having dined in connection with one done by another, travels, that day, more than a distance of one Krosha (two miles), eat dust for a whole month reckoned from that date. (57)

Having performed a S'rāddha ceremony, one should refrain from doing the following eight things, viz., eating a second time that day, travelling, carrying a weight, feading, sexual intercourse, giving or taking of any gift, and performance of a Homa. (58)

By travelling (under the circumstance) one is born as a horse in one's next birth; by eating a second meal, a crow; by doing any work, a slave; by knowing a wife, a hog. (59)

One should first drink a little water consecrated by ten times reciting the Sāvitri Mantra, and after that attend to one's daily Sandhyā rite. By so doing one is absolved from all sins incidental to doing forbidden acts [under the auspices of a S'rāddha ceremony]. (60)

An act of Japa, Homa, or gift-taking not performed by one in wet-clothes, or without covering one's knees, proves abortive (in respect of its religious merit.) (61)

A rite of Chāndrāyana penance should be practised before celebrating an A'dya S'rāddha; a Parāka Vrata, in connection with a monthly S'rāddha; a Taptā Krichchha Vrata in connection with the one which is practised at the close of every third week (Tripaksha) or of a complete month, or of the first six months of a year; a three night's fast, in connection with the one to be performed on the completion of the second-half of the year (Unabdhika); and one night's (one day and night) fast, in connection with the celebration of a

Sapindakarana ceremony (A S'rāddha ceremony, celebrated on the completion of a year from the date of the death of a deceased person, or earlier, if happens to be performed in connection with any special act such as, the marriage or Upanayana of any of his sons or daughters, etc., and which is supposed to liberate his spirit from the mansions of the Pretas). Unclean-ness incidental to an act of helping in the cremation of a dead body is removed by practising a Pāda Krichchha (quarter part of a Krichchha Vrata) penance for a month from the date of the cremation. (62—63)

A rite of S'raddha should not be performed unto the spirit of a suicide, nor of one, either dead through the curse of a Brāhmaṇa, or killed by a snake, lizard, or a fanged or horned animal (64)

By touching the corpse of a person killed by a cow, or a Brāhmaṇa, or dead from the effects of voluntary strangulation, a Brāhmaṇa is reborn as a cow, or a horse. The contact of such a dead body is interdicted. (65)

The cutter of a noose or of a chord of binding strings as well as the one guilty of incendiarism, should expiate his guilt by practising a Tapta Krichchha penance. This is ordained by the patriarch Manu. (66)

The performance of a Tapta Krichchha Vrata consists in living on a little warm water alone for the first three days; on a little warm milk alone for the second three days; on a little warm clarified butter alone for the third three days; and on air alone for the last, or fourth three days of the entire term of the penance. (67)

The man, in remembrance of (whose guilt), one, who has been robbed of a wife, field, house, cow, land, or gold, suffers self-immolation, should be regarded as a Brāhmaṇaghāti (Brahmanicide) (68)

There is atonement for the guilt of an abettor or accomplice of a ravisher of female chastity. The ravisher alone should be regarded as Brahmaghāti. (69)

By unwillingly partaking of boiled rice (lit. any kind of food) in a Chandala's house, as well as of that prepared by a fallen or degraded person, one should live on water alone for a fortnight. The term of the penance should be extended to a month in cases where the delinquency has been knowingly committed. (70)

The touch of a fallen yogin should be expiated by an ablution; that of the residue of the meals of the degraded by the performance of a Prajāpatya Vratam. (71)

Killing of a Brāhmaṇa, wine-drinking, theft of gold to the weight of more than eighty Ratis, and defiling one's preceptor's bed* are the four cardinal sins, the fifth being the one born of the company of such a sinful person (72)

By helping a sinner falling under any of the five preceding categories in matters of expiation, either out of affection, greed, fear, or ignorance, one commits the same sin as the sinner seeking such expiation. (73)

A Brāhmaṇa happening to touch before washing his mouth after eating another similarly circumstanced as himself, should bathe that moment and rinse his mouth with water, whereby he would be clean again. (74)

A man commits no sin by marrying before his elder brother's marriage where the latter is either a hunch-

* Guru-talpa—means the defiler of a preceptor's bed; but the scholiast interpretes the term as signifying an act of knowing one's step mother. —T.

back, dwarf, eunuch, or idiot, or is deaf, dumb born-blind, or of indistinct speech. (75)

On one's elder brother happening to loose his virility, or to have resorted to the practice of yoga, or to a life of asceticism, or to be degraded in life on account of a sojourn to a country a residence wherein is considered degrading (i.e., supposed to degrade a man in society), one is at liberty to marry even before the marriage of such an elder brother. (76)

A penitential rite, similar to that laid down in connection with an act of cow-killing, should be practised by one who sells horses or elephants for money, or mischievously fills up a tank or well, or fells or cuts down a tree. (77)

All the hairs of the body should be shaved in cases where a penance to the extent of a Pāda (quarter) measure would be found to be enjoined. In two Pādas or half penances, the penitent should shave his mustaches only; all the hairs of the head excepting the tuft on the crown, in three legged (Tripāda) or three quarter penances; and the hair of the entire head in full or four-footed ones. (78)

An act of ablution is the expiation for touching boiled rice prepared by a Chandāla; a Prājāpatya Vrata, for touching the remnants of his meal. (79)

A Prājāpatya Vrata is the penance for a Brāhmaṇa unwillingly drinking water out of a Chandāla's cup or water vessel, and vomiting or belching out the same immediately after drinking. (80)

A Krichchha sântāpana instead of a Prājāpapatya Vrata would be the expiatory penance in his case if the water is not ejected out of, and retained and digested in, the stomach. (81)

A Brahmana should practise a Krichchha Sāntāpana Vrata; a Kshatriya, a Prājāpatya Vrata; a Vaishya, a half Prājāpatya, and a S'udra, a quarter part of the last named penance. (82)

A woman in her periods, happening to be touched by a dog, hog, or crow, should observe a single night's fast, and regain her cleanness by taking Pañchagavyam (cowdung, cow's urine, cow milk, milkcurd and Ghṛita. (83)

A man by unintentionally touching a woman in her menses some where below her navel should instantaneously bathe. A three night's fast is the expiation in cases where the contact is intentional and at a part of the body above her umbilicus. (84)

The Sapindas of a male child, dead within ten days of its birth, are not affected by uncleanness incidental to the death; and no libations of water should be offered to its spirit in such a case. (85)

A birth-uncleanness (uncleanness due to the birth of a child in the family) occurring within the term of one due to a death (in the same family) should terminate with the latter. But a death-uncleanness, occurring within the term of a birth-uncleanness, does not abate with its extinction. Death-uncleanness is stronger than birth-uncleanness. (86)

Agnates related to a deceased person within sixth degree of consanguinity are unclean for one day, within the fifth degree of consanguinity, for seven days; and within the third degree of consanguinity for ten days only.* (87)

The period of uncleanness due to the death of a deceased Draḥmana without the consecrated fire (Niragni)

* Not followed by the Bengal School.—Tr.

should be counted from after the hour of his death, while that in respect of a Sāgnika Brāhmaṇa (with the consecrated fire) should be counted from after the cremation of his dead body. (88)

Raw meat, clarified butter, honey, and oils expressed out of the seeds of fruits (such as almond oil, etc.), kept in the vessel of another unclean person, become clean as soon as they are taken out of it. (89)

The dust, raised by the ends of a broomstick, and happening to defile the bathing or drinking water of a person kept in a vessel, or touching his bathing apparel, tends to destroy his religious merit on the moment of such contact or defilement. (90)

Ill luck (Alakṣmī) resides in the shade of a Kapiththa tree during the day, in the mixture of milk-curd and barley powder during the night, and constantly in the kernels of Amalaka fruit. (91)

One should perform three Homas and a hundred times recite the Gāyatri Mantram in connection with each act he thinks to be of evil augury. (92)
